Lines Drawn For Pay TV Battle

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Federal Communications Commission appears headed for bruising battles with two House committees over pay television and a controversial $2-billion broadcasting merger.

The House Small Business Committee already has launched preliminary studies of the FCC's approval earlier this year of the merger between American Broadcasting Companies Inc., and International Telephone & Telegraph Corp.

The House Commerce Committee appears poised to look into both the giant ABC-IT&T merger, biggest in broadcasting history, and a proposal being considered by the FCC to authorize pay television throughout the country.

Chairman Harley O. Staggers, D-W.Va., said today in an interview he has not yet decided whether the full committee or one of its subcommittees will look into the matter.

Staggers heads an investigations subcommittee, while Rep. Torgert H. MacDonald, D-Mass., heads a power and communications subcommittee with jurisdiction over FCC affairs.

The pay television issue erupted earlier this week when Rosel H. Hyde, the FCC chairman, told the Commerce Committee that a three-member commission subcommittee expected to report within a month on the proposal for nationwide pay-TV.

Staggers accused Hyde of trying to put pay television into effect without first trying to get consent of Congress.

"Maybe we better have some hearings next week and have you all up and see what your thinking is," he told Hyde.

The FCC chairman told Staggers the proposal would permit establishment of nationwide pay television, a question which has been before the FCC for nearly 15 years.

"This is amazing to me," said Staggers, "I think you are really trying to pull a fast one on the Congress and this nation."

He told Hyde and the six other commissioners: "You ought not to even put it out until this committee has a chance to look at what is going on."

"We would be happy to have the committee's views on the proposed rules," said another commissioner, Kenneth A. Cox.

Staggers was less definite when interviewed as to when the committee would look into the matter. MacDonald said he also was interested in the pay television issue, as well as the ABC-IT&T merger.

Allied Positions Shelled

SAIGON (AP) - Communist mortar attacks raked seven American and Vietnamese positions Wednesday night and today while Red gunners brought down three U.S. warplanes and one helicopter in North and South Vietnam.

Official spokesmen said nine Vietnamese civilians were killed in the mortar attacks, 38 U.S. soldiers were wounded and there were "heavy" casualties at a few isolated Vietnamese outposts.

Two American pilots were missing in the plane crashes while the third parachuted into the South China Sea and was rescued five minutes later by a helicopter.

One South Vietnamese pacification unit of about 50 men was hit hard in the delta.

The civilian dead and wounded included a number of women and children.

One Communist mortar attack also brought down a U.S. helicopter attempting to land at a highland clearing near Pleiku. U.S. casualties were not known yet in Saigon.

The mortar attacks followed the current Communist pattern of inflicting maximum casualties with long-range shelling and avoiding ground battle except where success seemed likely.

The weekly casualty toll announced by U.S. authorities reflected the Communist tactics, listing 175 U.S. dead and 892 wounded last week.

The total of American dead was about average for recent weeks but was 33 per cent more than the average at the same time last year, when far fewer U.S. troops were in Vietnam.

The weekly summary put the Communist death toll at 1,407 last week, somewhat lower than average.

A U.S. spokesman said that ground contact was infrequent Thursday except in Pleiku Province in the highlands where a brigade of the U.S. 4th Infantry Division was in a stiff fight with a shadowy Communist unit. It was in this action that the helicopter was brought down by mortar fire as it attempted to settle in to a landing zone in the highland brush.

UNITED NATION, N.Y. (AP)- Prince Sadruddin Aga Khan estimates that since 1961 more than 650,000 Africans have become refugees in aftermath of the march to independence by the new nations of Africa.

He is the U.N. High Commissioner for Refugees, and his office is aiding the refugees in eight African countries -- The Congo (Kinshasa), Central African Republic, Rwanda, Burundi, Uganda, Tanzania, Zambia and Senegal.

In a publication of his office devoted entirely to the plight of the refugees, he said they represent a serious problem calling for humane, practical and immediate solution adapted to "the realities of life in Africa."

The exodus was sparked by differences between tribal and social groups in the new countries, and by developments in areas still under colonial rule.

In some instances the populations of entire villages fled, taking with them all their belongings, including cattle. In the tradition of Africa hospitality, they were permitted to cross frontiers and given enough help to assure their immediate survival.

But in many areas, Sadruddin added, this was done at the cost of already limited food supplies on the local scene. This made outside aid essential, and it was rendered on an emergency basis by Sadruddin's office. He gave these details:

A major concern was to prevent incidents in border areas. To avert this, the refugees were moved a safe distance from the frontier and persuaded to remain.

While many refugees hoped for an eventual return to their homeland, this was impossible in most instances. They are taking up their old agricultural pursuits in new surroundings.

Aside from Rwanda and Burundi, which are overpopulated, most African countries have land of reasably good quality which has not been developed.

The first task has been to clear the land of virgin forest or bush, to destroy insects which carry malaria or sleeping sickness, and to build roads and install water supplies. The African countries and the Office of the High Commissioner cooperate in this endeavor, and they have the assistance also of other government and U.N. agencies.

Among the African countries, the Congo (former Belgian Congo) has the most refugees -- more than 300,000. Of these, 250,000 came from Portuguese Angola, 25,000 came from Rwanda and 40,000 from Sudan.

Uganda is next with 140,000. They include 70,000 from Rwanda, 45,000 from Sudan and 25,000 from the Congo. In one three-day period 7,000 Sudanese crossed the frontier with 16,000 head of infected cattle. The refugees had to be vaccinated and the cattle destroyed.

Burundi has 79,000 refugees, including 50,000 from Rwanda and 26,000 from the Congo. The Congolese look forward to returning home, but those from Rwanda will settle in their new home permanently.

The Central African Republic has 31,500, including 6,000 Congolese and more than 25,000 Sudanese. The latter include the entire population of one Sudanese region -- peasants with livestock, tribal chiefs, teachers and nurses among them.

Senegal has 55,000 refugees, practically all from Portuguese Guinea. An expert from Nationalist China is aiding them with a rice growing project at Diatouma.

Tanzania has 30,000 refugees, including 12,000 each from Rwanda and Mozambique. Zambia has 5,000, mostly from Mozambique with some from Angola.

Curtis Urges New Wheat Program

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Thomas B. Curtis, R-Mo., proposed today new federal programs for wheat and feed grains which he said will "permit the market system to work more effectively."

The legislation outlined by Curtis would repeal present subsidy and control programs in favor of a system of government-guaranteed loans for wheat and feed grain producers.

The American Farm Bureau Federation supports his plan, Curtis said.

The current balance of supply and demand for wheat and feed grains provides an ideal opportunity to eliminate subsidies and controls, he said in a statement.

He urged Congress to strip the administration of power to deal directly in grain markets by buying and selling crops, setting acreage allotments and marketing quotas and taxing millers to help support wheat prices.

Adoption of his plan in the last fiscal year would have saved the government $2 billion, Curtis said.

Under the proposal, the government would guarantee banks against losses suffered on loans to wheat and feed grain farmers up to 90 per cent of the expected value of their season's crop.

Curtis, one of four Congressional delegates to the current round of International Trade Negotiations in Geneva, Switzerland, said his proposal would reduce one of the major obstacles which has developed in the talks.

"World trade in most important agriculture products is impeded and confused by national economic policies," he said. "U.S. action to re-establish the conditions of the domestic marketplace in wheat and feed grains would prepare the way for more successful international efforts to improve marketplace conditions in world trade."

Wild Rivers Bill Introduced

JEFFERSON CITY AP -- A bill establishing the Ozark Wild Rivers Preservation System" was introduced in the House today but it no longer carried the sponsorship of the man who had worked hardest in preparing it.

The bill is designed to have the State Conservation Commission work to preserve "certain free-flowing streams or segments thereof and their adjoining natural shore environment for the permanent enjoyment of wilderness type recreation and for the further purpose of preserving certain outstanding recreational, scenic, ecological and other natural and physical features of unusual significance along these Ozark streams or segments thereof."

Rep. R. J. King, R-Clayton, minority floor leader, worked for many months on the plan, then took it to Gov. Warren E. Hearnes because he felt the Democratic administration would be interested, too.

Somewhere along the line it was decided it should be co-sponsored by Rep. Richard J. Rabbitt, D-St. Louis, the majority floor leader.

The Democrats had Rabbitt sign it first, making him a principal co-sponsor.

Then it was returned to King for his signature—in a second position. He signed a couple of the copies and suddenly realized that for all his work the Democrats were going to take the main credit.

So, he told the Associated Press, he crossed off his name and refused to be a sponsor.

The bill would include in the system these segments of the following Ozark streams:

The Eleven Point from Thomasville to the Arkansas line.

The Gasconade-Big Piney-Osage fork complex for stretches primarily in Casconade, Wright, Texas, Pulaska and Laclede counties.

The North Fork-Bryant Creek watershed primarily in Douglas County.

The Niangua River from Dallas County to Tunnel Dam.

The St. Francis-Big Creek-Little St. Francis complex in St. Francois, Wayne, Iron and Madison counties.

Big Sugar-Indian Creek complex in McDonald County.

Beaver Creek from Rome in Douglas County to Bull Shoals Lake.

The Upper Meramec-Huzzah-Courtois complex in Crawford and Washington counties.

Black River from highway 21 to Clearwater Reservoir.

Bull and Swan Creeks in Taney County.

James River from the U. S. 160 bridge to Galena.

The commission could acquire adjoining lands by purchase, condemnation or gift. It was estimated the cost over a period of years would be about $4.6 million.

Today was the last day for introduction of bills and they poured in.

As the House session continued it appeared there might be close to 900 House bills and well over 50 proposed constitutional amendments.

Among new measures were ones to:

Make the Jackson County sheriff turn in his fees and get a salary of $16,500 a year.

Key Role Falls on Bunker

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson is sending his top crisis diplomat, 72-year-old Ellsworth Bunker, to Vietnam to replace retiring ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge.

Bunker's immediate task will be to assure success of efforts already under way to form a new, constitutional South Vietnamese government.

The Lodge resignation and Bunker appointment, suddenly announced by Johnson Wednesday, were the most important changes in a far reaching shakeup of the U.S. Embassy staff in Saigon. No changeover date was announced, however.

The overhaul reportedly reflects a determination by the President to put new emphasis on trying to develop political stability in the South Vietnamese capital and to step up pacification of the war-ravaged countryside. Johnson is reported to consider both as vital fronts in the fight to defeat Communist conquest of the South.

Almost as Johnson talked, there were reports from Canadian Foreign Secretary Paul Martin and United Nations sources of fresh peace initiatives. Washington sources said they were aware of these developments but that no indication of change in Hanoi's policy had been received.

Johnson also announced that Gen. William C. Westmoreland's military command will be strengthened by "additional top flight military personnel — the best that the country has been able to provide." He promised intensive ground operations in the months ahead.

There is continuing speculation here that Westmoreland may be given a new Southeast Asia theater command, but Johnson made no mention of any such change in the course of his announcements during a speech at Nashville, Tenn.

The President is scheduled to fly to Guam, leaving Washington Saturday night, for a Vietnamese war conference which will bring together Bunker, Lodge, Westmoreland and other U.S. leaders involved in the conflict. South Vietnamese leaders including Premier Nguyen Cao Ky will also attend.

Despite denials from various official sources, Ambassador Lodge is known to have been interested for some months in relinquishing the Saigon post as soon as the President could find a replacement. He began his present tour of duty as ambassador in South Vietnam in August 1965. He had previously held the post from August 1963 to June 1964.

At a news conference last Thursday, Johnson was asked about reports Lodge wanted to resign and Johnson was looking for a successor.

"No, there is no truth that I am looking for a successor," said Johnson. "Ambassador Lodge has talked to me on several occasions that he, in due time, would leave his post."

The President's decision to accept his resignation at this time apparently triggered the series of moves which was made public Wednesday. In addition to the naming of Bunker and the promise of new officers for Westmoreland, these are:

Assignment of Eugene M. Locke, presently ambassador in Pakistan, to replace Deputy Ambassador William Porter, a career diplomat. Locke, 49, is a native of Dallas, Tex., a graduate of the University of Texas and Yale University. He was practicing law in Texas when the President made him ambassador to Pakistan last June.

Assignment of Robert Komer, Johnson's special assistant in charge of the Vietnamese pacification program, primarily to the embassy staff in Saigon to exercise firsthand direction over the operation designed to increase security, order and living standards in the towns and villages of South Vietnam.

Locke and Komer are also to attend the Guam meeting.

The selection of Bunker as successor to Lodge came as a surprise to official Washington, except for a few close associates of Johnson who are familiar with the very high opinion he has of Bunker as the man for dealing with severe foreign policy crises.

Associates said the President had been especially impressed with Bunker's skill in 1965 in patiently bringing together dissident political elements in the Dominican Republic and finally achieving formation of a government there.

His success in this enterprise made possible the subsequent withdrawal of U.S. and inter-American forces which had moved into the country following an outbreak of violent revolution in April 1965.

Administration officials said the President has complete confidence in Bunker and great respect for his experience in international affairs and for his judgment and skill as a negotiator.

Bunker won quick endorsement from senators familiar with his negotiating abilities. He was depicted as an agile technician who carries out White House policy without injecting his own opinions either publicly or privately.

Incumbents File In Parma Race

PARMA - The incumbents Carl Snider and Carl Sapp have filed for re-election to the board of education, Supt. Raymond Hoggard reports.

Each is running for a three-year term.

Filing date ends March 24 at 6 p.m.

The present $2.50 tax levy will remain. No bond issue is to be voted upon.

Madrid Has Two Races

NEW MADRID - Two members of the board of education will be elected April 4 for three-year terms. Incumbents are Louis Meyer, secretary, and Jay Blankenship.

No one has filed. Deadline for filing is 5 p.m. March 31.

Anderson Faces Speeding Charge

BOONVILLE (AP) - Missouri Atty. Gen. Norman Anderson will face a charge in Cooper County magistrate court of allegedly speeding 95 miles an hour last Feb. 25 on Interstate 70 in Cooper County. The state speed limit is 70.

Prosecuting Attorney Richard J. Blanck of Cooper County said in Boonville that Anderson had been given a summons by the Missouri Highway Patrol to appear in magistrate court Saturday, but it was necessary for the prosecutor to be out of town and the court appearance was postponed.

Blanck said the new appearance date may possibly be this Saturday.

Dexter Man Gets Public Service Post

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) - Gov. Warren E. Hearnes appointed Marvin Jones of Dexter Wednesday as a member of the Missouri Public Service Commission. He succeeds E. L. McClintock.

McClintock, 77, has been a member of the commission since 1945, the longest period any commissioner has ever served.

He is a native of Farmington, is a graduate of the University of Missouri School of Law and for 35 years was a resident of Cape Girardeau.

Jones, 45, is a native of Bernie and has practiced law at Dexter since 1958. He is an Air Force veteran of World War II and won his degree in law from the University of Missouri in 1950.

He became an attorney for the then Missouri Farmers Association insurance companies.

In 1958 he joined Clarence A. Powell in forming a Dexter law firm.

Jones is married and the father of three daughters. Like McClintock he is a Democrat.

Correction

Cletus R. Forrest, 611 East Kathleen, was arrested Saturday at the American Legion hall on charges of drunkenness and disturbing the peace. The complaint charging Forrest with misconduct at his home was served while he was at the American Legion hall. He was not accused of disturbing the peace there.

Two Injured In Collisions On Area Roads

Two injuries were reported in highway collisions by the state patrol.

The first was at 9:55 a.m. yesterday in Cardwell on route 25, when Fort Haddock, 55, driving a 1966 Ford, collided with a 1961 Chevrolet, driven by Florence Brown, 57. Both drivers were from Cardwell.

Haddock was cut on the nose and had a possible neck injury. He was arrested for careless and imprudent driving.

At 4:20 p.m. yesterday at the junction of I-55 and highway 61, three miles south of New Madrid, a GMC truck, driven by Matt Watkins, 32, Jackson, Miss., failed to stop and struck a 1959 Pontiac, driven by Charles Glasper, 17, Lilbourn.

Neither driver was injured.

At 3 a.m. today on highway 60, three miles east of Charleston, Edwin Hale, 57, East Prairie, received a broken leg in a collision with an International tractor trailer, driven by Thomas Swilley, 43, Shreveport, La.

Hale apparently went to sleep and crossed over the center line, striking the truck headon. He was taken to the Missouri Delta Community hospital.

He also was charged with failure to have his car under control.

Clyde H. Miller, 50, Clarkton, driving a 1960 Ford, was arrested for careless and reckless driving, when he attempted a U turn in Clarkton Wednesday at 2:10 p.m., and struck a 1962 Valiant, driven by Jeanette Pinkston Howell, 24, Malden.

Charleston Urged to Join State Program

CHARLESTON - Jerry Halsell, Blytheville, representative of the Ark-Mo Power Company, and Everett Lee of Jefferson City, a community development counselor, spoke on the five star community development program last night to the Chamber of Commerce.

President Charles Brink Jr., presided.

Halsell urged the Chamber to join in the state-wide program. He said that would give the city wide recognition and an opportunity to grow in industrial development.

Lee of the Missouri commerce and industrial development committee, outlined the program. He pointed out that industry is seeking locations where cities, both large and small, can offer advantages to workers and management.

POOR CHARLIE SAYS!
"COME, GENTLE SPRING!"

March 20th will be a welcome date. For on that day, Spring will come again. The precise moment will be 8:53 P.M., Eastern Standard Time.

In many parts of the country, this year's Spring will be greeted with even greater relief and enthusiasm than is usually the case. The winter which now nears its end has been a vicious one generally. There have been record or near-record snowstorms, freezes, gales and floods. But now these scourges are approaching their end.

Spring, every Spring, is the season of new life. All of nature burgeons. The trees put out their bright leaves, the flowers bud and bloom. Everywhere there is the sound of birds, safe and warm in their nests. The beings which live in the woods and the waters flourish and produce their young. And Spring brings a lift to the heart of man, whatever his problems and troubles may be. It is an inspirer of hope; a renewer of faith and purpose. It is, or should be, for all of us a time of beginnings. And one may pray that before this splendid season ends some new and meaningful rays of light will find their way into our troubled world.

Many years ago, the poet James Thomson wrote: "Come, gentle Spring! ethereal Mildness! come." It is a feeling that is universally shared.

JACKSON'S 200TH

"There are no necessary evils in government. Its evils exist only in its abuses. If it would confine itself to equal protection, and, as Heaven does its rains, shower its favors alike on the high and the low, the rich and the poor, it would be an unqualified blessing." - Andrew Jackson, Message Vetoing the Bank Bill, July 10, 1832.

The words are worth remembering as the nation prepares to observe the 200th anniversary of the birthday of Andrew Jackson, our first Democrat. A 10-cent Andrew Jackson stamp in the Prominent Americans regular series will be issued at Hermitage, Tenn., site of Old Hickory's home and burial place, on Wednesday, March 15. The date is a legal holiday in Tennessee, though not in Jackson's native South Carolina.

Jackson was suspicious of privilege. Though "Let the people rule" was his slogan, he at times supported more conservative policies against the expansionist West. He killed the Congressional caucus for nominating Presidential candidates and substituted the national convention in 1832, when he was reelected.

Jackson also was a noisy debater and duellist. He introduced the "spoils system." His toast on the Jefferson birthday celebration of 1830 rings down the years: "Our Federal Union: it must be preserved."

There is one standard for Congressmen and labor unions and another for the rest of the country.

But in the eyes of the American people Sen. Thomas J. Dodd, Connecticut Democrat, already has convicted himself of misconduct.

He is convicted because he has offered to return money given to him at testimonial dinners to those who were under the impression that the funds were to be used only for his political campaigns.

He has done it by testifying before a Senate investigating committee that income he received from testimonial dinners was a tax free gift to be used as he saw fit.

It may be that internal revenue service regulations do permit this double standard.

Any business man who thinks for a minute that he can charge off personal outlays as a business expense wouldn't live long in confusion. Internal revenue agents would swoop down on him and compel him to cough up more tax money with interest and possibly penalty.

Dodd may not be wealthy but he has been a free spender of money generously supplied by constituents.

Dodd has been described as a man whose testimonial dinners helped him put $94,870 into his personal bank account.

He has acknowledged that some of $170,000 from four of the dinners went to pay for home improvements, liquor, flowers, football tickets and other personal expenses as well as campaign funds.

Most of the money went to pay political debts, he insists, but his description of a political debt might not be the same as others.

There is no doubt but that he converted campaign funds to his own use. He now admits it. He offers to make restitution.

Dodd should be tossed out of the Senate but the committee investigating him should at least discipline him in some manner even though Congress is notorious for its own lack of ethics.

If Dodd isn't punished the Senate is going to be embarassed by the harsh treatment the House has given to Rep. Adam Clayton Powell, the world traveling and free loading Democrat from Harlem and Bimini.

The heat is on. May the fire burn so brightly that Congress, however reluctantly, will adopt a code of conduct for its own members.

The adoption of this code is far more important than what happens to either Dodd and Powell, who are just a couple of wretched congressmen who got caught.

"This 'holding' operation is likely to be far more important than any other single function of advertising," says Advertising Age magazine.

A four-year Starch study of national publications cited by the magazine shows that ad readership is about 40 percent higher among users than non-users. "The alert advertiser recognizes this," said the report.

Even newspapers do their own advertising to keep customers sold. "House of "shop" ads are run to interest people in buying and reading the newspaper. Good advertising is essential in these fast times, and in this respect, newspapers "practice what they preach."

A businessman who considers both new and old customers will try to keep old customers sold. This can only be done by selling "what you can do for him now," not "what you did for him yesterday." Consumers are interested in what they can purchase now, not what they purchased previously from a certain merchant.

Hometown newspapers are in an excellent position to keep customers shopping at a certain retailers store. Consistency is the secret of all successful advertising. The newspaper is the most consistent for reaching the local consumer.

City size has been proved to be a definite factor in advertising retention. Advertising recall declines as city size increases. Small local newspapers serve a specific clientelle and have a ready market of consumers.

And, more important, the advertising message is retained by old customers while it makes new friends for the retailer.

HUMAN EYE, MIND'S EYE WILL DIFFER

The human eye does not always see things as they are, the Catholic Digest relates. New York color psychologist Howard Ketcham, who has been influening human behavior with color for a quarter of a century, recommends that we take some sheets of paper of different colors: red, yellow, blue, green, black, and white. Now cut some gray paper into strips and lay a piece on each of the colored sheets. Even though we know that all the gray strips are exactly the same shade, no two of them will appear alike.

When we look at the red sheet the dominating idea in our mind's eye is red, and the shock of not finding red when we look at the gray strip causes a rebound of sensation. Because we expected red, the gray looks even less red than it is. It goes to the opposite extreme and seems slightly greenish, green being the complementary color of red. The gray strip on the green sheet looks slightly red. Each strip takes on the contrasting color to the underlying sheet.

HO'S THREE ACES

Ho Chi Minh lost a few chips as a result of recent bombings of supply areas near Hanoi and Haiphong. But he still holds at least three aces. They were handed to him by the same "dealers" in Uncle Sam's Potomac River "gambling palace," who have at long last allowed our pilots to hit a few really significant targets in North Vietnam.

Ace number 1: Ho and his cohorts are still assured a personal sanctuary. Defense Secretary McNamara said during his dramatic TV performance explaining the bombings: "Our objectives in South Vietnam are limited. Our objectives are not to destroy the Communist government of North Vietnam."

Ace number 2: In addition to the fact that he had lots of time beforehand to disperse supplies from those areas which were finally attacked, Ho apparently can count on some time for resupply and further dispersal, while the dealers in Washington wait, as they have said that they will, to see if he might now want to negotiate. Mr. McNamara said during his TV appearance that he intends to continue the same policy of "military restraint" he has followed in the past. That includes forbidding the mighty U.S. fleet to interfere with any ships hauling supplies into North Vietnam and allowing no air strikes in the North except when and as approved by the political croupiers in Washington.

Ace number 3: Ho's trump ace: According to present rules of the game, as set by the house (White House) manager himself, should the strikes in the North become more damaging than Ho wishes to bear, he needs only to agree to negotiate in order to get them stopped completely. At the same time, no condition has been set by the house manager that attacks by the Communist forces in South Vietnam must be stopped before Ho can play that trump ace.

Recent history also indicates that, so long as dealers like McNamara and Rusk are left in charge of the game, Ho Chi Minh can count on all his aces remaining playable.

NEW YORK (AP) — Parental remarks that teen-agers get tired of hearing:

"When I was your age, I knew the value of a dollar."

"For heaven's sake, Arnold, can't you even stand up straight? Maybe we'll have to get a board and prop you up like a tomato plant."

"I'm warning you for the last time that . . ."

"You're not going out of the house dressed like that, young lady, so you might as well take it off right now."

"Wait until your father gets home, young man. He'll hear about your behavior."

"From the size of this month's phone bill, Susan, I can only suspect you've been making long distance calls to the man in the moon."

"When I was your age, I walked three miles to school and thought nothing of it."

"You can have a car of your own anytime you want to, Arnold. All you have to do is get it the same way I got mine — by going out and earning it."

"Look at it this way, Susie — for every candy bar you eat now, sooner or later you'll get another pimple."

"What kind of college do you think will accept you with grades like these?"

"This will make you laugh, dear. Arnold said he has decided to grow a beard, and when I asked him, "what with?" he got mad."

"When I was your age, I never spoke like that to my parents. Why, I wouldn't have dared!"

"All kids are spoiled today — every last one of them."

"Your teeth are coming along just fine, Susan. But I think we'll have to leave these braces on for another few months at least."

"I could feed half of starving India with the food that girl leaves untouched on her plate."

"The only reason I can figure why teen-agers spend so much time on the phone is that they don't mind talking to each other — but can't stand looking at each other."

"Don't you think it is high time, young man, that you started to make up your mind what you want to do with your life?"

"When I was your age, I didn't expect anyone to hand me out an allowance."

"When I was your age. . . when I was your age . . . when I was your age . . ."

Washington Merry - Go - Round

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON -- Resourceful Rep. Charles McMathias, R-Md., picked out of the dusty files of the Eisenhower administration a resolution passed by both houses of congress July 11, 1958, which avery congressmn and his employees should read, including Sen. Tom Dodd, D-Conn.

It not only set up a code of ethics for government service but clearly specified that "all government servants" must "expose corruption wherever discovered."

The code definitely puts an obligation on the employees of senators and congressmen to report any wrongdoing by that senator or congressman -- which is exactly what the employees of Sen. Dodd finally did. Several of his staff had been with him a long time. Jim Boyd, his administrative assistant, had campaigned for him even before he joined his staff, helped him get elected. Most are, as Dodd, Catholics. He was their hero.

But when they saw what he was doing, gradually disillusioned, they finally decided they had to follow the code of ethics which they had learned as youngsters and which was restated in the long forgotten "code of ethics for government service" adopted in 1958.

DODD'S CHILDREN

There is nothing the taxpayers can provide that is too good for Sen. Dodd's six children.

He has put two of his boys on the senate payroll -- Jeremy at $125 and Tom Jr. at $120 a week. But all the children have charged meals, phone calls and other incidentals to his senate account.

When son Chris was attending Providence college, he made long - distance calls to girl friends around the country and charged them to the senate as official business.

The senator threw a gala wedding party for daughter Martha -- complete with a pheasant-and - champagne breakfast, full orchestra and wide - open bar at the fashionable Hartford club -- out of the proceeds of Dodd day, a political fund-raising held in Connecticut on October 26, 1963.

The gold - embossed wedding invitations were charged to his official senate stationery account. So was an expensive desk set which Martha gave her new husband as a birthday gift.

Dodd also happily shared with his children the free travel he was able to arrange for himself. Thomas O'Neil, board chairman of R. K. O. General, was one of several business tycoons who let the senator use their private planes.

For example, O'Neil sent his private aerojet to Washington on August 7, 1965, to pick up Tom Jr. and a friend. They were flown to Westerly, R. I., the closest airport to the Dodd country home in North Stonington, Conn.

Here the plane picked up the senator and flew him to New York City where he changed places with his daughter Carolyn who was whisked back to Westerly.

POLITICAL VS. PERSONAL FUNDS

Other bills run up by the Dodd children have been paid out of his political contributions -- arranging from snacks at the Congressional Country Club to Airline travel.

In 1963 Tom Jr. made a number of flights that were charged to the senate campaign, including trips from Washington to Akron, April 18 ($59.43); Washington to Asheville, June 26 ($68.36).

Dodd has freely used his senate influence to help his sons get ahead. He set up son Jeremy as an agent for Aetna Life and Casualty Company after blocking an investigation of the big insurance companies. The boy gave the insurance business a try but decided he liked it better on his father's government payroll.

When Tom Jr. brought home a "D" in a course at Georgetown University, the irate father ordered a check on the professor by the Senate Internal Security Subcommittee, which probes Communism.

Afterward, young Tom decided he wanted to travel in Latin America to do research on his doctorate. The senator obligingly got in touch with a right - wing benefactor, razor king Pat Frawley.

EASY WAY TO GET A PH.D.

"Dear Pat," wrote Dodd on January 26, 1965, "Tom is hoping to leave for Nicaragua in about three weeks, and he told me that you had expressed an interest in his trip and indicated that he might be able to do something for you while there which would help defray his expenses."

Possibly as a guid pro quo, the senator added: "I have already looked into the patent situation, and I will write another letter about it soon." This had to do with one of Frawley's patent problems with the government.

Frawley obligingly granted Tom Jr. a scholarship to study Latin America and put him up in his villa, the Casa Frawley, in Managua.

To help the boy with his doctorate, the senator got material out of state department files to send him. But young Tom had hit upon an even easier way. On March 21, he wrote to his father's senate office manager, Michael O'Hare:

"An important request. I would like a 25 - page or so report on the Central American Common Market -- with a bibliography. This report should be a brief review of the historical development in establishing the market and then a discussion of the ways in which the market has developed.

"I understand the reference service of the Library of Congress does this. Please have them start it soon, so I'll have it for class by the end of May."

When the enterprising student finally finished his doctoral dissertation, he sent it to his dad's senate office to be typed. For be typed. For five days in November, 1965, a secretary paid by the taxpayers typed the 30 - page dissertation.

H. L. Hunt Says

WHO WOULD LOSE MOST?

Discussions among persons who realize what a terrible threat communism poses to freedom sometimes turn to the question of who would lose most in case of a communist takeover in the United States.

It is not difficult to produce evidence, based on what has happened in countries already taken over by the communists, that this group or that group would stand to lose most in the event of the destruction of our republic form of government. Everybody can make his own list.

The list would certainly include the church, both clergy and congregations. Minorities would lose the protection afforded them in a constitutional republic. Businessmen who, carelessly, do not find any objections to the way our nation is headed, would be heavy losers. So would wage earners, the apathetic, ignorant and idle.

It becomes clear that little is to be gained from making a list of this kind. The truth is that in the transition from freedom to slavery, enforced by an elite ruling class, the loss to all Americans would soon become total and complete. There would be no winners.

Even members of the elite class who would seek to govern soon would become aware of their own position o. insecurity. As has been proved in the past, they would be subject to having their heads chopped off figuratively, sometimes literally.

This potential total loss by all is reason enough for freedom-loving Americans not to give up without a struggle. The hour is late to save freedom; too late for us not to make an all-out effort. HLH

Inside Labor

By Victor Riesel

Reuther Will Bolt AFL-CIO; Forge Political Alliance with Bob Kennedy

Atlantic City: -- For decades, labor history has tramped the boardwalk here. And now Walter Reuther has decided to jog along with it.

He has decided to take a fast walk right out of the AFL-CIO.

His intimates, gathered here at a cataclysmic and catalytic United Auto Workers skilled craftsmen conference, report that the auto union chief has definitely decided to take his massive union out of George Meany's coalition.

From now on, they say, it is merely a matter of timing -- and "Walter" is a master timer.

But as Reuther has thought it all out in his Fort Myers, Fla., retreat, he will not walk alone for long. He is, if anything, a man of imaginative political instincts.

And so he will attempt to forge a mighty labor- political alliance with Bob Kennedy.

But first things first. The exodus will come when the Reuther brothers believe they can hit with the most dramatic impact.

They are ready. They need but the technical approval of the "special" policy convention in late April.

They have alerted hundreds of local auto union leaders in New York, Illinois, Michigan and California.

Each will know how to move when Reuther, in an administration white paper, gives the signal by calling a special international executive board meeting any time after May 1st. Already some auto union councils are splitting from central and state AFL-CIO bodies.

Reuther may wait until he gets a contract with the big three auto companies -- and it will be a good one -- sometime in November after a tough strike.

Then his legions will march. And they are well equipped for the political and sociological wars.

His auto union is a massive federation within itself. It has a political arm in its Citizenship Councils; a welfare and senior citizens division in its Community Services and Retired Workers Dept.; civil rights machinery in a hundred cities, especially Chicago where it is tied into the Southern Christian Leadership Conference of Martin Luther King and the Coordinating Council of Community Organizations; and a global international department.

The UAW is the financial sponsor of the Citizens Crusade Against Poverty (CCAP) and is set for alliance with thousands of "working poor" units. The International union is in everything from anti-air pollution to medicare counseling centers.

It is, in effect, the mass sociological base needed by Sen. Robert Kennedy's national organization -- call this latter what you will, a "government in exile" or simply what it is, the Kennedy wing of the Democratic Party, historically a many-winged entity.

For Walter Reuther and Bob Kennedy, this means doing what comes naturally. They have been close friends for a long time.

Close collaboration began when Barry Goldwater demanded that the McClellan Committee probe the auto union. Reuther loved this. He dispatched his executive assistant, Jack Conway, to work with the committee's counsel, the young Bobby Kennedy.

From all this flowered a beautiful friendship. To this day Jack Conway is the liaison between Reuther and the Senator. To this day, "Walter" is American labor to Kennedy and his brain trust, Arthur Schlesinger Jr. and Co.

To this day the auto union envoy to the Kennedy forces is Walter's younger brother Victor.

To this day, the Reuther-Kennedy milieu share their lack of enthusiasm over Meany and the "old line" AFL-CIO unions.

To this day, the Reuther-Kennedy-Schlesinger disdain for the Federation hawks is one of the most common denominators of both camps.

To this day President Johnson and George Meany run neck and neck as butts for the inside jokes and outside blistering attacks by the Reuther-Kennedy policymakers.

Thus, it is not likely that Bob Kennedy ever could get mass support from American labor. So he needs a mass base -- and this Reuther might be able to supply in the big cities as well as on the agricultural front.

In the 1964 and 1966 campaigns, the national auto union concentrated its money and manpower on Kennedy candidates.

Of course, Walter Reuther looks ahead to a Bob Kennedy administration. The Detroiter has cut his conduits to a Johnson White House.

If Kennedy makes it in '68, so much the better for Reuther. But '72 would satisfy the auto union chief, too.

By that time, he will be 65 years old -- and in his last term as UAW president. What then? There is precedent.

Is not his old lawyer, Arthur Goldberg, the spokesman for the U.S.. before the eyes of the world in the United Nations? "Does not "Arthur" have as much influence on American foreign policy as Secretary of State Dean Rusk? Do not people talk of "Arthur" as the next Secretary of State?

Would such an arena not be the place for Walter Reuther's final conflict?

This is what some of those close to the "redhead" say his dreams are made of these days.

Mrs. Flem Kanan Whited III

Miss Dorothy Helen Brooks Weds Flem Kanan Whited III

KINGS PORT, TENN. - Miss Dorothy Helen Brooks became the bride of Flem Kanan Whited III, Jan. 22 at Broad Street Methodist church. Dr. Frank Porter and Dr. E.E. Wiley, minister of State Street Methodist church of Bristol, Va., performed the double ring ceremony at 2 p.m.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Edward Brooks Jr., of 1902 Lamont St. She is the granddaughter of Mrs. G. M. Greer of Sikeston, Mo., and the great-granddaughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Green B. Greer of Sikeston and the late Judge and Mrs. W. T. Marshall of Charleston, Mo.

The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Flem Kanan Whited Jr., 2004 Hermitage Dr.

Vows were exchanged before an altar centered with four tall cathedral candles flanked on either side by 14-branched candelabra. The candelabra were entwined with greenery and the foreground was interspersed with miniature boxwood trees.

White Grecian urns held arrangements of white gladoli and fuji chrysanthemums. A white kneeling bench and aisle cloth completed the altar decorations. Family pews were marked with white satin bows and white fuji mums.

A program of wedding music was presented by Mrs. Thomas W. Owens, organist.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a floor-length gown of angel skin peau de soie over taffeta and Chantilly lace. The fitted bodice of Chantilly lace featured a scalloped neckline and long sleeves ending in bridal points at the wrists.

The A-line skirt was complemented by a high rise waistline and a panel of lace dotted with seed pearls extending from the neckline to the hemline.

The back was made bouffant by a full circular watteau chapel-length train attached at the waist by a self-fabric bow. The bride's full-length veil of silk illusion was held in place by a crown of seed pearls.

She wore a pearl necklace, a gift of the groom and carried a handkerchief of heirloom lace that belonged to her maternal grandmother, Mrs. G. M. Greer.

She carried a cascade bouquet of white sweetheart roses, phalenopsis orchids, ivy, and white satin streamers.

Miss Greer Brooks, Winthrop College, Rock Hill, S. C., served her sister as maid of honor. Miss Becky Brooks, sister of the bride, was bridesmaid.

Their floor-length gowns were of pale aqua silk chiffon over aqua peau de soie. They featured scooped necklines and long sleeves. The gowns were complemented by a satin bow at the empire waistline.

They wore aqua satin accessories, and aqua satin bows held their shoulder-length bouffant veils in place. They carried cascade bouquets of pale yellow roses, daisy pompons and ivy.

The father of the groom served as best man. Ushers were Johnny Whited, cousin of the groom; Andy Brooks, brother of the bride; Tim Thayer, and Tony Drakos. Senior ushers were T. P. Gannaway, uncle of the bride; and Don Whited, uncle of the groom.

A reception, given by the bride's parents, followed the ceremony at the church. It was under the direction of Mrs. Gladys Porterfield and Miss Julia Peirce.

Mrs. Ivan King and Mrs. C.K. Koffman greeted guests, and Mrs. John Whited and Miss Hester Gannaway served at the bride's book. Cutting the bride's cake were Mrs. Don Reed and Miss Cynthia King.

Mrs. G. B. Greer, III, aunt of the bride, and Mrs. Mary Whited, aunt of the groom, Mrs. William Huff, cousin of the bride, and Mrs. Winston Tipton, cousin of the bride, served at the bridal table.

Mrs. Porterfield was assisted by Miss Gail Weissinger, Miss Pat Moss, Miss Cindy Peavler, Miss Sara King, Miss Jean Bockemuehl, Miss Ellen Backer, Miss Dawn Thayer, Miss Marcia Thayer and Miss Nancy Drakos. Mrs. T.P. Gannaway, presided at the receiving line.

For a wedding trip to Gatlinburg, the bride was attired in an imported wool costume suit of bright pink. She wore a deeper pink hat, white kid gloves, black patent shoes and purse, and a white orchid corsage.

The birde was graduated from Dobyns-Bennett high school and attended East Tennessee State University.

The groom, a Dobyns-Bennette graduate, attended the University of Tennessee and East Tennessee State University. He is serving with the air force and is stationed in England. Mrs. Whited joined her husband in England.

The rehearsal dinner for members of the bridal party and out-of-town guests was given at Ridgefield's Country Club by Mr. and Mrs. Tom Gannaway, Mr. and Mrs. Philip Shivell and Mr. and Mrs. Ivan King, all aunts and uncles of the bride.

Pre-nuptial parties included a coffee given at the home of Mrs. Lawrence Thayer by Mrs. Thayer, Mrs. David F. Whittmire, Mrs. John Whited, and Mrs. J. B. Morgan.

A tea was given by Harvey C. Brooks at his home, Allandale. Those assisting in serving were Mrs. Josephine Pratt, Mrs. Gilbert Gibbons, Mrs. George Wheeler, Mrs. Allan Dryden, Mrs. Carl Poole, Mrs. Tom Gannaway, Mrs. Philip Shivell, Mrs. Ivan King, Mrs. William Stone, Mrs. George Weissinger, Mrs. C. K. Koffman, Mrs. John Wimberly, Mrs. Clyde Starrett, Mrs. Thomas Owens, Mrs. Jack Sharpe, Mrs. Don Reed, Mrs. Tom Gannaway Jr., Miss Sara King and Miss Hester Gannaway.

A linen shower was given by Mrs. Charles Large, Mrs. Charles Large Jr., Mrs. Frank Rector, Mrs. J. D. Grills, and Mrs. S. E. Minnick.

A luncheon at Ridgefield's Country Club was given by Mrs. Joe Platt, Mrs. John Adams, Mrs. John Wimberly and Mrs. George Moss.

A luncheon was given by Mrs. H.D. Dale at her home.

Out-of-town guests included Mrs. G. M. Greer, grandmother of the bride; Mr. and Mrs. G. B. Greer III, aunt and uncle of the bride; Mr. and Mrs. William Huff, cousins of the bride; all from Sikeston, Mo., Mr. and Mrs. Winston Tipton, cousins of the bride; Tiptonville, Tenn., Mr. and Mrs. L. M. Bartee, aunt and uncle of the groom; Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Bartee, aunt and uncle of the groom; Mrs. Leon Valley, aunt of the groom; Mr. and Mrs. James Fletcher, cousins of the groom; all of Honaker, Va.; Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Range, Jonesboro, Tenn., Mr. Bill Mills, Spartanburg, S.C.

Cadettes Speak On Four Steps To Promotion

A program explaining the four challenges of a Girl Scout Cadette was presented by members of troop III Monday night at the monthly meeting of the Coalesce club at the Mid-Towner restaurant.

Mrs. Maurice Stauffer, troop leader, was in charge of the program.

The first challenge -- emergency preparedness -- was explained by Kathy Tenkhoff. Members of the troop worked on the first challenge last year, received a first aid badge and passed the first aid Red Cross course.

Marsha Fisher spoke on the second challenge -- social dependability. She stressed the need of understanding to appreciate people of all ages.

The troop will work on the challenge of citizenship next year, Sally Mitchell said. Members will become aware of their citizenship by birth or choice of state or nation. They will learn to recognize their rights and responsibilities as citizens of the U.S.

Patricia Huff closed the presentation with information on the final challenge - the girl scout promise. It is the final step toward becoming a first class girl scout. The challenge is for the girls to fully understand and apply the meaning of the promise daily.

Camping trips at Latonka Camp on Lake Wappapello were described by Jane Campbell.

1,251 Women Attend Second Ladies Fair

About 1,251 women attended both sessions of the second in a series of "Ladies Fair" programs sponsored by Wetterau Foods, Inc., sponsors of IGA food stores.

The program, a spring fashion show and dessert, featured professional models in a "Paper Doll Parade," showing paper dresses and accessories.

Harry Gibbs, representative of the George Savan advertising firm, St. Louis, was master of ceremonies.

Paper dresses were won during the afternoon show by Mrs. Wilson McDonald of Charleston, Mrs. A. P. Sargent, Mrs. W. Oscar Carroll, Mrs. A. J. Renner, Mrs. J. N. Walker and Mrs. Ruby Causey of Essex. Mrs. Carl Clayton was recipient of a transistor radio in the afteroon and Mrs. Ruth Watson of Charleston received a $100 gift certificate good for merchandise from any IGA store.

During the night session, Mrs. Joe Engram of Vanduser, Mrs. Mildred Vincent, Mrs. Joe Voelker, Mrs. C. R. Boswell of Oran, Dora Bishop, Mrs. Lucille McDonald and Ruth Wallace of Oran won paper dresses. Miss Ruth Ann Lumsden of Matthews received the radio and Miss Lois Miller won a gift certificate for $100 of wearing apparel.

The programs were at 1:30 p.m. and 7:30 p.m. at the armory.

Of Local Interest

Here from Friday until Sunday were Mr. and Mrs. Max Lathum and Angela of Carbondale, Kans., and Mr. and Mrs. Gary Lathum with Gary, Jr., of Trenton, Tenn. They were guests of their mother, Mrs. Maxine Lathum, and also visited their grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. O. L. Daugherty. Daugherty has been released from the hospital after four and a half weeks, but is recovering nicely. The two families had made this trip to Sikeston in order to attend the funeral of their grandfather, Steve Lathum, who was buried Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hileman and sons, Timmy and Chipper spent yesterday and today, in Paducah, Ky., visiting Mrs. Hileman's sister, Mrs. Talmadge Martin, her husband, and sons, David and Todd.

Please don't forget to call your locals in to Cherie, GR 1-0380. I know spring vacation is arriving and people will be visiting so don't be negligent, call me.

Spending Monday and Tuesday, in Kirkwood with her sister, Mrs. Robert Riley and family, were Mrs. Kenneth Dement. Mrs. Riley and her four children are expected to return the visit next Monday, and be guests of the Dements for at least three days.

Mrs. Betty Henderson will visit the Rev. James E. Smith and family in Alton, Ill., over the weekend.

Mrs. J. H. Skelton and granddaughter, Patty Skelton, and Mr. and Mrs. Harold Skelton spent Sunday with Mrs. Robert Greer, 205 Mill Row. Mrs. J. H. Skelton and Mrs. Greer are sisters.

Outlook Is For Lower Food Prices

NEW YORK (AP) — Sure'n the supermarkets are readying themselves for the wearin' o' the green this weekend.

There's corned beef for St. Patrick's Day celebrants on special in markets in the Northeast, Southeast and Midwest, and mounds of cabbage to go with it.

A price war is under way in St. Louis, Mo. The Kroger Co. fired the first salvo, announcing it was curring prices on 2,320 items. Spokesmen for three other chains said they would follow suit.

The outlook for the rest of the country is for prices lower than a year ago, when meat prices soared and fresh vegetables and fruits were high. Supplies are larger now.

First, there is plenty of beef this year. Beef cuts are being featured in the Midwest, and choice cuts are down 1 to 3 cents a pound in southern California.

Hog prices have dropped the lowest since the spring of 1965. There's a prospect of a 9 per cent increase in hog production.

A major supermarket chain in the New York area cut pork chops 30 cents a pound to 79 cents this week. Canned hams are piling up for Easter.

Broiler prices, down most of the winter, are inching up a bit. Egg prices, which have dropped sharply, are edging higher.

Turkey prices generally are much lower than a year ago. One big reason: 48 per cent more frozen turkey in storage.

Milk production has been gaining slightly over last year's low levels. As a result, prices may decline until June.

Farmers plan to raise the acreage they plant in major crop 7 per cent this year. If the weather is good, it could be the most bountiful harvest in American history — and some bargains in the supermarkets later this year.

Arthur Bernard Gives Conservation Program

Arthur Bernard, Scott county conservation agent, showed a film, "George Washington's River," to the Woman's club Tuesday. The film showed pollution of the Potomac River.

Mrs. H. G. Cathey, conservation chairman, introduced the program.

Mrs. Thatcher Scism, president, was in charge of the business meeting. An invitation from the Morley Study club to attend its meeting Friday at 2 p.m. was read.

Mrs. E. F. Weidemann announced her program for April in the fine arts department.

Devine's Assistants Remain For Coming Season

COLUMBIA - The seven-man staff of assistant football coaches at the University of Missouri has been reappointed by the Board of Curators for another year.

The appointments involve Albert J. Onofrio, Clay C. Cooper, John Kadlec, Robert Eugene Frala, Harry E. Smith, Keith Weber and Henry N. Kuhlmann, Coach Dan Devine said.

Devine requested that Smith, who was "borrowed" from the physical education faculty last September, continue on his football staff through the spring practice season. In the fall Smith will return to teaching of physical education, but will be a summer staff member in intercollegiate athletics.

All seven have titles of assistant football coach, with Smith also bearing an academic title of instructor in physical education.

Devine, in addition to serving as head football coach, will become director of athletics on July 1 with the retirement of Don Faurot.

Ben Johnson, 6-5 senior, of Hayti North dominated the voting by Pemiscot county coaches on this season's all-conference basketball team while in the adjoining county, Dunklin, Bill Chism, of Clarkton, a 6 ft. 1 inch junior and Mike Houchins, a 6 ft. 3 inch senior from Malden high school were unanimous choices.

Joining Johnson on the first team in Pemiscot county was teammate, Ben Watkins, Ed Maroney of North Pemiscot, Gary Coleman of South Pemiscot and junior Jim Prather of Caruthersville.

Hayti North dominated the teams, placing two on the second team. Mike Johnson and Sport Joy were awarded spots on the second team. Others named to the second squad were senior Billy Graham of Delta C-7 and juniors Lanny Tyler of South Pemiscot and Dennis Jernigan of Cooter.

Four of the 10 players named to the squad were juniors. Cooter's Jernigan and South Pemiscot's Tyler were the two smallest players named to the squad. Both are 5-8 and juniors. Smallest player named to the first team was 5-9 senior Ed Maroney.

DUNKLIN COUNTY

Joining Chism and Houchins on the first squad were John Boyd of Campbell, Gary Green of Senath-Hornersville and Dennis Nails of Holcomb.

Eight seniors won places on the first two teams while two juniors, one on each squad, were named.

Southland and Campbell dominated the second team with two players each named.

John Staggs and Jerry Smith were named to the second squad for Southland and Carl Ebbeston and Ken Foster of Campbell were named along with Holcomb's Rudy Wilson.

Smith was the lone junior on the second squad.

The three unanimous choice players, Houchins and Chism in Dunklin county and Ben Johnson in Pemiscot county all held averages over 22 points and were the county's leading scorers.

Kentucky's Pat Riley Drafted By Cowboys

NEW YORK (AP) — On the final day of the first combined draft by the National and American football leagues such stars as Jimmy Walker, Pat Riley and George Carter were picked.

If you say these three were basketball stars in college, you're right.

And if you also say such pro football players as All-NFL defensive back Cornell Green of Dallas played basketball instead of football in college, you're right again.

So, following the formula which has proved so successful in the cases of players like Green and his Dallas teammate Pete Gent, the pros selected Walker and several other basketball standouts Wednesday.

Walker, the All-American from Providence which fields no football team, was taken by New Orleans on the last pick of the 17th and final round.

The 25 NFL-AFL clubs drafted 262 players in the final 12 rounds after picking 133 Tuesday in the first five rounds.

Some college stars, strictly in [illegible]nesday included quarterback Terry Southall of Baylor, by Baltimore in the sixth round; quarterback Virgil Carter of Brigham Young, by Chicago in the sixth; Tulsa tackle Don Bandy by Washington in the sixth, and All-America defensive back Tom Beier of Miami, Fla. by Miami in the 10th.

One player also was signed — San Diego's first round pick, defensive tackle Ronald Billingsley of Wyoming.

Riley, the backcourt star from Kentucky, was selected by Dallas in the 11th round. Carter, the scoring star of St. Bonaventure, another school which shuns football, was picked in the 13th by Buffalo.

Walker was chosen as an end, Riley as a quarterback and Carter as a halfback.

Another well-known basketball player, big David Lattin of defending national champion Texas Western, was picked in the final round by Kansas City. However, Lattin is only a junior, and his selection undoubtedly will be voided.

Beginning with this year, there no longer is a future, or redshirt, draft.

Basketball wasn't the only other sport looked at in the search for talent, the world of track and field also was invaded.

Randy Matson of Texas A&M the world record holder in the shotput, was taken as a defensive tackle by Atlanta in the fifth round, and Tommie Smith of San Jose State, the world record holder in the 220-yard dash, was picked as a halfback by Los Angeles in the ninth round.

TORONTO (AP) - Dick Shatto, a longtime halfback with the Toronto Argonauts of the Canadian Football League, underwent surgery Wednesday to repair a damaged vertebrae in his neck.

Shatto, 34, retired after the 1965 season after playing 15 years for the Argonauts. He is a graduate of the University of Ken[illegible]

CARACAS, Venezuela (AP) - Top-seeded Tony Roche of Australia beat Ronald Barnes of Brazil 6-2, 6-1, Wednesday to reach the quarter-finals of the Altamira International Tennis Tournament.

MU's Vanatta Appointed Assistant Dean Of Students

COLUMBIA - Robert Vanatta, whose request for retirement as head basketball coach was announced this month, has been appointed assistant dean of students at the University of Missouri.

His new title was affirmed last week by the Board of Curators and was announced today by Chancellor John W. Schwada.

Vanatta, head coach in basketball for the Tigers since 1962, rounded out 25 years in te coaching profession this month. Norman Stewart, former Tiger all-American basketball and baseball player, has been appointed as his successor as basketball coach.

In his new position, Vanatta will work with Dr. Jack Matthews, dean of students, spending about half his time working on fraternity affairs and one-fourth time in general duties of aiding with administration of student affairs and activities and student conduct. He will retain an academic title of associate professor and teach physical education classes on a one-fourth time basis.

Illinois-Big Ten Showdown Saturday

CHICAGO AP - the University of Illinois, ordered to fire three coaches in its $21,000 slush fund scandal or face ouster, from the Big Ten, goes into the showdown Saturday playing its cards close to the chest.

"I won't be able to say until after Saturday's meeting," university President Dr. David D. Henry replied Wednesday when asked whether Illinois has a counterproposal to the Big Ten demand to fire the coaches. Dr. Henry has called the demand "too harsh," a viewpoint shared by Illinois Gov. Otto Kerner.

The meeting was requested by Dr. Henry and convened Wednesday by the Big Ten's commissioner, Bill Reed. Policy - making faculty representatives from the conference's nine other members will be present Saturday at the Chicago meeting.

Illinois must appeal by Friday the faculty group's March 3 mandate upholding a Feb. 22 action by Big Ten athletic directors. The directors at that time ordered the firing of head football Coach Pete Elliott, head basketball Coach Harry Combes and assistant basketball coach Howie Braun.

Five Illinois athletes were ruled permanently ineligible.

Giants Have Problem Pitcher---Marichal

A couple of veteran pitchers have discovered they have some problems, while the San Francisco Giants have discovered they have a problem pitcher.

The problem is Juan Marichal.

Giants' President Horace Stoneham said in Phoenix Wednesday that contract negotiations with the ace right-hander have reached an impasse "and it looks like we have a definite holdout on our hands."

The club said Marichal has been offered $100,000 and that he is asking $110,000.

"The next move is up to Juan," Stoneham said.

Marichal, 25-6 with a 2.23 earned run average last season, is in the Dominican Republic.

Whitey Ford and Don Drysdale had problems of a different nature Wednesday. Drysdale, making his first start of the season for the Los Angeles Dodgers, gave up five hits and a run in three innings at Vero Beach, Fla., and the St. Louis Cardinals took a 5-2 exhibition victory.

Ford, belted for nine hits in three innings the first time he worked this season, gave up singles to the first four men he faced at Fort Lauderdale. The little lefty regained the touch, however, retired the next 11 men he faced and started the New York Yankees to a 6-3 decision over Boston.

In the other exhibitions in Florida, Cincinnati beat the New York Mets 11-6 at St. Petersburg, Washington nipped Atlanta 2-1 in 11 innings at Pompano Beach, the Chicago White Sox stopped Pittsburgh 4-1 at Fort Myers, Houston edged Detroit 4-3 at Cocoa, Baltimore romped over Kansas City 11-4 at Miami and Minnesota shelled Philadelphia 14-1 at Orlando.

In Arizona, the Chicago Cubs defeated California 7-6 at Scottsdale and San Francisco edged Cleveland 3-2 in 10 innings at Phoenix.

The Cardinals rapped out 16 hits off Drysdale and his successors, with John Duffie the loser. A two-run single by Ed Spezio, off Duffie in the seventh, wrapped it up.

Steve Whitaker had a homer and two singles and Mickey Mantle a run-scoring double in support of Ford. The Yanks, now 5-1 in exhibitions, got four runs in the first inning.

Rookie second baseman Ron Carew led Minnesota's rout of the Phillies, driving in five runs with a homer and bases-loaded double.

Chicago Bulls Making Steps Toward Playoffs

The Chicago Bulls have taken a giant stride towards landing a spot in the NBA playoffs in their first season in the National Basketball Association.

The Bulls whipped the Detroit Pistons on the road Wednesday night 98-91 and moved into fourth place in the Western Division a half-game ahead of the now last-place Pistons.

The Bulls have two games left to play in the regular season ending Sunday, the Pistons three.

Jerry Sloan threw in 32 points to lead a second half Chicago rally that erased a 69-62 Detroit lead.

Baskets by Dave Bing, who led the Pistons with 28 points, pulled Detroit to within three points before the Bulls sewed it up on a 20-foot jumper by Jerry Ward with 45 seconds to go.

Cincinnati broke a tie with the New York Knicks for third place in the Eastern Division. The Royals beat the Boston Celtics at home 112-108 while the Knicks lost on the road to the Baltimore Bullets 121-114.

Philadelphia came from behind in the second half to rout Los Angeles on the road 138-123 in the other NBA game scheduled Wednesday. The 76ers played the second half without Wilt Chamberlain. He was ejected for unsportsmanlike conduct with 75 seconds left in the first half.

Oscar Robertson's 31 points, including two free throws that insured the victory in the closing seconds, paced the Royals to their first conquest of the Celtics this season.

Kevin Loughery, with 29 points, led Baltimore over the Knicks. Two of his 11 free throws helped pull the Bullets out of danger after the Knicks had rallied to within 109-105. Walt Bellamy, with 32 points and 22 rebounds, paced the Knicks.

Billy Cunningham, with 31 points, and Hal Greer, with 29, led the second half attack for Philadelphia after the 76ers trailed at halftime 69-68. It was the 66th victory against only 12 defeats for the Eastern Division champs. Gail Goodrich's 26 points was high for the Lakers.

Questions In Yankee Spring Camp

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP) — Can a rookie first baseman lead the New York Yankees out of the American League cellar?

Can the rookie play first base?

Manager Ralph Houk, who stood by helplessly as the Yankees tumbled into the cellar last year with a thud heard round the baseball world, is waiting patiently to find out if Mickey Mantle can play the new position.

Houk feels much of the team's success depends on whether he can.

Mantle, an outfielder for 16 years, has switched positions with Joe Pepitone because Houk feels Pepitone's presence in center field will stabilize the outfield and playing first could help Mantle save his battered legs.

The question of whether the 35-year-old Mantle can play first is being answered in spring training. If player or manager doesn't like how the experiment is progressing, he can end it immediately, and Pepitone will move back to first.

There's no doubt that Mantle still is better than most hitters in the league, and there's no doubt the Yankees need his bat in the line-up. They don't have too many others.

Pepitone took over the role of slugging leader last season when he hit 31 homers and drove in 83 runs. He'll also be one of the better defensive center fielders in the league and will be well supported on either side in the outfield.

Tom Tresh, who divided his time between the infield and the outfield last year, is set for left field while Houk plans on splitting right field between rookies Steve Whitaker, against right-handed pitchers, and Bill Robinson, against southpaws.

Robinson is the 23-year-old hopeful for whom the Yankees traded third baseman Clete Boyer to Atlanta. Boyer's departure left New York without any of its regular 1966 infields back for this season.

Second baseman Bobby Richardson retired, and Horace Clarke, who played a lot of shortstop, was out of position.

Clarke has returned to second, Ruben Amaro is the shortstop and Charley Smith, acquired from the Cards for Roger Maris, will be at third.

The Giant Killers of Southern Illinois, college basketball's latest cinderella team, go after their 18th straight victory against Rutgers in the semifinals of the National Invitational Tournament tonight.

A capacity turnout of 18,000 is expected at New York's Madison Square Garden to watch the Salukis from Carbondale, Ill., play the Scarlet Knights from New Brunswick, N.J., in the feature of a doubleheader. Marshall University's Thundering Herd from Huntington, W. Va., face the Marquette Warriors from Milwaukee in the opening NIT semifinal.

Southern Illinois, which passed up the NCAA national small college tourney to go after the big boys in the NIT, whipped the St. Peter's Peacocks and the Duke Blue Devils in their first two tourney games.

Rutgers upset Utah State and New Mexico to reach the semis. Marshall put out Villanova and Nebraska while Marquette surprised Tulsa and Providence to reach the round of four.

Waiting in the wings for the NIT finalists to be decided is unbeaten UCLA, the country's No. 1 team.

The Bruins and their supersophomore, Lew Alcindor, strive for their 27th straight vic tory against Wyoming Friday night in one of eight second-round games at four regional sties in the NCAA tournament for the national championship.

UCLA and Wyoming meet at Corvallis, Ore., in the Far West regional doubleheader. U. of Pacific, with a 20-game winning streak, battles Texas Western, the defending champion, in the other half of the twin bill at Corvallis.

The NCAA East regional doubleheader at College Park, Md., pairs Princeton against North Carolina and Boston College against St. John's of New York.

Tennessee battles Dayton and Indiana takes on Virginia Tech in the Mideast Regional at Evanston, Ill.

In the Midwest Regional at Lawrence, Kan., it's Southern Methodist vs. Louisville and Kansas vs. Houston.

Kentucky Wesleyan, which beat Southern Illinois last year in the final of the NCAA small college championship tournament, continued its drive Wednesday night for a second straight title. The Panthers whipped Cheyney Pa., State 66-53 in the quarter-finals at Evansvile, Ind.

Winston-Salem State beat Long Island 62-54, Southwest Missouri defeated Valparaiso 86-72 and Illinois State went three overtimes before eliminating San Diego State 77-76 in the other quarter - finals.

Earl Monroe threw in 29 points for Winston-Salem for a season scoring record of 1,265. It wiped out the mark of 1,255 set by Bevo Francis of Rio Grande, Ohio, in 1954.

Kentucky Wesleyan battles Winston-Salem and Southwest Missouri tangles with Illinois State in the semifinals tonight.

Top-seeded St. Benedicts beat Southern, Ark., State 67-56 and Oklahoma Baptist, the defending champion, defeated Valdosta, Ga., State 70-62 to show the way into the quarter-finals of the NAIA national tournament at Kansas City.

Three Rivers Open House Is May 7

POPLAR BLUFF -- A public open house at Three Rivers Junior College has been set for 2 p.m., May 7, and employment of the college administration and faculty is complete, with one exception, according to President H. Tudor Westover.

Still open is the post of foreign language instructor, Dr. Westover said.

The college summer session will open June 8 with about 100 students expected. A 300-student enrollment is foreseen for the fall term opening on Sept. 6, according to Mabel Swindel, dean of students and registrar.

The open house will last for three hours and officials say that building renovations and classroom furnishings are expected to be nearing completion by that date. The new college is housed in the old Poplar Bluff High School Building at 507 Vine St.

In commenting on the qualifications of the school's faculty, Dr. Jack D. Vincent, dean of college, said he considered them to be an outstanding group of instructors. All possess a minimum of a masters degree in the subject taught, and most have had substantial successful teaching experience, Dr. Vincent said.

April 11 "Deadline" For Cassius

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Come April 11, it will be Pvt. Cassius Clay, U.S. Army — maybe.

The heavyweight champion, turned down by a presidential appeals board in his efforts to remain a civilian, has been ordered to report for induction on that date.

Clay's attorneys had anticipated the decision, however, and before the induction order was made public, they had begun a new legal action.

They filed suit in U.S. District Court alleging racial discrimination by Local Board 47, Clay's Louisville draft board, and by all other Kentucky draft boards because of a racial imbalance in their makeup.

Judge James F. Gordon set March 29 for hearing arguments on whether to name a three-judge panel to hear the suit, but he refused to issue a temporary restraining order barring Clay's induction. The suit asks for a permanent injunction.

J. Allen Sherman, chairman of the local board, said he had received word Tuesday that the appeals board had turned down Clay's request for deferment as a Black Muslim minister. He said the induction notice had gone out the same day.

But Clay apparently didn't know about it until reporters told him. He is in New York training for his March 22 title defense against Zora Folley.

"If what you say is true, this is gonna be my last fight," he said. "All those people who want to see the greatest heavyweight who ever lived better come to see me now."

The usually loquacious fighter visibly shaken, added, "I don't want to say any more. I don't want to talk to nobody. I'm gonna go see a movie and think about things."

Sherman denied that there is any racial discrimination by his board. He noted that one member, Robert Terry Downs, is a Negro. Downs' wife said he recently was appointed to the local board.

ANN LANDERS

Answers Your Questions

Dear Ann Landers: Every now and then you hit me between the eyes. You did it again yesterday when you wrote: "Some people get nothing out of therapy but big doctor bills. Others find a whole new life."

Can you tell me why this is so? I went to a psychiatrist for three months and could see no sign of progress. When I told the doctor how discouraged I was he said my attitude toward the sessions was poor and he could do nothing more for me. So I stopped going.

Now I feel I have failed again. Please tell me, Ann, why does therapy work for some people and not for others? - A LANDERS FAN

Dear Fan: Everywhere we look we find mediocrity - and less. This goes for lawyers, carpenters, hairdressers, surgeons, writers, artists, stenographers - the list is endless. Why then expect all psychiatrists to be splendid? I can tell you they are not.

Moreover, it is unrealistic to assume that every psychiatrist will click with every patient. A psychiatrist is a human being with aggressions and irritabilities and, yes - problems. If he is a competent therapist he will recognize the patients with whom he cannot establish a good relationship and turn them over to a colleague.

Your psychiatrist should not have let you go without giving some clue as to WHY you produce such a sense of hopelessness in other people (including him). My advice is to try another therapist. I have known individuals who did poorly with the first two psychiatrists but the third one produced the miracle.

Dear Ann Landers: What can a mother do when she sees her fourteen-year-old daughter making the same mistakes she made when she was fourteen?

Marnie was born out of wedlock. I was a wild, unmanagable runabout who got into every kind of trouble you can name. I wouldn't listen to anybody. I was terribly lucky to meet a saint of a man who loved me enought to forgive my past. I hope and pray Marnie will be as lucky as I was, but until she settles down I am afraid I'll lose my mind.

I've talked to Marnie many times, telling her of my own experiences, and I've begged her to learn from them. I might just as well talk to the wall.

She came home last night dead drunk. Her clothes were a mess and she wasn't making any sense. It was a miracle she remembered where she lived and which bus to take.

If you have any advice for me I would appreciate it very much - HISTORY REPEATING ITSELF.

Dear History: Get some outside help for Marnie immediately. A fourteen-year-old who comes home dead drunk is clearly out of control. Getting her on the right track will require the guidance of someone with whom she has no emotional attachment.

Confidential to Do You Believe In Luck? Of course I believe in luck. How else can you explain the success of people you don't like?

If you have trouble getting along with your parents...if you can't get them to let you live your own life, send for Ann Landers' booklet, "Bugged By Parents? How to Get More Freedom." Send 50¢ in coin with your request and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Fowler Speaks At Columbia

Jim Fowler, a senior at Richland high school spoke at a noon luncheon as 19 teenagers from 12 Missouri counties attended the state Youthpower Congress Saturday, March 4, in Columbia.

Fowler, who was recently announced state follow-up winner for Youthpower, presented an imaginary radio program aimed at better nutritional habits. In his presentation, Fowler, interviewed teenagers whom he created with a change of his voice and facial expression. He took the luncheon group on a humorous nutritional tour of Columbia via his speech.

He used posters and bulletin boards in telling his story.

Priest Tells Club of Ireland

The Rev. Fr. Justin Monahan, a native of Ireland, spoke to the Kiwanis club at its regular meeting Tuesday at the Rustic Rock Inn.

Father Monahan compared life in Ireland with life in the United States.

Buford Baber presided.

Woodard in Cape

Wayne Woodard, chairman of the Scott county crusade of the American Cancer Society, attended a meeting in preparation for the April Cancer Crusade Tuesday in Cape Girardeau.

I will give you counsel and God be with you.— (Exod. 18-19)

God is everywhere. His light is shining on our path. His life is present with us as a healing power. Wherever we go we are inside the circle of God's love. He is with us to help meet our every need—to strengthen us when we need strength and to sustain us when we need to be sustained. He is in charge of our actions and reactions. He is in charge of our lives.

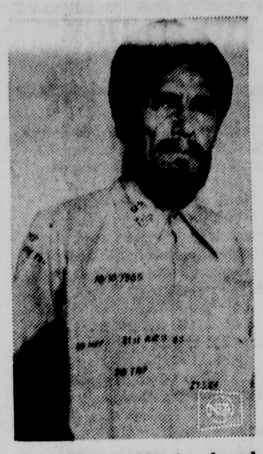
SUPPORTING ROLES. Lew Alcindor is a devastating weapon for UCLA because the opposition cannot relax one moment against the other starters, who would be stars on any other team. They include, from left, Lucius Allen (top), Lynn Shackelford (bottom), Mike Warren and Kenny Heitz.



PAJAMA GAME is played with a purpose by Puran Singh in India, who has a grievance to his government written on his garment. Hoodlums stole the carpenter's tools and meager earnings in 1955, but, he says, "No police official listened to me." In protest, he has trekked 900 miles annually since then to New Delhi in attempts to get an interview with the prime minister.

THESE HANDS are the way artist Carl Christian Mose sees the batting grip that enabled Stan Musial to set many major league baseball records. The hands may be O.K., but Stan is unhappy with the entire bronze statue, which will be placed in the new Busch Memorial Stadium of St. Louis when completed. He says the batting stance is too straight, not showing his famous wiggle-hip crouch.

THE BIG EXPERIMENT is underway as superstar Mickey Mantle tries out his first baseman's glove in the New York Yankee Florida training camp. The Yanks' management hopes moving the injury-prone slugger from the outfield to first will prolong his career.

POLO ANYONE? Cassius Clay takes a break from his training routine to learn about a new sport.

ACHES AND PAINS are common to major league ballplayers during the early stages of spring training, so this locker room scene at the Atlanta Braves camp in West Palm Beach, Fla., is typical. Pitcher Denny Lemaster is in front, while catcher Gene Oliver, left, and pitcher Bob Bruce stretch out on the rubbing tables.

A BROKEN FOOT suffered during practice may have changed the cheerleading style somewhat for Linda Joyce, 19, of Northwestern University at Evanston, Ill., but it didn't keep her out of action. It even added color to her outfit, after she covered the cast with stripes to match her sweater.

DODGER-GIANT RIVALRIES are classic in the National League, but there's more friendliness on the part of the Dodgers when the Giants come from Tokyo instead of San Francisco. Los Angeles' $100,000 pitcher, Don Drysdale, gives a form lesson to Shaici Kaneda. The teams are training at Vero Beach, Fla.

CULTIVATING the best in young players is the job of major league baseball managers in the spring. At least Red Schoendienst of the St. Louis Cards has the right equipment for it. The tractor is used to haul around the batting cage.

AT LONG LAST, Red Ruffing has his "dream come true" of being elected to baseball's Hall of Fame. The 62-year-old former New York Yankee pitcher made it after being on the Baseball Writers Association ballot 19 times. Ruffing, the 107th member of the shrine, won 273 games in 23 seasons with the Yanks.

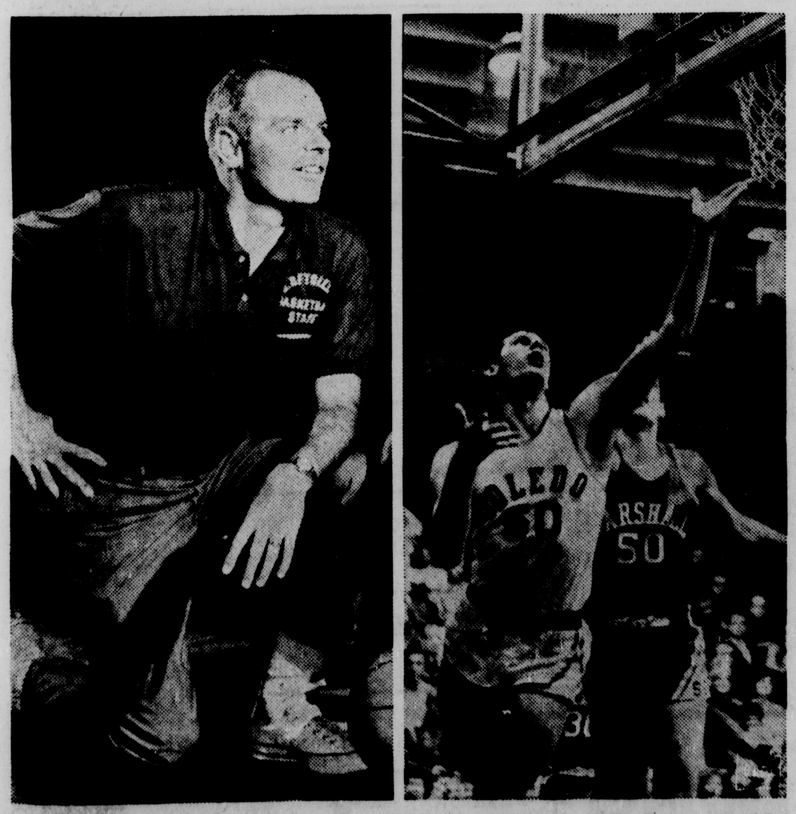
A BLACK MOURNING band on the team cap is displayed in good humor by the owner of the National League champion Los Angeles Dodgers, Walter O'Malley, left. Dodger manager Walt Alston inspects the headpiece—a present from Baltimore Orioles owner Jerry Hoffberger. Baltimore defeated the Dodgers in the 1966 World Series.

EDDIE MATHEWS is a welcome addition to the Houston Astros. Can't you tell by manager Grady Hatton's smile?

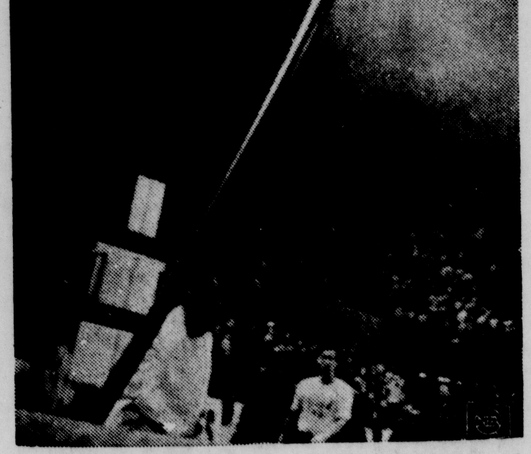
MIRROR, MIRROR in my hand, who's the fairest in the land? Linda Holloway, top, and Pam Strayer of St. Petersburg, Fla., aren't going to argue about it, but their faces posed next to each other do make two pretty reflections.



AIMING H'GH with one of the better collegiate basketball teams in the country this season is the University of Toledo. The Rockets' coach is Bob Nichols, left, and Steve Mix was the leading scorer.

BIG THINGS are expected of Don Drysdale, Los Angeles right-hander, this year—if the contract he has signed is any indication. In 1966, Drysdale and the now-retired Sandy Koufax held out in tandem in an unprecedented demand. No holdout this year, Drysdale will still receive an estimated $105,000.

EXPRESSING his feelings over a bad putt, Chi Chi Rodriguez shows his anger by sticking out his tongue. It didn't help.



GIVE AND GO, with USC's Bob Seagren on the other end of the glass fiber pole. The way the camera has caught the pole, it seems that Seagren could vault right out of the arena.

About Our Schools

By Lynn Twitty

The overwhelming support, given in the election last week, for the bond issue to improve the schools, should be a source of gratification to everyone in the community. It indicates that the citizens here want good schools for their children. It indicates a forward looking, progressive community outlook. While those of us who work for the schools have no greater stake than does any other citizen in school improvement, certainly the support given the board plan encourages us to do our best to make the school progress which the people desire.

We believe, also, that the community's overwhelmingly support for the plan for improvement is, in a way, a vote of confidence in the program that is being maintained by the board of education. It indicates approval for the board's policy to provide the best schools which are possible in the circumstances under which we operate.

Personally, as the executive officer for the board of education, we appreciate the fine turnout of voters and the belief in education as indicated last week. We are grateful to all those who helped to inform the voters and to encourage our patrons to express themselves via the ballot box.

Among organizations who especially helped in this respect are the Chamber of Commerce, the Junior Chamber of Commerce, the Citizens Advisory Council for Schools, members of the Ministerial Alliance, the Optimist Club, the Kiwanis Club, the Lions Club, the Rotary Club, the PTA Council, the various school PTA's, the Sikeston Community Teacher's Association, and many other individuals and organizations.

We are now faced with the job of completing plans for the building program, of getting bids, letting contracts, supervising construction, etc. relative to accomplishment of the school improvement desired by the community. With the community's help, we will do so to the best of our collective ability. We will continue to work with individuals and community groups in our effort to get the most value for the taxpayers dollar.

At a meeting of industrial, business, professional and labor leaders held in St. Louis recently, dissatisfaction was expressed concerning present day education.

"We need to develop whole new methods of teaching people," one businessman said.

"Most of our school systems are obsolete today" a labor leader stated.

Another statement, "There is some question as to whether educators have pioneered effectively enough."

Another criticism was that educators are not applying the advancements in teaching students the skills needed in modern industry.

To some extent, we agree with these criticisms. Too many schools are content to use the same methods, year after year. Some rarely change the curriculum. Some make little attempt to upgrade teaching skills. Some make no attempt to learn what other schools are doing, about better methods, new techniques, research findings, nor do they send their administrators and faculty members to conventions where better methods of education are being considered. There are many other things that are wrong with our schools, and some of these apply to all schools, ours included.

On the other hand, there are a considerable number of reasons for the lack of educational progress such as: not enough funds, general lack of interest in quality education, backward administrators and school boards, inadequately trained teachers, unimaginative teachers, the community reluctance to accept change or to demand it. We suspect that some of these reasons also handicaps our schools.

On the positive side, and we may be biased, we are strongly of the opinion that our community is generally in support of educational improvement. Their approval of the bond issue last week proves this. Our board of education is insistent in its demands that those of us who work for the schools continue to experiment, to change and to provide ever better education. Our teachers participate in workshops, in a continuous in-service training program, they attend meetings and conventions, they visit other schools, in the main they are highly professional. It is true we are handicapped by having an extremely low tax base per pupil enrolled. We do not have enough money to spend per pupil on that child's education to anywhere nearly approach the national average. In fact our expenditure last year was at least $150.00 below the national average per pupil cost. We are about $100.00 below the stage average in per pupil cost. But with the backing of an educationally minded community and a board that is determined to get the most in education for each tax dollar, we are at least striving toward better education for our students.

The annual school election will be held Tuesday, April 4. At that time two school board members will be elected and we will vote on the tax levy to operate the schools for the next four year period.

The tax levy to be voted on will be: a $1.20 levy for the teacher's fund and a $1.00 levy for the incidental fund. With the debt - service levy, required to pay principal and interest on bonds and a building fund levy which is established by the board, the total tax levy will be $4.00 on the $100.00 of assessed valuation. There will be no increase. This is exactly the same levy that has been voted for two past four year periods.

Polling places will be: Airport School, Lee Hunter School, Lincoln School, Matthews School, Senior High School and Southwest School. (Note: The Senior High School has been established as a new polling place.)

The election officials will be selected by the school PTA's as has been a past practice. Polls will be open from 6:00 A.M. to 7:00 P.M.

The passage of the above mentioned levy, necessary if the schools are to operate, requires a two-thirds majority. We urge all patrons to continue their support of better schools by approving the levy. We emphasize there will be no increase in the tax rate.

Easter vacation will begin at the close of school Thursday, March 23. School will resume Wednesday morning March 29.

The board of education is considering lengthening next year's Easter Vacation to one week, ending on Easter Sunday. The school will be lengthened next year to provide for three days of teacher workshops or in-service training, during which time the children will be dismissed. The purpose of this change is to improve the instructional program. In order to do so it will be necessary that school open about a week prior to last year's opening date. The exact dates have not been established, but will be announced as soon as they have been.

Forty nine million, nine hundred thousand children are enrolled in public elementary and secondary schools this year. This is about one million more than during the previous school term. These are approximately 1,700,000 teachers and the total expenditures for the nation's schools last year amounted to about $27,700,000,000.00.

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE

By Jack Strass L.L.D.

THE CASE OF THE YO-YO CRIMINAL

Temperamental Benny was 90 per cent temper and 10 per cent mental. Consequently, while standing trial for a crime, he heaved a chair at the District Attorney for making an uncomplimentary statement about him. . .and was given a year in jail for contempt of court.

Benny's luck, however, went up and down like a yo-yo. After being sentenced for contempt of court, the jury acquitted him of the crime for which he had been standing trial. Whereupon, he found himself back in the soup when the District Attorney had him charged with assault and battery for having thrown the chair at him.

"Benny could have killed me with that chair," the D. A. told the Judge. "He's just a bad piece of timber with grain of assault."

"I was already given a year in jail for heaving that chair," protested Benny. "To punish me twice for the same crime is unconstitutional."

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you let the boom be lowered on Benny twice?

This is how the Judge ruled! The Judge held that the double jeopardy provision of the 5th Amendment does not bar a person from being punished twice for the same crime. Rather, it protects him from having to stand trial twice for the same crime.

In this case, the Judge concluded, Benny was not required to stand trial twice for the same crime since, when he was sentenced for contempt of court, no trial was involved. To make him stand trial for assault and battery, therefore, does not constitute double jeopardy.

(Based upon a 1963 U.S. District Court Decision)

Forest Reservoir Area Funds Sought

WASHINGTON (AP) - A Missouri delegation urged a House appropriations subcommittee today to provide funds to begin construction of a forest service reservoir on Big River in Clark National Park.

Congressional sources said the group is hopeful $900,000 will be made available for the year beginning July 1. Funds to develop the reservoir area for recreation and other purposes would be sought later.

The project would have a 400-acre pool and a 13-mile shoreline.

In a statement for the subcommittee, James F. Gamble, executive vice president of the Meramec Basin Association, said completion of the project, also known as Council Bluff Lake, would meet pressing needs in the area.

The reservoir is one of 17 being proposed in Clark National Forest as part of a Meramec Basin development program.

Three Will Mediate I-55 Land Dispute

CARUTHERSVILLE -- The dispute between the Missouri state highway department and the owners of condemned property south of Portageville to north of Hayti will be studied by three commissioners appointed by Circuit Judge William L. Ragland.

Appointed were Harold Hinchey of Caruthersville, Paul Still of Steele and Wilburn Mathis of Hayti.

It will be the responsibility of the commissioners to determine what compensation is to be awarded the landowners.

The case involves property which has been condemned for extension of interstate 55.

The commissioners have established an office in the Hayti city hall.

The land will be inspected Thursday and Friday by the commissioners, representatives of the state highway department, and the landowners or their attorneys.

Liquor Control Supervisor Named

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) - Harry Wiggins, 33, Kansas City has been appointed state liquor control supervisor.

He will succeed Milton Saltz, who resigned as acting supervisor to return to private law practice in St. Louis.

The appointment was announced Tuesday by Gov. Warren E. Hearnes.

The Prayer From The Upper Room

As far as the east is from the west, so far does he remove our transgressions from us. (Psalm 103:12, RSV)

PRAYER: O God, help us to guard against cutting off our communication and companionship with Thee. For sins committed in thought and in deed, grant us forgiveness. Teach us to accept Thy forgiveness with rejoicing and be governed by the desire to live to Thine honor and for Thy glory; through Christ our Lord. Amen.

Today In U. S. History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Thursday, March 16, the 75th day of 1967. There are 290 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1802, Congress established the U.S. military Academy at West Point, N.Y.

On this date:

In 1751, James Madison, the fourth U.S. president, was born.

In 1908, the city of London honored nurse Florence Nightingale.

In 1943, American bombers attacked Japanese installations in the Aleutian Islands.

In 1945, the U.S. 3rd and 7th Armies were closing a pincers on the Saar Basin in Germany.

In 1946, a Senate committee voted to give the president direct control over the production of atomic bombs.

Ten years ago — Britain was hit by a crippling strike when some 200,000 shipyard employees walked out in a demand by the Confederation of Shipbuilding and Engineer Unions for a 10 per cent wage hike.

Five years ago — Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev said Russian scientists had developed "global rockets" that he said were invulnerable to anti-missile missiles.

One year ago — Gemini 8 astronauts, Neil Armstrong and David Scott were rescued after making an emergency landing in the Pacific Ocean. Just before the emergency however, Armstrong and Scott had performed the first successful rendezvous in space of two orbiting vehicles, their own craft and an Agena target rocket.

Otters are found on all continents except Australia.

THE SMARTEST WAY TO WALTZ THROUGH WASHDAY

An automatic clothes dryer is the smart way to waltz through washday. Your clothes dry fresh and white because they're tumbled, ever so gently, on a cushion of fresh, circulating air. And they come out so fluffy-dry and wrinkle-free it seems like magic. Dainty flimsy things stay fresh and white. All your clothes will last longer . . . and you will waltz through washday with less ironing.

Lines Drawn For Pay TV Battle

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Federal Communications Commission appears headed for bruising battles with two House committees over pay television and a controversial $2-billion broadcasting merger.

The House Small Business Committee already has launched preliminary studies of the FCC's approval earlier this year of the merger between American Broadcasting Companies Inc., and International Telephone & Telegraph Corp.

The House Commerce Committee appears poised to look into both the giant ABC-IT&T merger, biggest in broadcasting history, and a proposal being considered by the FCC to authorize pay television throughout the country.

Chairman Harley O. Staggers, D-W.Va., said today in an interview he has not yet decided whether the full committee or one of its subscommittees will look into the matter.

Staggers heads an investigations subcommittee, while Rep. Torgert H. MacDonald, D-Mass., heads a power and communications subcommittee with jurisdiction over FCC affairs.

The pay television issue erupted earlier this week when Rosel H. Hyde, the FCC chairman, told the Commerce Committee that a three-member commission subcommittee expected to report within a month on the proposal for nationwide pay-TV.

Staggers accused Hyde of trying to put pay television into effect without first trying to get consent of Congress.

"Maybe we better have some hearings next week and have you all up and see what your thinking is," he told Hyde.

The FCC chairman told Staggers the proposal would permit establishment of nationwide pay television, a question which has been before the FCC for nearly 15 years.

"This is amazing to me," said Staggers, "I think you are really trying to pull a fast one on the Congress and this nation."

He told Hyde and the six other commissioners: "You ought not to even put it out until this committee has a chance to look at what is going on."

"We would be happy to have the committee's views on the proposed rules," said another commissioner, Kenneth A. Cox.

Staggers was less definite when interviewed as to when the committee would look into the matter. MacDonald said he also was interested in the pay television issue, as well as the ABC-IT&T merger.

Burglary Tools Found in Auto

Two men driving slowly in an alley behind Sikeston Motor Company at 1:15 a.m. Wednesday were stopped by police and charged with possession of burglary tools.

The men were identified as Herbert T. Crum, Farmington, and David Lee Kitchell, St. Louis. Items found on the floor of the car were, a flashlight, a crowbar, a punch tool, a ball-pin hammer, and a pair of gloves, police reported.

In other activity, Robert D. Urban, 22 Green Meadows, was charged by police Wednesday night with public intoxication. He was arrested on East Malone.

Edith Adams, 117 Fourth, was charged by police early today with public intoxication. She was arrested on North Ingram.

Henry Meyers, 603 Branum, reported to police that the glove compartment of his automobile was pried open and 12 packs of cigarettes taken Wednesday evening or early today. The theft took place while the car was parked in a garage at Meyers' house, police said.

Vandals tore the asphalt paper roofing from a barbeque house, about the size of a garage, at the residence of Mary Thompson, 313 Prosperity, Wednesday night or early today.

Allied Positions Shelled

SAIGON (AP) - Communist mortar attacks raked seven American and Vietnamese positions Wednesday night and today while Red gunners brought down three U.S. warplanes and one helicopter in North and South Vietnam.

Official spokesmen said nine Vietnamese civilians were killed in the mortar attacks, 38 U.S. soldiers were wounded and there were "heavy" casualties at a few isolated Vietnamese outposts.

Two American pilots were missing in the plane crashes while the third parachuted into the South China Sea and was rescued five minutes later by a helicopter.

One South Vietnamese pacification unit of about 50 men was hit hard in the delta.

The civilian dead and wounded included a number of women and children.

One Communist mortar attack also brought down a U.S. helicopter attempting to land at a highland clearing near Pleiku. U.S. casualties were not known yet in Saigon.

The mortar attacks followed the current Communist pattern of inflicting maximum casualties with long-range shelling and avoiding ground battle except where success seemed likely.

The weekly casualty toll announced by U.S. authorities reflected the Communist tactics, listing 175 U.S. dead and 892 wounded last week.

The total of American dead was about average for recent weeks but was 33 per cent more than the average at the same time last year, when far fewer U.S. troops were in Vietnam.

The weekly summary put the Communist death toll at 1,407 last week, somewhat lower than average.

A U.S. spokesman said that ground contact was infrequent Thursday except in Pleiku Province in the highlands where a brigade of the U.S. 4th Infantry Division was in a stiff fight with a shadowy Communist unit. It was in this action that the helicopter was brought down by mortar fire as it attempted to settle in to a landing zone in the highland brush.

Wild Rivers Bill Introduced

JEFFERSON CITY AP -- A bill establishing the Ozark Wild Rivers Preservation System" was introduced in the House today but it no longer carried the sponsorship of the man who had worked hardest in preparing it.

The bill is designed to have the State Conservation Commission work to preserve "certain free-flowing streams or segments thereof and their adjoining natural shore environment for the permanent enjoyment of wilderness type recreation and for the further purpose of preserving certain outstanding recreational, scenic, ecological and other natural and physical features of unusual significance along these Ozark streams or segments thereof."

Rep. R. J. King, R-Clayton, minority floor leader, worked for many months on the plan, then took it to Gov. Warren E. Hearnes because he felt the Democratic administration would be interested, too.

Somewhere along the line it was decided it should be co-sponsored by Rep. Richard J. Rabbitt, D-St. Louis, the majority floor leader.

The Democrats had Rabbitt sign it first, making him a principal co-sponsor.

Then it was returned to King for his signature—in a second position. He signed a couple of the copies and suddenly realized that for all his work the Democrats were going to take the main credit.

So, he told the Associated Press, he crossed off his name and refused to be a sponsor.

The bill would include in the system these segments of the following Ozark streams:

The Eleven Point from Thomasville to the Arkansas line.

The Gasconade-Big Piney-Osage fork complex for stretches primarily in Casconade, Wright, Texas, Pulaska and Laclede counties.

The North Fork-Bryant Creek watershed primarily in Douglas County.

The Niangua River from Dallas County to Tunnel Dam.

The St. Francis-Big Creek-Little St. Francis complex in St. Francois, Wayne, Iron and Madison counties.

Big Sugar-Indian Creek complex in McDonald County.

Beaver Creek from Rome in Douglas County to Bull Shoals Lake.

The Upper Meramec-Huzzah-Courtois complex in Crawford and Washington counties.

Black River from highway 21 to Clearwater Reservoir.

Bull and Swan Creeks in Taney County.

James River from the U. S. 160 bridge to Galena.

The commission could acquire adjoining lands by purchase, condemnation or gift. It was estimated the cost over a period of years would be about $4.6 million.

Today was the last day for introduction of bills and they poured in.

As the House session continued it appeared there might be close to 900 House bills and well over 50 proposed constitutional amendments.

Among new measures were ones to:

Make the Jackson County sheriff turn in his fees and get a salary of $16,500 a year.

UNITED NATION, N.Y. (AP)- Prince Sadruddin Aga Khan estimates that since 1961 more than 650,000 Africans have become refugees in aftermath of the march to independence by the new nations of Africa.

He is the U.N. High Commissioner for Refugees, and his office is aiding the refugees in eight African countries -- The Congo (Kinshasa), Central African Republic, Rwanda, Burundi, Uganda, Tanzania, Zambia and Senegal.

In a publication of his office devoted entirely to the plight of the refugees, he said they represent a serious problem calling for humane, practical and immediate solution adapted to "the realities of life in Africa."

The exodus was sparked by differences between tribal and social groups in the new countries, and by developments in areas still under colonial rule.

In some instances the populations of entire villages fled, taking with them all their belongings, including cattle. In the tradition of Africa hospitality, they were permitted to cross frontiers and given enough help to assure their immediate survival.

But in many areas, Sadruddin added, this was done at the cost of already limited food supplies on the local scene. This made outside aid essential, and it was rendered on an emergency basis by Sadruddin's office. He gave these details:

A major concern was to prevent incidents in border areas. To avert this, the refugees were moved a safe distance from the frontier and persuaded to remain.

While many refugees hoped for an eventual return to their homeland, this was impossible in most instances. They are taking up their old agricultural pursuits in new surroundings.

Aside from Rwanda and Burundi, which are overpopulated, most African countries have land of readably good quality which has not been developed.

The first task has been to clear the land of virgin forest or bush, to destroy insects which carry malaria or sleeping sickness, and to build roads and install water supplies. The African countries and the Office of the High Commissioner cooperate in this endeavor, and they have the assistance also of other government and U.N. agencies.

Among the African countries, the Congo (former Belgian Congo) has the most refugees -- more than 300,000. Of these, 250,000 came from Portuguese Angola, 25,000 came from Rwanda and 40,000 from Sudan.

Uganda is next with 140,000. They include 70,000 from Rwanda, 45,000 from Sudan and 25,000 from the Congo. In one three-day period 7,000 Sudanese crossed the frontier with 16,000 head of infected cattle. The refugees had to be vaccinated and the cattle destroyed.

Burundi has 79,000 refugees, including 50,000 from Rwanda and 26,000 from the Congo. The Congolese look forward to returning home, but those from Rwanda will settle in their new home permanently.

The Central African Republic has 31,500, including 6,000 Congolese and more than 25,000 Sudanese. The latter include the entire population of one Sudanese region -- peasants with livestock, tribal chiefs, teachers and nurses among them.

Senegal has 55,000 refugees, practically all from Portuguese Guinea. An expert from Nationalist China is aiding them with a rice growing project at Diatouma.

Tanzania has 30,000 refugees, including 12,000 each from Rwanda and Mozambique. Zambia has 5,000, mostly from Mozambique with some from Angola.

Incumbents File In Parma Race

PARMA - The incumbents Carl Snider and Carl Sapp have filed for re-election to the board of education, Supt. Raymond Hoggard reports.

Each is running for a three-year term.

Filing date ends March 24 at 6 p.m.

The present $2.50 tax levy will remain. No bond issue is to be voted upon.

Madrid Has Two Races

NEW MADRID - Two members of the board of education will be elected April 4 for three-year terms. Incumbents are Louis Meyer, secretary, and Jay Blankenship.

No one has filed. Deadline for filing is 5 p.m. March 31.

Anderson Faces Speeding Charge

BOONVILLE (AP) - Missouri Atty. Gen. Norman Anderson will face a charge in Cooper County magistrate court of allegedly speeding 95 miles an hour last Feb. 25 on Interstate 70 in Cooper County. The state speed limit is 70.

Prosecuting Attorney Richard J. Blanck of Cooper County said in Boonville that Anderson had been given a summons by the Missouri Highway Patrol to appear in magistrate court Saturday, but it was necessary for the prosecutor to be out of town and the court appearance was postponed.

Blanck said the new appearance date may possibly be this Saturday.

Dexter Man Gets Public Service Post

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) - Gov. Warren E. Hearnes appointed Marvin Jones of Dexter Wednesday as a member of the Missouri Public Service Commission. He succeeds E. L. McClintock.

McClintock, 77, has been a member of the commission since 1945, the longest period any commissioner has ever served.

He is a native of Farmington, is a graduate of the University of Missouri School of Law and for 35 years was a resident of Cape Girardeau.

Jones, 45, is a native of Bernie and has practiced law at Dexter since 1958. He is an Air Force veteran of World War II and won his degree in law from the University of Missouri in 1950.

He became an attorney for the then Missouri Farmers Association insurance companies.

In 1958 he joined Clarence A. Powell in forming a Dexter law firm.

Jones is married and the father of three daughters. Like McClintock he is a Democrat.

Correction

Cletus R. Forrest, 611 East Kathleen, was arrested Saturday at the American Legion hall on charges of drunkenness and disturbing the peace. The complaint charging Forrest with misconduct at his home was served while he was at the American Legion hall. He was not accused of disturbing the peace there.

Two Injured In Collisions On Area Roads

Two injuries were reported in highway collisions by the state patrol.

The first was at 9:55 a.m. yesterday in Cardwell on route 25, when Fort Haddock, 55, driving a 1966 Ford, collided with a 1961 Chevrolet, driven by Florence Brown, 57. Both drivers were from Cardwell.

Haddock was cut on the nose and had a possible neck injury. He was arrested for careless and imprudent driving.

At 4:20 p.m. yesterday at the junction of I-55 and highway 61, three miles south of New Madrid, a GMC truck, driven by Matt Watkins, 32, Jackson, Miss., failed to stop and struck a 1959 Pontiac, driven by Charles Glasper, 17, Lilbourn.

Neither driver was injured.

At 3 a.m. today on highway 60, three miles east of Charleston, Edwin Hale, 57, East Prairie, received a broken leg in a collision with an International tractor trailer, driven by Thomas Swilley, 43, Shreveport, La.

Hale apparently went to sleep and crossed over the center line, striking the truck headon. He was taken to the Missouri Delta Community hospital.

He also was charged with failure to have his car under control.

Clyde H. Miller, 50, Clarkton, driving a 1960 Ford, was arrested for careless and reckless driving, when he attempted a U turn in Clarkton Wednesday at 2:10 p.m., and struck a 1962 Valiant, driven by Jeanette Pinkston Howell, 24, Malden.

Curtis Urges New Wheat Program

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Thomas B. Curtis, R-Mo., proposed today new federal programs for wheat and feed grains which he said will "permit the market system to work more effectively."

The legislation outlined by Curtis would repeal present subsidy and control programs in favor of a system of government-guaranteed loans for wheat and feed grain producers.

The American Farm Bureau Federation supports his plan, Curtis said.

The current balance of supply and demand for wheat and feed grains provides an ideal opportunity to eliminate subsidies and controls, he said in a statement.

He urged Congress to strip the administration of power to deal directly in grain markets by buying and selling crops, setting acreage allotments and marketing quotas and taxing millers to help support wheat prices.

Adoption of his plan in the last fiscal year would have saved the government $2 billion, Curtis said.

Under the proposal, the government would guarantee banks against losses suffered on loans to wheat and feed grain farmers up to 90 per cent of the expected value of their season's crop.

Curtis, one of four Congressional delegates to the current round of International Trade Negotiations in Geneva, Switzerland, said his proposal would reduce one of the major obstacles which has developed in the talks.

"World trade in most important agriculture products is impeded and confused by national economic policies," he said. "U.S. action to re-establish the conditions of the domestic marketplace in wheat and feed grains would prepare the way for more successful international efforts to improve marketplace conditions in world trade."

47 Seniors in Final Song

Forty seniors will make their final appearance in the high school concert choir Sunday at 3 p.m. in the junior high school auditorium.

Senior choir members, who have served three years, are Donnie McClellon, Jeanette Meredith, Machel Gosnell, Judy Todd, Suzann Moore, Lester Carter, Terry Schaefer, Benny Eason, and Eddie Hodges.

Seniors, who are one year choir members, are Janet Butrum, Pam Tidwell, Connie Wagley, Mary Anne Bruce, Gwen Harrington, Shirlee Harris, Sandra Kay Green, Joyce Harvey, Sharon Hatley, Margaret Suver, Belinda Taylor, Carroll Couch, Howard Overton, David Fuller, Herman Gardner, and Sam Marshall.

Choir managers are Eason and Schaefer. The choir secretary and treasurer are Misses Wagner and Faulkner. Student directors are Misses Hamelmann and Werneck, Lopp, Fakes, Couch, Hodges, and Miss Hatley.

Charleston Urged to Join State Program

CHARLESTON - Jerry Halsell, Blytheville, representative of the Ark-Mo Power Company, and Everett Lee of Jefferson City, a community development counselor, spoke on the five star community development program last night to the Chamber of Commerce.

President Charles Brink Jr., presided.

Halsell urged the Chamber to join in the state-wide program. He said that would give the city wide recognition and an opportunity to grow in industrial development.

Lee of the Missouri commerce and industrial development committee, outlined the program. He pointed out that industry is seeking locations where cities, both large and small, can offer advantages to workers and management.

Key Role Falls on Bunker

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson is sending his top crisis diplomat, 72-year-old Ellsworth Bunker, to Vietnam to replace retiring ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge.

Bunker's immediate task will be to assure success of efforts already under way to form a new, constitutional South Vietnamese government.

The Lodge resignation and Bunker appointment, suddenly announced by Johnson Wednesday, were the most important changes in a far reaching shakeup of the U.S. Embassy staff in Saigon. No changeover date was announced, however.

The overhaul reportedly reflects a determination by the President to put new emphasis on trying to develop political stability in the South Vietnamese capital and to step up pacification of the war-ravaged countryside. Johnson is reported to consider both as vital fronts in the fight to defeat Communist conquest of the South.

Almost as Johnson talked, there were reports from Canadian Foreign Secretary Paul Martin and United Nations sources of fresh peace initiatives. Washington sources said they were aware of these developments but that no indication of change in Hanoi's policy had been received.

Johnson also announced that Gen. William C. Westmoreland's military command will be strengthened by "additional top flight military personnel — the best that the country has been able to provide." He promised intensive ground operations in the months ahead.

There is continuing speculation here that Westmoreland may be given a new Southeast Asia theater command, but Johnson made no mention of any such change in the course of his announcements during a speech at Nashville, Tenn.

The President is scheduled to fly to Guam, leaving Washington Saturday night, for a Vietnamese war conference which will bring together Bunker, Lodge, Westmoreland and other U.S. leaders involved in the conflict. South Vietnamese leaders including Premier Nguyen Cao Ky will also attend.

Despite denials from various official sources, Ambassador Lodge is known to have been interested for some months in relinquishing the Saigon post as soon as the President could find a replacement. He began his present tour of duty as ambassador in South Vietnam in August 1965. He had previously held the post from August 1963 to June 1964.

At a news conference last Thursday, Johnson was asked about reports Lodge wanted to resign and Johnson was looking for a successor.

"No, there is no truth that I am looking for a successor," said Johnson. "Ambassador Lodge has talked to me on several occasions that he, in due time, would leave his post."

The President's decision to accept his resignation at this time apparently triggered the series of moves which was made public Wednesday. In addition to the naming of Bunker and the promise of new officers for Westmoreland, these are:

Assignment of Eugene M. Locke, presently ambassador in Pakistan, to replace Deputy Ambassador William Porter, a career diplomat. Locke, 49, is a native of Dallas, Tex., a graduate of the University of Texas and Yale University. He was practicing law in Texas when the President made him ambassador to Pakistan last June.

Assignment of Robert Komer, Johnson's special assistant in charge of the Vietnamese pacification program, primarily to the embassy staff in Saigon to exercise firsthand direction over the operation designed to increase security, order and living standards in the towns and villages of South Vietnam.

Locke and Komer are also to attend the Guam meeting.

The selection of Bunker as successor to Lodge came as a surprise to official Washington, except for a few close associates of Johnson who are familiar with the very high opinion he has of Bunker as the man for dealing with severe foreign policy crises.

Associates said the President had been especially impressed with Bunker's skill in 1965 in patiently bringing together dissident political elements in the Dominican Republic and finally achieving formation of a government there.

His success in this enterprise made possible the subsequent withdrawal of U.S. and inter-American forces which had moved into the country following an outbreak of violent revolution in April 1965.

Administration officials said the President has complete confidence in Bunker and great respect for his experience in international affairs and for his judgment and skill as a negotiator.

Bunker won quick endorsement from senators familiar with his negotiating abilities. He was depicted as an agile technician who carries out White House policy without injecting his own opinions either publicly or privately.

Lines Drawn For Pay TV Battle

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Federal Communications Commission appears headed for bruising battles with two House committees over pay television and a controversial $2-billion broadcasting merger.

The House Small Business Committee already has launched preliminary studies of the FCC's approval earlier this year of the merger between American Broadcasting Companies Inc., and International Telephone & Telegraph Corp.

The House Commerce Committee appears poised to look into both the giant ABC-IT&T merger, biggest in broadcasting history, and a proposal being considered by the FCC to authorize pay television throughout the country.

Chairman Harley O. Staggers, D-W.Va., said today in an interview he has not yet decided whether the full committee or one of its subscommittees will look into the matter.

Staggers heads an investigations subcommittee, while Rep. Torgert H. MacDonald , D-Mass., heads a power and communications subcommittee with jurisdiction over FCC affairs.

The pay television issue erupted earlier this week when Rosel H. Hyde, the FCC chairman, told the Commerce Committee that a three-member commission subcommittee expected to report within a month on the proposal for nationwide pay-TV.

Staggers accused Hyde of trying to put pay television into effect without first trying to get consent of Congress.

"Maybe we better have some hearings next week and have you all up and see what your thinking is," he told Hyde.

The FCC chairman told Staggers the proposal would permit establishment of nationwide pay television, a question which has been before the FCC for nearly 15 years.

"This is amazing to me," said Staggers, "I think you are really trying to pull a fast one on the Congress and this nation."

He told Hyde and the six other commissioners: "You ought not to even put it out until this committee has a chance to look at what is going on."

"We would be happy to have the committee's views on the proposed rules," said another commissioner, Kenneth A. Cox.

Staggers was less definite when interviewed as to when the committee would look into the matter. MacDonald said he also was interested in the pay television issue, as well as the ABC-IT&T merger.

SAIGON (AP) - Communist mortar attacks raked seven American and Vietnamese positions Wednesday night and today while Red gunners brought down three U.S. warplanes and one helicopter in North and South Vietnam.

Official spokesmen said nine Vietnamese civilians were killed in the mortar attacks, 38 U.S. soldiers were wounded and there were "heavy" casualties at a few isolated Vietnamese outposts.

Two American pilots were missing in the plane crashes while the third parachuted into the South China Sea and was rescued five minutes later by a helicopter.

One South Vietnamese pacification unit of about 50 men was hit hard in the delta.

The civilian dead and wounded included a number of women and children.

One Communist mortar attack also brought down a U.S. helicopter attempting to land at a highland clearing near Pleiku. U.S. casualties were not known yet in Saigon.

The mortar attacks followed the current Communist pattern of inflicting maximum casualties with long-range shelling and avoiding ground battle except where success seemed likely.

The weekly casualty toll announced by U.S. authorities reflected the Communist tactics, listing 175 U.S. dead and 892 wounded last week.

The total of American dead was about average for recent weeks but was 33 per cent more than the average at the same time last year, when far fewer U.S. troops were in Vietnam.

The weekly summary put the Communist death toll at 1,407 last week, somewhat lower than average.

A U.S. spokesman said that ground contact was infrequent Thursday except in Pleiku Province in the highlands where a brigade of the U.S. 4th Infantry Division was in a stiff fight with a shadowy Communist unit. It was in this action that the helicopter was brought down by mortar fire as it attempted to settle in to a landing zone in the highland brush.

UNITED NATION, N.Y. (AP)- Prince Sadruddin Aga Khan estimates that since 1961 more than 650,000 Africans have become refugees in aftermath of the march to independence by the new nations of Africa.

He is the U.N. High Commissioner for Refugees, and his office is aiding the refugees in eight African countries -- The Congo (Kinshasa), Central African Republic, Rwanda, Burundi, Uganda, Tanzania, Zambia and Senegal.

In a publication of his office devoted entirely to the plight of the refugees, he said they represent a serious problem calling for humane, practical and immediate solution adapted to "the realities of life in Africa."

The exodus was sparked by differences between tribal and social groups in the new countries, and by developments in areas still under colonial rule.

In some instances the populations of entire villages fled, taking with them all their belongings, including cattle. In the tradition of Africa hospitality, they were permitted to cross frontiers and given enough help to assure their immediate survival.

But in many areas, Sadruddin added, this was done at the cost of already limited food supplies on the local scene. This made outside aid essential, and it was rendered on an emergency basis by Sadruddin's office. He gave these details:

A major concern was to prevent incidents in border areas. To avert this, the refugees were moved a safe distance from the frontier and persuaded to remain.

While many refugees hoped for an eventual return to their homeland, this was impossible in most instances. They are taking up their old agricultural pursuits in new surroundings.

Aside from Rwanda and Burundi, which are overpopulated, most African countries have land of reasably good quality which has not been developed.

The first task has been to clear the land of virgin forest or bush, to destroy insects which carry malaria or sleeping sickness, and to build roads and install water supplies. The African countries and the Office of the High Commissioner cooperate in this endeavor, and they have the assistance also of other government and U.N. agencies.

Among the African countries, the Congo (former Belgian Congo) has the most refugees -- more than 300,000. Of these, 250,000 came from Portuguese Angola, 25,000 came from Rwanda and 40,000 from Sudan.

Uganda is next with 140,000. They include 70,000 from Rwanda, 45,000 from Sudan and 25,000 from the Congo. In one three-day period 7,000 Sudanese crossed the frontier with 16,000 head of infected cattle. The refugees had to be vaccinated and the cattle destroyed.

Burundi has 79,000 refugees, including 50,000 from Rwanda and 26,000 from the Congo. The Congolese look forward to returning home, but those from Rwanda will settle in their new home permanently.

The Central African Republic has 31,500, including 6,000 Congolese and more than 25,000 Sudanese. The latter include the entire population of one Sudanese region -- peasants with livestock, tribal chiefs, teachers and nurses among them.

Senegal has 55,000 refugees, practically all from Portuguese Guinea. An expert from Nationalist China is aiding them with a rice growing project at Diatouma.

Tanzania has 30,000 refugees, including 12,000 each from Rwanda and Mozambique. Zambia has 5,000, mostly from Mozambique with some from Angola.

Curtis Urges New Wheat Program

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Thomas B. Curtis, R-Mo., proposed today new federal programs for wheat and feed grains which he said will "permit the market system to work more effectively."

The legislation outlined by Curtis would repeal present subsidy and control programs in favor of a system of government-guaranteed loans for wheat and feed grain producers.

The American Farm Bureau Federation supports his plan, Curtis said.

The current balance of supply and demand for wheat and feed grains provides an ideal opportunity to eliminate subsidies and controls, he said in a statement.

He urged Congress to strip the administration of power to deal directly in grain markets by buying and selling crops, setting acreage allotments and marketing quotas and taxing millers to help support wheat prices.

Adoption of his plan in the last fiscal year would have saved the government $2 billion, Curtis said.

Under the proposal, the government would guarantee banks against losses suffered on loans to wheat and feed grain farmers up to 90 per cent of the expected value of their season's crop.

Curtis, one of four Congressional delegates to the current round of International Trade Negotiations in Geneva, Switzerland, said his proposal would reduce one of the major obstacles which has developed in the talks.

"World trade in most important agriculture products is impeded and confused by national economic policies," he said. "U.S. action to re-establish the conditions of the domestic marketplace in wheat and feed grains would prepare the way for more successful international efforts to improve marketplace conditions in world trade."

Wild Rivers Bill Introduced

JEFFERSON CITY AP -- A bill establishing the Ozark Wild Rivers Preservation System" was introduced in the House today but it no longer carried the sponsorship of the man who had worked hardest in preparing it.

The bill is designed to have the State Conservation Commission work to preserve "certain free-flowing streams or segments thereof and their adjoining natural shore environment for the permanent enjoyment of wilderness type recreation and for the further purpose of preserving certain outstanding recreational, scenic, ecological and other natural and physical features of unusual significance along these Ozark streams or segments thereof."

Rep. R. J. King, R-Clayton, minority floor leader, worked for many months on the plan, then took it to Gov. Warren E. Hearnes because he felt the Democratic administration would be interested, too.

Somewhere along the line it was decided it should be co-sponsored by Rep. Richard J. Rabbitt, D-St. Louis, the majority floor leader.

The Democrats had Rabbitt sign it first, making him a principal co-sponsor.

Then it was returned to King for his signature—in a second position. He signed a couple of the copies and suddenly realized that for all his work the Democrats were going to take the main credit.

So, he told the Associated Press, he crossed off his name and refused to be a sponsor.

The bill would include in the system these segments of the following Ozark streams:

The Eleven Point from Thomasville to the Arkansas line.

The Gasconade-Big Piney-Osage fork complex for stretches primarily in Casconade, Wright, Texas, Pulaska and Laclede counties.

The North Fork-Bryant Creek watershed primarily in Douglas County.

The Niangua River from Dallas County to Tunnel Dam.

The St. Francis-Big Creek-Little St. Francis complex in St. Francois, Wayne, Iron and Madison counties.

Big Sugar-Indian Creek complex in McDonald County.

Beaver Creek from Rome in Douglas County to Bull Shoals Lake.

The Upper Meramec-Huzzah-Courtois complex in Crawford and Washington counties.

Black River from highway 21 to Clearwater Reservoir.

Bull and Swan Creeks in Taney County.

James River from the U. S. 160 bridge to Galena.

The commission could acquire adjoining lands by purchase, condemnation or gift. It was estimated the cost over a period of years would be about $4.6 million.

Today was the last day for introduction of bills and they poured in.

As the House session continued it appeared there might be close to 900 House bills and well over 50 proposed constitutional amendments.

Among new measures were ones to:

Make the Jackson County sheriff turn in his fees and get a salary of $16,500 a year.

Key Role Falls on Bunker

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson is sending his top crisis diplomat, 72-year-old Ellsworth Bunker, to Vietnam to replace retiring ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge.

Bunker's immediate task will be to assure success of efforts already under way to form a new, constitutional South Vietnamese government.

The Lodge resignation and Bunker appointment, suddenly announced by Johnson Wednesday, were the most important changes in a far reaching shakeup of the U.S. Embassy staff in Saigon. No changeover date was announced, however.

The overhaul reportedly reflects a determination by the President to put new emphasis on trying to develop political stability in the South Vietnamese capital and to step up pacification of the war-ravaged countryside. Johnson is reported to consider both as vital fronts in the fight to defeat Communist conquest of the South.

Almost as Johnson talked, there were reports from Canadian Foreign Secretary Paul Martin and United Nations sources of fresh peace initiatives. Washington sources said they were aware of these developments but that no indication of change in Hanoi's policy had been received.

Johnson also announced that Gen. William C. Westmoreland's military command will be strengthened by "additional top flight military personnel — the best that the country has been able to provide." He promised intensive ground operations in the months ahead.

There is continuing speculation here that Westmoreland may be given a new Southeast Asia theater command, but Johnson made no mention of any such change in the course of his announcements during a speech at Nashville, Tenn.

The President is scheduled to fly to Guam, leaving Washington Saturday night, for a Vietnamese war conference which will bring together Bunker, Lodge, Westmoreland and other U.S. leaders involved in the conflict. South Vietnamese leaders including Premier Nguyen Cao Ky will also attend.

Despite denials from various official sources, Ambassador Lodge is known to have been interested for some months in relinquishing the Saigon post as soon as the President could find a replacement. He began his present tour of duty as ambassador in South Vietnam in August 1965. He had previously held the post from August 1963 to June 1964.

At a news conference last Thursday, Johnson was asked about reports Lodge wanted to resign and Johnson was looking for a successor.

"No, there is no truth that I am looking for a successor," said Johnson. "Ambassador Lodge has talked to me on several occasions that he, in due time, would leave his post."

The President's decision to accept his resignation at this time apparently triggered the series of moves which was made public Wednesday. In addition to the naming of Bunker and the promise of new officers for Westmoreland, these are:

Assignment of Eugene M. Locke, presently ambassador in Pakistan, to replace Deputy Ambassador William Porter, a career diplomat. Locke, 49, is a native of Dallas, Tex., a graduate of the University of Texas and Yale University. He was practicing law in Texas when the President made him ambassador to Pakistan last June.

Assignment of Robert Komer, Johnson's special assistant in charge of the Vietnamese pacification program, primarily to the embassy staff in Saigon to exercise firsthand direction over the operation designed to increase security, order and living standards in the towns and villages of South Vietnam.

Locke and Komer are also to attend the Guam meeting.

The selection of Bunker as successor to Lodge came as a surprise to official Washington, except for a few close associates of Johnson who are familiar with the very high opinion he has of Bunker as the man for dealing with severe foreign policy crises.

Associates said the President had been especially impressed with Bunker's skill in 1965 in patiently bringing together dissident political elements in the Dominican Republic and finally achieving formation of a government there.

His success in this enterprise made possible the subsequent withdrawal of U.S. and inter-American forces which had moved into the country following an outbreak of violent revolution in April 1965.

Administration officials said the President has complete confidence in Bunker and great respect for his experience in international affairs and for his judgment and skill as a negotiator.

Bunker won quick endorsement from senators familiar with his negotiating abilities. He was depicted as an agile technician who carries out White House policy without injecting his own opinions either publicly or privately.

Incumbents File In Parma Race

PARMA - The incumbents Carl Snider and Carl Sapp have filed for re-election to the board of education, Supt. Raymond Hoggard reports.

Each is running for a three-year term.

Filing date ends March 24 at 6 p.m.

The present $2.50 tax levy will remain. No bond issue is to be voted upon.

Madrid Has Two Races

NEW MADRID - Two members of the board of education will be elected April 4 for three-year terms. Incumbents are Louis Meyer, secretary, and Jay Blankenship.

No one has filed. Deadline for filing is 5 p.m. March 31.

Anderson Faces Speeding Charge

BOONVILLE (AP) - Missouri Atty. Gen. Norman Anderson will face a charge in Cooper County magistrate court of allegedly speeding 95 miles an hour last Feb. 25 on Interstate 70 in Cooper County. The state speed limit is 70.

Prosecuting Attorney Richard J. Blanck of Cooper County said in Boonville that Anderson had been given a summons by the Missouri Highway Patrol to appear in magistrate court Saturday, but it was necessary for the prosecutor to be out of town and the court appearance was postponed.

Blanck said the new appearance date may possibly be this Saturday.

Dexter Man Gets Public Service Post

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) - Gov. Warren E. Hearnes appointed Marvin Jones of Dexter Wednesday as a member of the Missouri Public Service Commission. He succeeds E. L. McClintock.

McClintock, 77, has been a member of the commission since 1945, the longest period any commissioner has ever served.

He is a native of Farmington, is a graduate of the University of Missouri School of Law and for 35 years was a resident of Cape Girardeau.

Jones, 45, is a native of Bernie and has practiced law at Dexter since 1958. He is an Air Force veteran of World War II and won his degree in law from the University of Missouri in 1950.

He became an attorney for the then Missouri Farmers Association insurance companies.

In 1958 he joined Clarence A. Powell in forming a Dexter law firm.

Jones is married and the father of three daughters. Like McClintock he is a Democrat.

Correction

Cletus R. Forrest, 611 East Kathleen, was arrested Saturday at the American Legion hall on charges of drunkenness and disturbing the peace. The complaint charging Forrest with misconduct at his home was served while he was at the American Legion hall. He was not accused of disturbing the peace there.

Two Injured In Collisions On Area Roads

Two injuries were reported in highway collisions by the state patrol.

The first was at 9:55 a.m. yesterday in Cardwell on route 25, when Fort Haddock, 55, driving a 1966 Ford, collided with a 1961 Chevrolet, driven by Florence Brown, 57. Both drivers were from Cardwell.

Haddock was cut on the nose and had a possible neck injury. He was arrested for careless and imprudent driving.

At 4:20 p.m. yesterday at the junction of I-55 and highway 61, three miles south of New Madrid, a GMC truck, driven by Matt Watkins, 32, Jackson, Miss., failed to stop and struck a 1959 Pontiac, driven by Charles Glasper, 17, Lilbourn.

Neither driver was injured.

At 3 a.m. today on highway 60, three miles east of Charleston, Edwin Hale, 57, East Prairie, received a broken leg in a collision with an International tractor trailer, driven by Thomas Swilley, 43, Shreveport, La.

Hale apparently went to sleep and crossed over the center line, striking the truck headon. He was taken to the Missouri Delta Community hospital.

He also was charged with failure to have his car under control.

Clyde H. Miller, 50, Clarkton, driving a 1960 Ford, was arrested for careless and reckless driving, when he attempted a U turn in Clarkton Wednesday at 2:10 p.m., and struck a 1962 Valiant, driven by Jeanette Pinkston Howell, 24, Malden.

47 Seniors in Final Song

Forty seniors will make their final appearance in the high school concert choir Sunday at 3 p.m. in the junior high school auditorium.

Senior choir members, who have served three years, are Donnie McClellon, Jeanette Meredith, Machel Gosnell, Judy Todd, Suzann Moore, Lester Carter, Terry Schaefer, Benny Eason, and Eddie Hodges.

Seniors, who have served two years, are Sharon Byrd, Sally Faulkner, Pat McMullin, Glenester Williams, Teresa Hamelmann, Sandy Nickell, Katie Stallings, Belinda Ayers, Elaine Hodges, Linda Werneck, Annette Scudder, Becky Sloan, Linda Stacy, Becky Wagner, Dan Armour, Rodger Miller, Roger Tolliver, Rudy Manley, Henry Brown, Rick Fakes, Danny Lopp, and Danny Davis.

Seniors, who are one year choir members, are Janet Butrum, Pam Tidwell, Connie Wagley, Mary Anne Bruce, Gwen Harrington, Shirlee Harris, Sandra Kay Green, Joyce Harvey, Sharon Hatley, Margaret Suver, Belinda Taylor, Carroll Couch, Howard Overton, David Fuller, Herman Gardner, and Sam Marshall.

Choir managers are Eason and Schaefer. The choir secretary and treasurer are Misses Wagner and Faulkner. Student directors are Misses Hamelmann and Werneck, Lopp, Fakes, Couch, Hodges, and Miss Hatley.

Charleston Urged to Join State Program

CHARLESTON - Jerry Halsell, Blytheville, representative of the Ark-Mo Power Company, and Everett Lee of Jefferson City, a community development counselor, spoke on the five star community development program last night to the Chamber of Commerce.

President Charles Brink Jr., presided.

Halsell urged the Chamber to join in the state-wide program. He said that would give the city wide recognition and an opportunity to grow in industrial development.

Lee of the Missouri commerce and industrial development committee, outlined the program. He pointed out that industry is seeking locations where cities, both large and small, can offer advantages to workers and management.

POOR CHARLIE SAYS!

"COME, GENTLE SPRING!"

March 20th will be a welcome date. For on that day, Spring will come again. The precise moment will be 8:53 P.M., Eastern Standard Time.

In many parts of the country, this year's Spring will be greeted with even greater relief and enthusiasm than is usually the case. The winter which now nears its end has been a vicious one generally. There have been record or near-record snowstorms, freezes, gales and floods. But now these scourges are approaching their end.

Spring, every Spring, is the season of new life. All of nature burgeons. The trees put out their bright leaves, the flowers bud and bloom. Everywhere there is the sound of birds, safe and warm in their nests. The beings which live in the woods and the waters flourish and produce their young. And Spring brings a lift to the heart of man, whatever his problems and troubles may be. It is an inspirer of hope; a renewer of faith and purpose. It is, or should be, for all of us a time of beginnings. And one may pray that before this splendid season ends some new and meaningful rays of light will find their way into our troubled world.

Many years ago, the poet James Thomson wrote: "Come, gentle Spring! ethereal Mildness! come." It is a feeling that is universally shared.

The Colonel said: "If a man behaves himself, people are likely to say he is cunning, and hides his meanness."

JACKSON'S 200TH

"There are no necessary evils in government. Its evils exist only in its abuses. If it would confine itself to equal protection, and, as Heaven does its rains, shower its favors alike on the high and the low, the rich and the poor, it would be an unqualified blessing." - Andrew Jackson, Message Vetoing the Bank Bill, July 10, 1832.

The words are worth remembering as the nation prepares to observe the 200th anniversary of the birthday of Andrew Jackson, our first Democrat. A 10-cent Andrew Jackson stamp in the Prominent Americans regular series will be issued at Hermitage, Tenn., site of Old Hickory's home and burial place, on Wednesday, March 15. The date is a legal holiday in Tennessee, though not in Jackson's native South Carolina.

Jackson was suspicious of privilege. Though "Let the people rule" was his slogan, he at times supported more conservative policies against the expansionist West. He killed the Congressional caucus for nominating Presidential candidates and substituted the national convention in 1832, when he was reelected.

Jackson also was a noisy debater and duellist. He introduced the "spoils system." His toast on the Jefferson birthday celebration of 1830 rings down the years: "Our Federal Union: it must be preserved."

* * *

For example, what can you do.....if your son wants to marry the girl next door who...when bathed, dressed and given a haircut....turns out to be a boy, too?

* * *

There is one standard for Congressmen and labor unions and another for the rest of the country.

But in the eyes of the American people Sen. Thomas J. Dodd, Connecticut Democrat, already has convicted himself of misconduct.

He is convicted because he has offered to return money given to him at testimonial dinners to those who were under the impression that the funds were to be used only for his political campaigns.

He has done it by testifying before a Senate investigating committee that income he received from testimonial dinners was a tax free gift to be used as he saw fit.

It may be that internal revenue service regulations do permit this double standard.

Any business man who thinks for a minute that he can charge off personal outlays as a business expense wouldn't live long in confusion. Internal revenue agents would swoop down on him and compel him to cough up more tax money with interest and possibly penalty.

Dodd may not be wealthy but he has been a free spender of money generously supplied by constituents.

Dodd has been described as a man whose testimonial dinners helped him put $94,870 into his personal bank account.

He has acknowledged that some of $170,000 from four of the dinners went to pay for home improvements, liquor, flowers, football tickets and other personal expenses as well as campaign funds.

Most of the money went to pay political debts, he insists, but his description of a political debt might not be the same as others.

There is no doubt but that he converted campaign funds to his own use. He now admits it. He offers to make restitution.

Dodd should be tossed out of the Senate but the committee investigating him should at least discipline him in some manner even though Congress is notorious for its own lack of ethics.

If Dodd isn't punished the Senate is going to be embarassed by the harsh treatment the House has given to Rep. Adam Clayton Powell, the world traveling and free loading Democrat from Harlem and Bimini.

The heat is on. May the fire burn so brightly that Congress, however reluctantly, will adopt a code of conduct for its own members.

The adoption of this code is far more important than what happens to either Dodd and Powell, who are just a couple of wretched congressmen who got caught.

Every new customer is someone's old customer.

Advertising directed toward users is essential for retaining present customers.

"This 'holding' operation is likely to be far more important than any other single function of advertising," says Advertising Age magazine.

A four-year Starch study of national publications cited by the magazine shows that ad readership is about 40 percent higher among users than non-users. "The alert advertiser recognizes this," said the report.

Even newspapers do their own advertising to keep customers sold. "House of "shop" ads are run to interest people in buying and reading the newspaper. Good advertising is essential in these fast times, and in this respect, newspapers "practice what they preach."

A businessman who considers both new and old customers will try to keep old customers sold. This can only be done by selling "what you can do for him now," not "what you did for him yesterday." Consumers are interested in what they can purchase now, not what they purchased previously from a certain merchant.

Hometown newspapers are in an excellent position to keep customers shopping at a certain retailers store. Consistency is the secret of all successful advertising. The newspaper is the most consistent for reaching the local consumer.

City size has been proved to be a definite factor in advertising retention. Advertising recall declines as city size increases. Small local newspapers serve a specific clientelle and have a ready market of consumers.

And, more important, the advertising message is retained by old customers while it makes new friends for the retailer.

HUMAN EYE, MIND'S EYE WILL DIFFER

The human eye does not always see things as they are, the Catholic Digest relates. New York color psychologist Howard Ketcham, who has been influencing human behavior with color for a quarter of a century, recommends that we take some sheets of paper of different colors: red, yellow, blue, green, black, and white. Now cut some gray paper into strips and lay a piece on each of the colored sheets. Even though we know that all the gray strips are exactly the same shade, no two of them will appear alike.

When we look at the red sheet the dominating idea in our mind's eye is red, and the shock of not finding red when we look at the gray strip causes a rebound of sensation. Because we expected red, the gray looks even less red than it is. It goes to the opposite extreme and seems slightly greenish, green being the complementary color of red. The gray strip on the green sheet looks slightly red. Each strip takes on the contrasting color to the underlying sheet.

HO'S THREE ACES

Ho Chi Minh lost a few chips as a result of recent bombings of supply areas near Hanoi and Haiphong. But he still holds at least three aces. They were handed to him by the same "dealers" in Uncle Sam's Potomac River "gambling palace," who have at long last allowed our pilots to hit a few really significant targets in North Vietnam.

Ace number 1: Ho and his cohorts are still assured a personal sanctuary. Defense Secretary McNamara said during his dramatic TV performance explaining the bombings: "Our objectives in South Vietnam are limited. Our objectives are not to destroy the Communist government of North Vietnam."

Ace number 2: In addition to the fact that he had lots of time beforehand to disperse supplies from those areas which were finally attacked, Ho apparently can count on some time for resupply and further dispersal, while the dealers in Washington wait, as they have said that they will, to see if he might now want to negotiate. Mr. McNamara said during his TV appearance that he intends to continue the same policy of "military restraint" he has followed in the past. That includes forbidding the mighty U.S. fleet to interfere with any ships hauling supplies into North Vietnam and allowing no air strikes in the North except when and as approved by the political croupiers in Washington.

Ace number 3: Ho's trump ace: According to present rules of the game, as set by the house (White House) manager himself, should the strikes in the North become more damaging than Ho wishes to bear, he needs only to agree to negotiate in order to get them stopped completely. At the same time, no condition has been set by the house manager that attacks by the Communist forces in South Vietnam must be stopped before Ho can play that trump ace.

Recent history also indicates that, so long as dealers like McNamara and Rusk are left in charge of the game, Ho Chi Minh can count on all his aces remaining playable.

NEW YORK (AP) — Parental remarks that teen-agers get tired of hearing:

"When I was your age, I knew the value of a dollar."

"For heaven's sake, Arnold, can't you even stand up straight? Maybe we'll have to get a board and prop you up like a tomato plant."

"I'm warning you for the last time that . . ."

"You're not going out of the house dressed like that, young lady, so you might as well take it off right now."

"Wait until your father gets home, young man. He'll hear about your behavior."

"From the size of this month's phone bill, Susan, I can only suspect you've been making long distance calls to the man in the moon."

"When I was your age, I walked three miles to school and thought nothing of it."

"You can have a car of your own anytime you want to, Arnold. All you have to do is get it the same way I got mine — by going out and earning it."

"Look at it this way, Susie — for every candy bar you eat now, sooner or later you'll get another pimple."

"What kind of college do you think will accept you with grades like these?"

"This will make you laugh, dear. Arnold said he has decided to grow a beard, and when I asked him, "what with?" he got mad."

"When I was your age, I never spoke like that to my parents. Why, I wouldn't have dared!"

"All kids are spoiled today — every last one of them."

"Your teeth are coming along just fine, Susan. But I think we'll have to leave these braces on for another few months at least."

"I could feed half of starving India with the food that girl leaves untouched on her plate."

"The only reason I can figure why teen-agers spend so much time on the phone is that they don't mind talking to each other — but can't stand looking at each other."

"Don't you think it is high time, young man, that you started to make up your mind what you want to do with your life?"

"When I was your age, I didn't expect anyone to hand me out an allowance."

"When I was your age. . . when I was your age . . . when I was your age . . ."

Washington Merry - Go - Round

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON -- Resourceful Rep. Charles McMathias, R-Md., picked out of the dusty files of the Eisenhower administration a resolution passed by both houses of congress July 11, 1958, which every congressmn and his employees should read, including Sen. Tom Dodd, D-Conn.

It not only set up a code of ethics for government service but clearly specified that "all government servants" must "expose corruption wherever discovered."

The code definitely puts an obligation on the employees of senators and congressmen to report any wrongdoing by that senator or congressman -- which is exactly what the employees of Sen. Dodd finally did. Several of his staff had been with him a long time. Jim Boyd, his administrative assistant, had campaigned for him even before he joined his staff, helped him get elected. Most are, as Dodd, Catholics. He was their hero.

But when they saw what he was doing, gradually disillusioned, they finally decided they had to follow the code of ethics which they had learned as youngsters and which was restated in the long forgotten "code of ethics for government service" adopted in 1958.

DODD'S CHILDREN

There is nothing the taxpayers can provide that is too good for Sen. Dodd's six children.

He has put two of his boys on the senate payroll -- Jeremy at $125 and Tom Jr. at $120 a week. But all the children have charged meals, phone calls and other incidentals to his senate account.

When son Chris was attending Providence college, he made long - distance calls to girl friends around the country and charged them to the senate as official business.

The senator threw a gala wedding party for daughter Martha -- complete with a pheasant-and - champagne breakfast, full orchestra and wide - open bar at the fashionable Hartford club -- out of the proceeds of Dodd day, a political fund-raising held in Connecticut on October 26, 1963.

The gold - embossed wedding invitations were charged to his official senate stationery account. So was an expensive desk set which Martha gave her new husband as a birthday gift.

Dodd also happily shared with his children the free travel he was able to arrange for himself. Thomas O'Neil, board chairman of R. K. O. General, was one of several business tycoons who let the senator use their private planes.

For example, O'Neil sent his private aerojet to Washington on August 7, 1965, to pick up Tom Jr. and a friend. They were flown to Westerly, R. I., the closest airport to the Dodd country home in North Stonington, Conn.

Here the plane picked up the senator and flew him to New York City where he changed places with his daughter Carolyn who was whisked back to Westerly.

POLITICAL VS. PERSONAL FUNDS

Other bills run up by the Dodd children have been paid out of his political contributions -- arranging from snacks at the Congressional Country Club to Airline travel.

In 1963 Tom Jr. made a number of flights that were charged to the senate campaign, including trips from Washington to Akron, April 18 ($59.43); Washington to Asheville, June 26 ($68.36).

Dodd has freely used his senate influence to help his sons get ahead. He set up son Jeremy as an agent for Aetna Life and Casualty Company after blocking an investigation of the big insurance companies. The boy gave the insurance business a try but decided he liked it better on his father's government payroll.

When Tom Jr. brought home a "D" in a course at Georgetown University, the irate father ordered a check on the professor by the Senate Internal Security Subcommittee, which probes Communism.

Afterward, young Tom decided he wanted to travel in Latin America to do research on his doctorate. The senator obligingly got in touch with a right - wing benefactor, razor king Pat Frawley.

EASY WAY TO GET A PH.D.

"Dear Pat," wrote Dodd on January 26, 1965, "Tom is hoping to leave for Nicaragua in about three weeks, and he told me that you had expressed an interest in his trip and indicated that he might be able to do something for you while there which would help defray his expenses."

Possibly as a guid pro quo, the senator added: "I have already looked into the patent situation, and I will write another letter about it soon." This had to do with one of Frawley's patent problems with the government.

Frawley obligingly granted Tom Jr. a scholarship to study Latin America and put him up in his villa, the Casa Frawley, in Managua.

To help the boy with his doctorate, the senator got material out of state department files to send him. But young Tom had hit upon an even easier way. On March 21, he wrote to his father's senate office manager, Michael O'Hare:

"An important request. I would like a 25 - page or so report on the Central American Common Market -- with a bibliography. This report should be a brief review of the historical development in establishing the market and then a discussion of the ways in which the market has developed.

"I understand the reference service of the Library of Congress does this. Please have them start it soon, so I'll have it for class by the end of May."

When the enterprising student finally finished his doctoral dissertation, he sent it to his dad's senate office to be typed. For be typed. For five days in November, 1965, a secretary paid by the taxpayers typed the 30 - page dissertation.

H. L. Hunt Says

WHO WOULD LOSE MOST?

Discussions among persons who realize what a terrible threat communism poses to freedom sometimes turn to the question of who would lose most in case of a communist takeover in the United States.

It is not difficult to produce evidence, based on what has happened in countries already taken over by the communists, that this group or that group would stand to lose most in the event of the destruction of our republic form of government. Everybody can make his own list.

The list would certainly include the church, both clergy and congregations. Minorities would lose the protection afforded them in a constitutional republic. Businessmen who, carelessly, do not find any objections to the way our nation is headed, would be heavy losers. So would wage earners, the apathetic, ignorant and idle.

It becomes clear that little is to be gained from making a list of this kind. The truth is that in the transition from freedom to slavery, enforced by an elite ruling class, the loss to all Americans would soon become total and complete. There would be no winners.

Even members of the elite class who would seek to govern soon would become aware of their own position o. insecurity. As has been proved in the past, they would be subject to having their heads chopped off figuratively, sometimes literally.

This potential total loss by all is reason enough for freedom-loving Americans not to give up without a struggle. The hour is late to save freedom; too late for us not to make an all-out effort. HLH

Inside Labor

By Victor Riesel

Reuther Will Bolt AFL-CIO; Forge Political Alliance with Bob Kennedy

Atlantic City: -- For decades, labor history has tramped the boardwalk here. And now Walter Reuther has decided to jog along with it.

He has decided to take a fast walk right out of the AFL-CIO.

His intimates, gathered here at a cataclysmic and catalytic United Auto Workers skilled craftsmen conference, report that the auto union chief has definitely decided to take his massive union out of George Meany's coalition.

From now on, they say, it is merely a matter of timing -- and "Walter" is a master timer.

But as Reuther has thought it all out in his Fort Myers, Fla., retreat, he will not walk alone for long. He is, if anything, a man of imaginative political instincts.

And so he will attempt to forge a mighty labor-political alliance with Bob Kennedy.

But first things first. The exodus will come when the Reuther brothers believe they can hit with the most dramatic impact.

They are ready. They need but the technical approval of the "special" policy convention in late April.

They have alerted hundreds of local auto union leaders in New York, Illinois, Michigan and California.

Each will know how to move when Reuther, in an administration white paper, gives the signal by calling a special international executive board meeting any time after May 1st. Already some auto union councils are splitting from central and state AFL-CIO bodies.

Reuther may wait until he gets a contract with the big three auto companies -- and it will be a good one -- sometime in November after a tough strike.

Then his legions will march. And they are well equipped for the political and sociological wars.

His auto union is a massive federation within itself. It has a political arm in its Citizenship Councils; a welfare and senior citizens division in its Community Services and Retired Workers Dept.; civil rights machinery in a hundred cities, especially Chicago where it is tied into the Southern Christian Leadership Conference of Martin Luther King and the Coordinating Council of Community Organizations; and a global international department.

The UAW is the financial sponsor of the Citizens Crusade Against Poverty (CCAP) and is set for alliance with thousands of "working poor" units. The International union is in everything from anti-air pollution to medicare counseling centers.

It is, in effect, the mass sociological base needed by Sen. Robert Kennedy's national organization -- call this latter what you will, a "government in exile" or simply what it is, the Kennedy wing of the Democratic Party, historically a many-winged entity.

For Walter Reuther and Bob Kennedy, this means doing what comes naturally. They have been close friends for a long time.

Close collaboration began when Barry Goldwater demanded that the McClellan Committee probe the auto union. Reuther loved this. He dispatched his executive assistant, Jack Conway, to work with the committee's counsel, the young Bobby Kennedy.

From all this flowered a beautiful friendship. To this day Jack Conway is the liaison between Reuther and the Senator. To this day, "Walter" is American labor to Kennedy and his brain trust, Arthur Schlesinger Jr. and Co.

To this day the auto union envoy to the Kennedy forces is Walter's younger brother Victor.

To this day, the Reuther-Kennedy milieu share their lack of enthusiasm over Meany and the "old line" AFL-CIO unions.

To this day, the Reuther-Kennedy-Schlesinger disdain for the Federation hawks is one of the most common denominators of both camps.

To this day President Johnson and George Meany run neck and neck as butts for the inside jokes and outside blistering attacks by the Reuther-Kennedy policymakers.

Thus, it is not likely that Bob Kennedy ever could get mass support from American labor. So he needs a mass base -- and this Reuther might be able to supply in the big cities as well as on the agricultural front.

In the 1964 and 1966 campaigns, the national auto union concentrated its money and manpower on Kennedy candidates.

Of course, Walter Reuther looks ahead to a Bob Kennedy administration. The Detroiter has cut his conduits to a Johnson White House.

If Kennedy makes it in '68, so much the better for Reuther. But '72 would satisfy the auto union chief, too.

By that time, he will be 65 years old -- and in his last term as UAW president. What then? There is precedent.

Is not his old lawyer, Arthur Goldberg, the spokesman for the U.S.. before the eyes of the world in the United Nations? "Does not "Arthur" have as much influence on American foreign policy as Secretary of State Dean Rusk? Do not people talk of "Arthur" as the next Secretary of State?

Would such an arena not be the place for Walter Reuther's final conflict?

This is what some of those close to the "redhead" say his dreams are made of these days.

POOR CHARLIE SAYS!
"COME, GENTLE SPRING!"

March 20th will be a welcome date. For on that day, Spring will come again. The precise moment will be 8:53 P.M., Eastern Standard Time.

In many parts of the country, this year's Spring will be greeted with even greater relief and enthusiasm than is usually the case. The winter which now nears its end has been a vicious one generally. There have been record or near-record snowstorms, freezes, gales and floods. But now these scourges are approaching their end.

Spring, every Spring, is the season of new life. All of nature burgeons. The trees put out their bright leaves, the flowers bud and bloom. Everywhere there is the sound of birds, safe and warm in their nests. The beings which live in the woods and the waters flourish and produce their young. And Spring brings a lift to the heart of man, whatever his problems and troubles may be. It is an inspirer of hope; a renewer of faith and purpose. It is, or should be, for all of us a time of beginnings. And one may pray that before this splendid season ends some new and meaningful rays of light will find their way into our troubled world.

Many years ago, the poet James Thomson wrote: "Come, gentle Spring! ethereal Mildness! come." It is a feeling that is universally shared.

JACKSON'S 200TH

"There are no necessary evils in government. Its evils exist only in its abuses. If it would confine itself to equal protection, and, as Heaven does its rains, shower its favors alike on the high and the low, the rich and the poor, it would be an unqualified blessing." - Andrew Jackson, Message Vetoing the Bank Bill, July 10, 1832.

The words are worth remembering as the nation prepares to observe the 200th anniversary of the birthday of Andrew Jackson, our first Democrat. A 10-cent Andrew Jackson stamp in the Prominent Americans regular series will be issued at Hermitage, Tenn., site of Old Hickory's home and burial place, on Wednesday, March 15. The date is a legal holiday in Tennessee, though not in Jackson's native South Carolina.

Jackson was suspicious of privilege. Though "Let the people rule" was his slogan, he at times supported more conservative policies against the expansionist West. He killed the Congressional caucus for nominating Presidential candidates and substituted the national convention in 1832, when he was reelected.

Jackson also was a noisy debater and duellist. He introduced the "spoils system." His toast on the Jefferson birthday celebration of 1830 rings down the years: "Our Federal Union: it must be preserved."

There is one standard for Congressmen and labor unions and another for the rest of the country.

But in the eyes of the American people Sen. Thomas J. Dodd, Connecticut Democrat, already has convicted himself of misconduct.

He is convicted because he has offered to return money given to him at testimonial dinners to those who were under the impression that the funds were to be used only for his political campaigns.

He has done it by testifying before a Senate investigating committee that income he received from testimonial dinners was a tax free gift to be used as he saw fit.

It may be that internal revenue service regulations do permit this double standard.

Any business man who thinks for a minute that he can charge off personal outlays as a business expense wouldn't live long in confusion. Internal revenue agents would swoop down on him and compel him to cough up more tax money with interest and possibly penalty.

I've just gifted them with twin Ferraris. I have a town house on upper Fifth Avenue and a summer home at Easthampton and a sprawling ranch in Venezuela."

"Well!" smiled the psychiatrist, obviously impressed. "Either I missed something or you really don't have a problem."

"Doc," the harried chap croaked, "I only make seventy-five dollars a week."

HO'S THREE ACES

Ho Chi Minh lost a few chips as a result of recent bombings of supply areas near Hanoi and Haiphong. But he still holds at least three aces. They were handed to him by the same "dealers" in Uncle Sam's Potomac River "gambling palace," who have at long last allowed our pilots to hit a few really significant targets in North Vietnam.

Ace number 1: Ho and his cohorts are still assured a personal sanctuary. Defense Secretary McNamara said during his dramatic TV performance explaining the bombings: "Our objectives in South Vietnam are limited. Our objectives are not to destroy the Communist government of North Vietnam."

Ace number 2: In addition to the fact that he had lots of time beforehand to disperse supplies from those areas which were finally attacked, Ho apparently can count on some time for resupply and further dispersal, while the dealers in Washington wait, as they have said that they will, to see if he might now want to negotiate. Mr. McNamara said during his TV appearance that he intends to continue the same policy of "military restraint" he has followed in the past. That includes forbidding the mighty U.S. fleet to interfere with any ships hauling supplies into North Vietnam and allowing no air strikes in the North except when and as approved by the political croupiers in Washington.

Ace number 3: Ho's trump ace: According to present rules of the game, as set by the house (White House) manager himself, should the strikes in the North become more damaging than Ho wishes to bear, he needs only to agree to negotiate in order to get them stopped completely. At the same time, no condition has been set by the house manager that attacks by the Communist forces in South Vietnam must be stopped before Ho can play that trump ace.

Recent history also indicates that, so long as dealers like McNamara and Rusk are left in charge of the game, Ho Chi Minh can count on all his aces remaining playable.

NEW YORK (AP) — Parental remarks that teen-agers get tired of hearing:

"When I was your age, I knew the value of a dollar."

"For heaven's sake, Arnold, can't you even stand up straight? Maybe we'll have to get a board and prop you up like a tomato plant."

"I'm warning you for the last time that . . ."

"You're not going out of the house dressed like that, young lady, so you might as well take it off right now."

"Wait until your father gets home, young man. He'll hear about your behavior."

"From the size of this month's phone bill, Susan, I can only suspect you've been making long distance calls to the man in the moon."

"When I was your age, I walked three miles to school and thought nothing of it."

"You can have a car of your own anytime you want to, Arnold. All you have to do is get it the same way I got mine — by going out and earning it."

"Look at it this way, Susie — for every candy bar you eat now, sooner or later you'll get another pimple."

"What kind of college do you think will accept you with grades like these?"

"This will make you laugh, dear. Arnold said he has decided to grow a beard, and when I asked him, "what with?" he got mad."

"When I was your age, I never spoke like that to my parents. Why, I wouldn't have dared!"

"All kids are spoiled today — every last one of them."

"Your teeth are coming along just fine, Susan. But I think we'll have to leave these braces on for another few months at least."

"I could feed half of starving India with the food that girl leaves untouched on her plate."

"The only reason I can figure why teen-agers spend so much time on the phone is that they don't mind talking to each other — but can't stand looking at each other."

"Don't you think it is high time, young man, that you started to make up your mind what you want to do with your life?"

"When I was your age, I didn't expect anyone to hand me out an allowance."

"When I was your age, . . . when I was your age . . . when I was your age . . ."

Washington Merry - Go - Round

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON -- Resourceful Rep. Charles McMathias, R-Md., picked out of the dusty files of the Eisenhower administration a resolution passed by both houses of congress July 11, 1958, which every congressmn and his employees should read, including Sen. Tom Dodd, D-Conn.

It not only set up a code of ethics for government service but clearly specified that "all government servants" must "expose corruption wherever discovered."

The code definitely puts an obligation on the employees of senators and congressmen to report any wrongdoing by that senator or congressman -- which is exactly what the employees of Sen. Dodd finally did. Several of his staff had been with him a long time. Jim Boyd, his administrative assistant, had campaigned for him even before he joined his staff, helped him get elected. Most are, as Dodd, Catholics. He was their hero.

But when they saw what he was doing, gradually disillusioned, they finally decided they had to follow the code of ethics which they had learned as youngsters and which was restated in the long forgotten "code of ethics for government service" adopted in 1958.

DODD'S CHILDREN

There is nothing the taxpayers can provide that is too good for Sen. Dodd's six children.

He has put two of his boys on the senate payroll -- Jeremy at $125 and Tom Jr. at $120 a week. But all the children have charged meals, phone calls and other incidentals to his senate account.

When son Chris was attending Providence college, he made long - distance calls to girl friends around the country and charged them to the senate as official business.

The senator threw a gala wedding party for daughter Martha -- complete with a pheasant-and - champagne breakfast, full orchestra and wide - open bar at the fashionable Hartford club -- out of the proceeds of Dodd day, a political fund-raising held in Connecticut on October 26, 1963.

The gold - embossed wedding invitations were charged to his official senate stationery account. So was an expensive desk set which Martha gave her new husband as a birthday gift.

Dodd also happily shared with his children the free travel he was able to arrange for himself. Thomas O'Neil, board chairman of R. K. O. General, was one of several business tycoons who let the senator use their private planes.

For example, O'Neil sent his private aerojet to Washington on August 7, 1965, to pick up Tom Jr. and a friend. They were flown to Westerly, R. I., the closest airport to the Dodd country home in North Stonington, Conn.

Here the plane picked up the senator and flew him to New York City where he changed places with his daughter Carolyn who was whisked back to Westerly.

POLITICAL VS. PERSONAL FUNDS

Other bills run up by the Dodd children have been paid out of his political contributions -- arranging from snacks at the Congressional Country Club to Airline travel.

In 1963 Tom Jr. made a number of flights that were charged to the senate campaign, including trips from Washington to Akron, April 18 ($59.43); Washington to Asheville, June 26 ($68.36).

Dodd has freely used his senate influence to help his sons get ahead. He set up son Jeremy as an agent for Aetna Life and Casualty Company after blocking an investigation of the big insurance companies. The boy gave the insurance business a try but decided he liked it better on his father's government payroll.

When Tom Jr. brought home a "D" in a course at Georgetown University, the irate father ordered a check on the professor by the Senate Internal Security Subcommittee, which probes Communism.

Afterward, young Tom decided he wanted to travel in Latin America to do research on his doctorate. The senator obligingly got in touch with a right - wing benefactor, razor king Pat Frawley.

EASY WAY TO GET A PH.D.

"Dear Pat," wrote Dodd on January 26, 1965, "Tom is hoping to leave for Nicaragua in about three weeks, and he told me that you had expressed an interest in his trip and indicated that he might be able to do something for you while there which would help defray his expenses."

Possibly as a guid pro quo, the senator added: "I have already looked into the patent situation, and I will write another letter about it soon." This had to do with one of Frawley's patent problems with the government.

Frawley obligingly granted Tom Jr. a scholarship to study Latin America and put him up in his villa, the Casa Frawley, in Managua.

To help the boy with his doctorate, the senator got material out of state department files to send him. But young Tom had hit upon an even easier way. On March 21, he wrote to his father's senate office manager, Michael O'Hare:

"An important request. I would like a 25 - page or so report on the Central American Common Market -- with a bibliography. This report should be a brief review of the historical development in establishing the market and then a discussion of the ways in which the market has developed.

"I understand the reference service of the Library of Congress does this. Please have them start it soon, so I'll have it for class by the end of May."

When the enterprising student finally finished his doctoral dissertation, he sent it to his dad's senate office to be typed. For five days in November, 1965, a secretary paid by the taxpayers typed the 30 - page dissertation.

Doc. Duncan Says

The pesky politicians done it agin. Took the farmers land, paid fur it wid his tax money, messed up the fishing, now gonna charge him to fish.

Got to be some new faces frum dog catcher to president.

H. L. Hunt Says

WHO WOULD LOSE MOST?

Discussions among persons who realize what a terrible threat communism poses to freedom sometimes turn to the question of who would lose most in case of a communist takeover in the United States.

It is not difficult to produce evidence, based on what has happened in countries already taken over by the communists, that this group or that group would stand to lose most in the event of the destruction of our republic form of government. Everybody can make his own list.

The list would certainly include the church, both clergy and congregations. Minorities would lose the protection afforded them in a constitutional republic. Businessmen who, carelessly, do not find any objections to the way our nation is headed, would be heavy losers. So would wage earners, the apathetic, ignorant and idle.

It becomes clear that little is to be gained from making a list of this kind. The truth is that in the transition from freedom to slavery, enforced by an elite ruling class, the loss to all Americans would soon become total and complete. There would be no winners.

Even members of the elite class who would seek to govern soon would become aware of their own position o. insecurity. As has been proved in the past, they would be subject to having their heads chopped off figuratively, sometimes literally.

This potential total loss by all is reason enough for freedom-loving Americans not to give up without a struggle. The hour is late to save freedom; too late for us not to make an all-out effort. HLH

Inside Labor

Reuther Will Bolt AFL-CIO; Forge Political Alliance with Bob Kennedy

Atlantic City: -- For decades, labor history has tramped the boardwalk here. And now Walter Reuther has decided to jog along with it.

He has decided to take a fast walk right out of the AFL-CIO.

His intimates, gathered here at a cataclysmic and catalytic United Auto Workers skilled craftsmen conference, report that the auto union chief has definitely decided to take his massive union out of George Meany's coalition.

From now on, they say, it is merely a matter of timing -- and "Walter" is a master timer.

But as Reuther has thought it all out in his Fort Myers, Fla., retreat, he will not walk alone for long. He is, if anything, a man of imaginative political instincts.

And so he will attempt to forge a mighty labor- political alliance with Bob Kennedy.

But first things first. The exodus will come when the Reuther brothers believe they can hit with the most dramatic impact.

They are ready. They need but the technical approval of the "special" policy convention in late April.

They have alerted hundreds of local auto union leaders in New York, Illinois, Michigan and California.

Each will know how to move when Reuther, in an administration white paper, gives the signal by calling a special international executive board meeting any time after May 1st. Already some auto union councils are splitting from central and state AFL-CIO bodies.

Reuther may wait until he gets a contract with the big three auto companies -- and it will be a good one -- sometime in November after a tough strike.

Then his legions will march. And they are well equipped for the political and sociological wars.

His auto union is a massive federation within itself. It has a political arm in its Citizenship Councils; a welfare and senior citizens division in its Community Services and Retired Workers Dept.; civil rights machinery in a hundred cities, especially Chicago where it is tied into the Southern Christian Leadership Conference of Martin Luther King and the Coordinating Council of Community Organizations; and a global international department.

The UAW is the financial sponsor of the Citizens Crusade Against Poverty (CCAP) and is set for alliance with thousands of "working poor" units. The International union is in everything from anti-air pollution to medicare counseling centers.

It is, in effect, the mass sociological base needed by Sen. Robert Kennedy's national organization -- call this latter what you will, a "government in exile" or simply what it is, the Kennedy wing of the Democratic Party, historically a many-winged entity.

For Walter Reuther and Bob Kennedy, this means doing what comes naturally. They have been close friends for a long time.

Close collaboration began when Barry Goldwater demanded that the McClellan Committee probe the auto union. Reuther loved this. He dispatched his executive assistant, Jack Conway, to work with the committee's counsel, the young Bobby Kennedy.

From all this flowered a beautiful friendship. To this day Jack Conway is the liaison between Reuther and the Senator. To this day, "Walter" is American labor to Kennedy and his brain trust, Arthur Schlesinger Jr. and Co.

To this day the auto union envoy to the Kennedy forces is Walter's younger brother Victor.

To this day, the Reuther-Kennedy milieu share their lack of enthusiasm over Meany and the "old line" AFL-CIO unions.

To this day, the Reuther-Kennedy-Schlesinger disdain for the Federation hawks is one of the most common denominators of both camps.

To this day President Johnson and George Meany run neck and neck as butts for the inside jokes and outside blistering attacks by the Reuther-Kennedy policymakers.

Thus, it is not likely that Bob Kennedy ever could get mass support from American labor. So he needs a mass base -- and this Reuther might be able to supply in the big cities as well as on the agricultural front.

In the 1964 and 1966 campaigns, the national auto union concentrated its money and manpower on Kennedy candidates.

Of course, Walter Reuther looks ahead to a Bob Kennedy administration. The Detroiter has cut his conduits to a Johnson White House.

If Kennedy makes it in '68, so much the better for Reuther. But '72 would satisfy the auto union chief, too.

By that time, he will be 65 years old -- and in his last term as UAW president. What then? There is precedent.

Is not his old lawyer, Arthur Goldberg, the spokesman for the U.S., before the eyes of the world in the United Nations? "Does not "Arthur" have as much influence on American foreign policy as Secretary of State Dean Rusk? Do not people talk of "Arthur" as the next Secretary of State?

Would such an arena not be the place for Walter Reuther's final conflict?

This is what some of those close to the "redhead" say his dreams are made of these days.

Mrs. Flem Kanan Whited III

Miss Dorothy Helen Brooks Weds Flem Kanan Whited III

KINGS PORT, TENN. - Miss Dorothy Helen Brooks became the bride of Flem Kanan Whited III, Jan. 22 at Broad Street Methodist church. Dr. Frank Porter and Dr. E.E. Wiley, minister of State Street Methodist church of Bristol, Va., performed the double ring ceremony at 2 p.m.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Edward Brooks Jr., of 1902 Lamont St. She is the granddaughter of Mrs. G. M. Greer of Sikeston, Mo., and the great-granddaughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Green B. Greer of Sikeston and the late Judge and Mrs. W. T. Marshall of Charleston, Mo.

The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Flem Kanan Whited Jr., 2004 Hermitage Dr.

Vows were exchanged before an altar centered with four tall cathedral candles flanked on either side by 14-branched candelabra. The candelabra were entwined with greenery and the foreground was interspersed with miniature boxwood trees.

White Grecian urns held arrangements of white gladoli and fuji chrysanthemums. A white kneeling bench and aisle cloth completed the altar decorations. Family pews were marked with white satin bows and white fuji mums.

A program of wedding music was presented by Mrs. Thomas W. Owens, organist.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a floor-length gown of angel skin peau de soie over taffeta and Chantilly lace. The fitted bodice of Chantilly lace featured a scalloped neckline and long sleeves ending in bridal points at the wrists.

The A-line skirt was complemented by a high rise waistline and a panel of lace dotted with seed pearls extending from the neckline to the hemline.

The back was made bouffant by a full circular watteau chapel-length train attached at the waist by a self-fabric bow. The bride's full-length veil of silk illusion was held in place by a crown of seed pearls.

She wore a pearl necklace, a gift of the groom and carried a handkerchief of heirloom lace that belonged to her maternal grandmother, Mrs. G. M. Greer.

She carried a cascade bouquet of white sweetheart roses, phalenopsis orchids, ivy, and white satin streamers.

Miss Greer Brooks, Winthrop College, Rock Hill, S. C., served her sister as maid of honor. Miss Becky Brooks, sister of the bride, was bridesmaid.

Their floor-length gowns were of pale aqua silk chiffon over aqua peau de soie. They featured scooped necklines and long sleeves. The gowns were complemented by a satin bow at the empire waistline.

They wore aqua satin accessories, and aqua satin bows held their shoulder-length bouffant veils in place. They carried cascade bouquets of pale yellow roses, daisy pompons and ivy.

The father of the groom served as best man. Ushers were Johnny Whited, cousin of the groom; Andy Brooks, brother of the bride; Tim Thayer, and Tony Drakos. Senior ushers were T. P. Gannaway, uncle of the bride; and Don Whited, uncle of the groom.

A reception, given by the bride's parents, followed the ceremony at the church. It was under the direction of Mrs. Gladys Porterfield and Miss Julia Peirce.

Mrs. Ivan King and Mrs. C.K. Koffman greeted guests, and Mrs. John Whited and Miss Hester Gannaway served at the bride's book. Cutting the bride's cake were Mrs. Don Reed and Miss Cynthia King.

Mrs. G. B. Greer, III, aunt of the bride, and Mrs. Mary Whited, aunt of the groom, Mrs. William Huff, cousin of the bride, and Mrs. Winston Tipton, cousin of the bride, served at the bridal table.

Mrs. Porterfield was assisted by Miss Gail Weissinger, Miss Pat Moss, Miss Cindy Peavler, Miss Sara King, Miss Jean Bockemuehl, Miss Ellen Backer, Miss Dawn Thayer, Miss Marcia Thayer and Miss Nancy Drakos. Mrs. T.P. Gannaway, presided at the receiving line.

For a wedding trip to Gatlinburg, the bride was attired in an imported wool costume suit of bright pink. She wore a deeper pink hat, white kid gloves, black patent shoes and purse, and a white orchid corsage.

The birde was graduated from Dobyns-Bennett high school and attended East Tennessee State University.

The groom, a Dobyns-Bennette graduate, attended the University of Tennessee and East Tennessee State University. He is serving with the air force and is stationed in England. Mrs. Whited joined her husband in England.

The rehearsal dinner for members of the bridal party and out-of-town guests was given at Ridgefield's Country Club by Mr. and Mrs. Tom Gannaway, Mr. and Mrs. Philip Shivell and Mr. and Mrs. Ivan King, all aunts and uncles of the bride.

Pre-nuptial parties included a coffee given at the home of Mrs. Lawrence Thayer by Mrs. Thayer, Mrs. David F. Whittmire, Mrs. John Whited, and Mrs. J. B. Morgan.

A tea was given by Harvey C. Brooks at his home, Allandale. Those assisting in serving were Mrs. Josephine Pratt, Mrs. Gilbert Gibbons, Mrs. George Wheeler, Mrs. Allan Dryden, Mrs. Carl Poole, Mrs. Tom Gannaway, Mrs. Philip Shivell, Mrs. Ivan King, Mrs. William Stone, Mrs. George Weissinger, Mrs. C. K. Koffman, Mrs. John Wimberly, Mrs. Clyde Starrett, Mrs. Thomas Owens, Mrs. Jack Sharpe, Mrs. Don Reed, Mrs. Tom Gannaway Jr., Miss Sara King and Miss Hester Gannaway.

A linen shower was given by Mrs. Charles Large, Mrs. Charles Large Jr., Mrs. Frank Rector, Mrs. J. D. Grills, and Mrs. S. E. Minnick.

A luncheon at Ridgefield's Country Club was given by Mrs. Joe Platt, Mrs. John Adams, Mrs. John Wimberly and Mrs. George Moss.

A luncheon was given by Mrs. H.D. Dale at her home.

Out-of-town guests included Mrs. G. M. Greer, grandmother of the bride; Mr. and Mrs. G. B. Greer III, aunt and uncle of the bride; Mr. and Mrs. William Huff, cousins of the bride; all from Sikeston, Mo., Mr. and Mrs. Winston Tipton, cousins of the bride; Tiptonville, Tenn., Mr. and Mrs. L. M. Bartee, aunt and uncle of the groom; Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Bartee, aunt and uncle of the groom; Mrs. Leon Valley, aunt of the groom; Mr. and Mrs. James Fletcher, cousins of the groom; all of Honaker, Va.; Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Range, Jonesboro, Tenn., Mr. Bill Mills, Spartanburg, S.C.

Cadettes Speak On Four Steps To Promotion

A program explaining the four challenges of a Girl Scout Cadette was presentec by members of troop III Monday night at the monthly meeting of the Coalesce club at the Mid-Towner restaurant.

Mrs. Maurice Stauffer, troop leader, was in charge of the program.

The first challenge -- emergency preparedness -- was explained by Kathy Tenkhoff. Members of the troop worked on the first challenge last year, received a first aid badge and passed the first aid Red Cross course.

Marsha Fisher spoke on the second challenge -- social dependability. She stressed the need of understanding to appreciate people of all ages.

The troop will work on the challenge of citizenship next year, Sally Mitchell said. Members will become aware of their citizenship by birth or choice of state or nation. They will learn to recognize their rights and responsibilities as citizens of the U.S.

Patricia Huff closed the presentation with information on the final challenge - the girl scout promise. It is the final step toward becoming a first class girl scout. The challenge is for the girls to fully understand and apply the meaning of the promise daily.

Camping trips at Latonka Camp on Lake Wappapello were described by Jane Campbell.

1,251 Women Attend Second Ladies Fair

About 1,251 women attended both sessions of the second in a series of "Ladies Fair" programs sponsored by Wetterau Foods, Inc., sponsors of IGA food stores.

The program, a spring fashion show and dessert, featured professional models in a "Paper Doll Parade," showing paper dresses and accessories.

Harry Gibbs, representative of the George Savan advertising firm, St. Louis, was master of ceremonies.

Paper dresses were won during the afternoon show by Mrs. Wilson McDonald of Charleston, Mrs. A. P. Sargent, Mrs. W. Oscar Carroll, Mrs. A. J. Renner, Mrs. J. N. Walker and Mrs. Ruby Causey of Essex. Mrs. Carl Clayton was recipient of a transistor radio in the afteroon and Mrs. Ruth Watson of Charleston received a $100 gift certificate good for merchandise from any IGA store.

During the night session, Mrs. Joe Engram of Vanduser, Mrs. Mildred Vincent, Mrs. Joe Voelker, Mrs. C. R. Boswell of Oran, Dora Bishop, Mrs. Lucille McDonald and Ruth Wallace of Oran won paper dresses. Miss Ruth Ann Lumsden of Matthews received the radio and Miss Lois Miller won a gift certificate for $100 of wearing apparel.

The programs were at 1:30 p.m. and 7:30 p.m. at the armory.

Of Local Interest

Here from Friday until Sunday were Mr. and Mrs. Max Lathum and Angela of Carbondale, Kans., and Mr. and Mrs. Gary Lathum with Gary, Jr., of Trenton, Tenn. They were guests of their mother, Mrs. Maxine Lathum, and also visited their grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. O. L. Daugherty. Daugherty has been released from the hospital after four and a half weeks, but is recovering nicely. The two families had made this trip to Sikeston in order to attend the funeral of their grandfather, Steve Lathum, who was buried Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hileman and sons, Timmy and Chipper spent yesterday and today, in Paducah, Ky., visiting Mrs. Hileman's sister, Mrs. Talmadge Martin, her husband, and sons, David and Todd.

Please don't forget to call your locals in to Cherie, GR 1-0380. I know spring vacation is arriving and people will be visiting so don't be negligent, call me.

Spending Monday and Tuesday, in Kirkwood with her sister, Mrs. Robert Riley and family, were Mrs. Kenneth Dement. Mrs. Riley and her four children are expected to return the visit next Monday, and be guests of the Dements for at least three days.

Mrs. Betty Henderson will visit the Rev. James E. Smith and family in Alton, Ill., over the weekend.

Mrs. J. H. Skelton and granddaughter, Patty Skelton, and Mr. and Mrs. Harold Skelton spent Sunday with Mrs. Robert Greer, 205 Mill Row. Mrs. J. H. Skelton and Mrs. Greer are sisters.

Outlook Is For Lower Food Prices

NEW YORK (AP) — Sure'n the supermarkets are readying themselves for the wearin' o' the green this weekend.

There's corned beef for St. Patrick's Day celebrants on special in markets in the Northeast, Southeast and Midwest, and mounds of cabbage to go with it.

A price war is under way in St. Louis, Mo. The Kroger Co. fired the first salvo, announcing it was curring prices on 2,320 items. Spokesmen for three other chains said they would follow suit.

The outlook for the rest of the country is for prices lower than a year ago, when meat prices soared and fresh vegetables and fruits were high. Supplies are larger now.

First, there is plenty of beef this year. Beef cuts are being featured in the Midwest, and choice cuts are down 1 to 3 cents a pound in southern California.

Hog prices have dropped the lowest since the spring of 1965. There's a prospect of a 9 per cent increase in hog production.

A major supermarket chain in the New York area cut pork chops 30 cents a pound to 79 cents this week. Canned hams are piling up for Easter.

Broiler prices, down most of the winter, are inching up a bit. Egg prices, which have dropped sharply, are edging higher.

Turkey prices generally are much lower than a year ago. One big reason: 48 per cent more frozen turkey in storage.

Milk production has been gaining slightly over last year's low levels. As a result, prices may decline until June.

Farmers plan to raise the acreage they plant in major crop 7 per cent this year. If the weather is good, it could be the most bountiful harvest in American history — and some bargains in the supermarkets later this year.

Arthur Bernard Gives Conservation Program

Arthur Bernard, Scott county conservation agent, showed a film, "George Washington's River," to the Woman's club Tuesday. The film showed pollution of the Potomac River.

Mrs. H. G. Cathey, conservation chairman, introduced the program.

Mrs. Thatcher Scism, president, was in charge of the business meeting. An invitation from the Morley Study club to attend its meeting Friday at 2 p.m. was read.

Mrs. E. F. Weidemann announced her program for April in the fine arts department.

Mrs. Cathey announced plans for Barbara Nall to attend the sophomore pilgrimage to Jefferson City April 11.

Mrs. William Proffer reported on the benefit card party held March 6 and announced that the night session was rescheduled because of the snow storm. She said the session will be Monday at 7 p.m. in the community room of Security National Bank. The public is invited. Tickets can be purchased at the door.

The spring convention of the Missouri Federation of Women's clubs will be May 5 in Poplar Bluff. Mrs. J. W. Foley was elected the club's delegate with Mrs. H. G. Cathy as alternate.

Mrs. E. J. Nienstedt, Mrs. M. E. Montgomery and Mrs. A. L. Waller were appointed members of a nominating committee.

The auditing committee members are Mrs. Stella Emory and Mrs. Eva Welter.

A social hour followed. Hostesses were Mrs. M. S. Gwinn, Mrs. Harold Lewis, Miss Effie Campbell and Mrs. Vincent Wissman.

Mrs. Flem Kanan Whited III

Miss Dorothy Helen Brooks Weds Flem Kanan Whited III

KINGS PORT, TENN. - Miss Dorothy Helen Brooks became the bride of Flem Kanan Whited III, Jan. 22 at Broad Street Methodist church. Dr. Frank Porter and Dr. E.E. Wiley, minister of State Street Methodist church of Bristol, Va., performed the double ring ceremony at 2 p.m.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Edward Brooks Jr., of 1902 Lamont St. She is the granddaughter of Mrs. G. M. Greer of Sikeston, Mo., and the great-granddaughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Green B. Greer of Sikeston and the late Judge and Mrs. W. T. Marshall of Charleston, Mo.

The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Flem Kanan Whited Jr., 2004 Hermitage Dr.

Vows were exchanged before an altar centered with four tall cathedral candles flanked on either side by 14-branched candelabra. The candelabra were entwined with greenery and the foreground was interspersed with miniature boxwood trees.

White Grecian urns held arrangements of white gladoli and fuji chrysanthemums. A white kneeling bench and aisle cloth completed the altar decorations. Family pews were marked with white satin bows and white fuji mums.

A program of wedding music was presented by Mrs. Thomas W. Owens, organist.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a floor-length gown of angel skin peau de soie over taffeta and Chantilly lace. The fitted bodice of Chantilly lace featured a scalloped neckline and long sleeves ending in bridal points at the wrists.

The A-line skirt was complemented by a high rise waistline and a panel of lace dotted with seed pearls extending from the neckline to the hemline.

The back was made bouffant by a full circular watteau chapel-length train attached at the waist by a self-fabric bow. The bride's full-length veil of silk illusion was held in place by a crown of seed pearls.

She wore a pearl necklace, a gift of the groom and carried a handkerchief of heirloom lace that belonged to her maternal grandmother, Mrs. G. M. Greer.

She carried a cascade bouquet of white sweetheart roses, phalenopsis orchids, ivy, and white satin streamers.

Miss Greer Brooks, Winthrop College, Rock Hill, S. C., served her sister as maid of honor. Miss Becky Brooks, sister of the bride, was bridesmaid.

Their floor-length gowns were of pale aqua silk chiffon over aqua peau de soie. They featured scooped necklines and long sleeves. The gowns were complemented by a satin bow at the empire waistline.

They wore aqua satin accessories, and aqua satin bows held their shoulder-length bouffant veils in place. They carried cascade bouquets of pale yellow roses, daisy pompons and ivy.

The father of the groom served as best man. Ushers were Johnny Whited, cousin of the groom; Andy Brooks, brother of the bride; Tim Thayer, and Tony Drakos. Senior ushers were T. P. Gannaway, uncle of the bride; and Don Whited, uncle of the groom.

A reception, given by the bride's parents, followed the ceremony at the church. It was under the direction of Mrs. Gladys Porterfield and Miss Julia Peirce.

Mrs. Ivan King and Mrs. C.K. Koffman greeted guests, and Mrs. John Whited and Miss Hester Gannaway served at the bride's book. Cutting the bride's cake were Mrs. Don Reed and Miss Cynthia King.

Mrs. G. B. Greer, III, aunt of the bride, and Mrs. Mary Whited, aunt of the groom, Mrs. William Huff, cousin of the bride, and Mrs. Winston Tipton, cousin of the bride, served at the bridal table.

Mrs. Porterfield was assisted by Miss Gail Weissinger, Miss Pat Moss, Miss Cindy Peavler, Miss Sara King, Miss Jean Bockemuehl, Miss Ellen Backer, Miss Dawn Thayer, Miss Marcia Thayer and Miss Nancy Drakos. Mrs. T.P. Gannaway, presided at the receiving line.

For a wedding trip to Gatlinburg, the bride was attired in an imported wool costume suit of bright pink. She wore a deeper pink hat, white kid gloves, black patent shoes and purse, and a white orchid corsage.

The birde was graduated from Dobyns-Bennett high school and attended East Tennessee State University.

The groom, a Dobyns-Bennette graduate, attended the University of Tennessee and East Tennessee State University. He is serving with the air force and is stationed in England. Mrs. Whited joined her husband in England.

The rehearsal dinner for members of the bridal party and out-of-town guests was given at Ridgefield's Country Club by Mr. and Mrs. Tom Gannaway, Mr. and Mrs. Philip Shivell and Mr. and Mrs. Ivan King, all aunts and uncles of the bride.

Pre-nuptial parties included a coffee given at the home of Mrs. Lawrence Thayer by Mrs. Thayer, Mrs. David F. Whittmire, Mrs. John Whited, and Mrs. J. B. Morgan.

A tea was given by Harvey C. Brooks at his home, Allandale. Those assisting in serving were Mrs. Josephine Pratt, Mrs. Gilbert Gibbons, Mrs. George Wheeler, Mrs. Allan Dryden, Mrs. Carl Poole, Mrs. Tom Gannaway, Mrs. Philip Shivell, Mrs. Ivan King, Mrs. William Stone, Mrs. George Weissinger, Mrs. C. K. Koffman, Mrs. John Wimberly, Mrs. Clyde Starrett, Mrs. Thomas Owens, Mrs. Jack Sharpe, Mrs. Don Reed, Mrs. Tom Gannaway Jr., Miss Sara King and Miss Hester Gannaway.

A linen shower was given by Mrs. Charles Large, Mrs. Charles Large Jr., Mrs. Frank Rector, Mrs. J. D. Grills, and Mrs. S. E. Minnick.

A luncheon at Ridgefield's Country Club was given by Mrs. Joe Platt, Mrs. John Adams, Mrs. John Wimberly and Mrs. George Moss.

A luncheon was given by Mrs. H.D. Dale at her home.

Out-of-town guests included Mrs. G. M. Greer, grandmother of the bride; Mr. and Mrs. G. B. Greer III, aunt and uncle of the bride; Mr. and Mrs. William Huff, cousins of the bride; all from Sikeston, Mo., Mr. and Mrs. Winston Tipton, cousins of the bride; Tiptonville, Tenn., Mr. and Mrs. L. M. Bartee, aunt and uncle of the groom; Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Bartee, aunt and uncle of the groom; Mrs. Leon Valley, aunt of the groom; Mr. and Mrs. James Fletcher, cousins of the groom; all of Honaker, Va.; Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Range, Jonesboro, Tenn., Mr. Bill Mills, Spartanburg, S.C.

Cadettes Speak On Four Steps To Promotion

A program explaining the four challenges of a Girl Scout Cadette was presentec by members of troop III Monday night at the monthly meeting of the Coalesce club at the Mid-Towner restaurant.

Mrs. Maurice Stauffer, troop leader, was in charge of the program.

The first challenge -- emergency preparedness -- was explained by Kathy Tenkhoff. Members of the troop worked on the first challenge last year, received a first aid badge and passed the first aid Red Cross course.

Marsha Fisher spoke on the second challenge -- social dependability. She stressed the need of understanding to appreciate people of all ages.

The troop will work on the challenge of citizenship next year, Sally Mitchell said. Members will become aware of their citizenship by birth or choice of state or nation. They will learn to recognize their rights and responsibilities as citizens of the U.S.

Patricia Huff closed the presentation with information on the final challenge - the girl scout promise. It is the final step toward becoming a first class girl scout. The challenge is for the girls to fully understand and apply the meaning of the promise daily.

Camping trips at Latonka Camp on Lake Wappapello were described by Jane Campbell.

1,251 Women Attend Second Ladies Fair

About 1,251 women attended both sessions of the second in a series of "Ladies Fair" programs sponsored by Wetterau Foods, Inc., sponsors of IGA food stores.

The program, a spring fashion show and dessert, featured professional models in a "Paper Doll Parade," showing paper dresses and accessories.

Harry Gibbs, representative of the George Savan advertising firm, St. Louis, was master of ceremonies.

Paper dresses were won during the afternoon show by Mrs. Wilson McDonald of Charleston, Mrs. A. P. Sargent, Mrs. W. Oscar Carroll, Mrs. A. J. Renner, Mrs. J. N. Walker and Mrs. Ruby Causey of Essex. Mrs. Carl Clayton was recipient of a transistor radio in the afteroon and Mrs. Ruth Watson of Charleston received a $100 gift certificate good for merchandise from any IGA store.

During the night session, Mrs. Joe Engram of Vanduser, Mrs. Mildred Vincent, Mrs. Joe Voelker, Mrs. C. R. Boswell of Oran, Dora Bishop, Mrs. Lucille McDonald and Ruth Wallace of Oran won paper dresses. Miss Ruth Ann Lumsden of Matthews received the radio and Miss Lois Miller won a gift certificate for $100 of wearing apparel.

The programs were at 1:30 p.m. and 7:30 p.m. at the armory.

Of Local Interest

Here from Friday until Sunday were Mr. and Mrs. Max Lathum and Angela of Carbondale, Kans., and Mr. and Mrs. Gary Lathum with Gary, Jr., of Trenton, Tenn. They were guests of their mother, Mrs. Maxine Lathum, and also visited their grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. O. L. Daugherty. Daugherty has been released from the hospital after four and a half weeks, but is recovering nicely. The two families had made this trip to Sikeston in order to attend the funeral of their grandfather, Steve Lathum, who was buried Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hileman and sons, Timmy and Chipper spent yesterday and today, in Paducah, Ky., visiting Mrs. Hileman's sister, Mrs. Talmadge Martin, her husband, and sons, David and Todd.

Please don't forget to call your locals in to Cherie, GR 1-0380. I know spring vacation is arriving and people will be visiting so don't be negligent, call me.

Spending Monday and Tuesday, in Kirkwood with her sister, Mrs. Robert Riley and family, were Mrs. Kenneth Dement. Mrs. Riley and her four children are expected to return the visit next Monday, and be guests of the Dements for at least three days.

Mrs. Betty Henderson will visit the Rev. James E. Smith and family in Alton, Ill., over the weekend.

Mrs. J. H. Skelton and granddaughter, Patty Skelton, and Mr. and Mrs. Harold Skelton spent Sunday with Mrs. Robert Greer, 205 Mill Row. Mrs. J. H. Skelton and Mrs. Greer are sisters.

Arthur Bernard Gives Conservation Program

Arthur Bernard, Scott county conservation agent, showed a film, "George Washington's River," to the Woman's club Tuesday. The film showed pollution of the Potomac River.

Mrs. H. G. Cathey, conservation chairman, introduced the program.

Mrs. Thatcher Scism, president, was in charge of the business meeting. An invitation from the Morley Study club to attend its meeting Friday at 2 p.m. was read.

Mrs. E. F. Weidemann announced her program for April in the fine arts department.

Mrs. Cathey announced plans for Barbara Nall to attend the sophomore pilgrimage to Jefferson City April 11.

Mrs. William Proffer reported on the benefit card party held March 6 and announced that the night session was rescheduled because of the snow storm. She said the session will be Monday at 7 p.m. in the community room of Security National Bank. The public is invited. Tickets can be purchased at the door.

The spring convention of the Missouri Federation of Women's clubs will be May 5 in Poplar Bluff. Mrs. J. W. Foley was elected the club's delegate with Mrs. H. G. Cathy as alternate.

Mrs. E. J. Nienstedt, Mrs. M. E. Montgomery and Mrs. A. L. Waller were appointed members of a nominating committee.

The auditing committee members are Mrs. Stella Emory and Mrs. Eva Welter.

A social hour followed. Hostesses were Mrs. M. S. Gwinn, Mrs. Harold Lewis, Miss Effie Campbell and Mrs. Vincent Wissman.

Outlook Is For Lower Food Prices

NEW YORK (AP) — Sure'n the supermarkets are readying themselves for the wearin' o' the green this weekend.

There's corned beef for St. Patrick's Day celebrants on special in markets in the Northeast, Southeast and Midwest, and mounds of cabbage to go with it.

A price war is under way in St. Louis, Mo. The Kroger Co. fired the first salvo, announcing it was curring prices on 2,320 items. Spokesmen for three other chains said they would follow suit.

The outlook for the rest of the country is for prices lower than a year ago, when meat prices soared and fresh vegetables and fruits were high. Supplies are larger now.

First, there is plenty of beef this year. Beef cuts are being featured in the Midwest, and choice cuts are down 1 to 3 cents a pound in southern California.

Hog prices have dropped the lowest since the spring of 1965. There's a prospect of a 9 per cent increase in hog production.

A major supermarket chain in the New York area cut pork chops 30 cents a pound to 79 cents this week. Canned hams are piling up for Easter.

Broiler prices, down most of the winter, are inching up a bit. Egg prices, which have dropped sharply, are edging higher.

Turkey prices generally are much lower than a year ago. One big reason: 48 per cent more frozen turkey in storage.

Milk production has been gaining slightly over last year's low levels. As a result, prices may decline until June.

Farmers plan to raise the acreage they plant in major crop 7 per cent this year. If the weather is good, it could be the most bountiful harvest in American history — and some bargains in the supermarkets later this year.

Devine's Assistants Remain For Coming Season

COLUMBIA - The seven-man staff of assistant football coaches at the University of Missouri has been reappointed by the Board of Curators for another year.

The appointments involve Albert J. Onofrio, Clay C. Cooper, John Kadlec, Robert Eugene Frala, Harry E. Smith, Keith Weber and Henry N. Kuhlmann, Coach Dan Devine said.

Devine requested that Smith, who was "borrowed" from the physical education faculty last September, continue on his football staff through the spring practice season. In the fall Smith will return to teaching of physical education, but will be a summer staff member in intercollegiate athletics.

All seven have titles of assistant football coach, with Smith also bearing an academic title of instructor in physical education.

Devine, in addition to serving as head football coach, will become director of athletics on July 1 with the retirement of Don Faurot.

Giants Have Problem Pitcher---Marichal

A couple of veteran pitchers have discovered they have some problems, while the San Francisco Giants have discovered they have a problem pitcher.

The problem is Juan Marichal.

Giants' President Horace Stoneham said in Phoenix Wednesday that contract negotiations with the ace right-hander have reached an impasse "and it looks like we have a definite holdout on our hands."

The club said Marichal has been offered $100,000 and that he is asking $110,000.

"The next move is up to Juan," Stoneham said.

Marichal, 25-6 with a 2.23 earned run average last season, is in the Dominican Republic.

Whitey Ford and Don Drysdale had problems of a different nature Wednesday. Drysdale, making his first start of the season for the Los Angeles Dodgers, gave up five hits and a run in three innings at Vero Beach, Fla., and the St. Louis Cardinals took a 5-2 exhibition victory.

Ford, belted for nine hits in three innings the first time he worked this season, gave up singles to the first four men he faced at Fort Lauderdale. The little lefty regained the touch, however, retired the next 11 men he faced and started the New York Yankees to a 6-3 decision over Boston.

In the other exhibitions in Florida, Cincinnati beat the New York Mets 11-6 at St. Petersburg, Washington nipped Atlanta 2-1 in 11 innings at Pompano Beach, the Chicago White Sox stopped Pittsburgh 4-1 at Fort Myers, Houston edged Detroit 4-3 at Cocoa, Baltimore romped over Kansas City 11-4 at Miami and Minnesota shelled Philadelphia 14-1 at Orlando.

In Arizona, the Chicago Cubs defeated California 7-6 at Scottsdale and San Francisco edged Cleveland 3-2 in 10 innings at Phoenix.

The Cardinals rapped out 16 hits off Drysdale and his successors, with John Duffie the loser. A two-run single by Ed Spezio, off Duffie in the seventh, wrapped it up.

Steve Whitaker had a homer and two singles and Mickey Mantle a run-scoring double in support of Ford. The Yanks, now 5-1 in exhibitions, got four runs in the first inning.

Rookie second baseman Ron Carew led Minnesota's rout of the Phillies, driving in five runs with a homer and bases-loaded double.

Chicago Bulls Making Steps Toward Playoffs

The Chicago Bulls have taken a giant stride towards landing a spot in the NBA playoffs in their first season in the National Basketball Association.

The Bulls whipped the Detroit Pistons on the road Wednesday night 98-91 and moved into fourth place in the Western Division a half-game ahead of the now last-place Pistons.

The Bulls have two games left to play in the regular season ending Sunday, the Pistons three.

Jerry Sloan threw in 32 points to lead a second half Chicago rally that erased a 69-62 Detroit lead.

Baskets by Dave Bing, who led the Pistons with 28 points, pulled Detroit to within three points before the Bulls sewed it up on a 20-foot jumper by Jerry Ward with 45 seconds to go.

Cincinnati broke a tie with the New York Knicks for third place in the Eastern Division. The Royals beat the Boston Celtics at home 112-108 while the Knicks lost on the road to the Baltimore Bullets 121-114.

Philadelphia came from behind in the second half to rout Los Angeles on the road 138-122 in the other NBA game scheduled Wednesday. The 76ers played the second half without Wilt Chamberlain. He was ejected for unsportsmanlike conduct with 75 seconds left in the first half.

Oscar Robertson's 31 points, including two free throws that insured the victory in the closing seconds, paced the Royals to their first conquest of the Celtics this season.

Kevin Loughery, with 29 points, led Baltimore over the Knicks. Two of his 11 free throws helped pull the Bullets out of danger after the Knicks had rallied to within 109-105. Walt Bellamy, with 32 points and 22 rebounds, paced the Knicks.

Billy Cunningham, with 31 points, and Hal Greer, with 29, led the second half attack for Philadelphia after the 76ers trailed at halftime 69-68. It was the 66th victory against only 12 defeats for the Eastern Division champs. Gail Goodrich's 26 points was high for the Lakers.

Questions In Yankee Spring Camp

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP) — Can a rookie first baseman lead the New York Yankees out of the American League cellar?

Can the rookie play first base?

Manager Ralph Houk, who stood by helplessly as the Yankees tumbled into the cellar last year with a thud heard round the baseball world, is waiting patiently to find out if Mickey Mantle can play the new position.

Houk feels much of the team's success depends on whether he can.

Mantle, an outfielder for 16 years, has switched positions with Joe Pepitone because Houk feels Pepitone's presence in center field will stabilize the outfield and playing first could help Mantle save his battered legs.

The question of whether the 35-year-old Mantle can play first is being answered in spring training. If player or manager doesn't like how the experiment is progressing, he can end it immediately, and Pepitone will move back to first.

There's no doubt that Mantle still is better than most hitters in the league, and there's no doubt the Yankees need his bat in the line-up. They don't have too many others.

Pepitone took over the role of slugging leader last season when he hit 31 homers and drove in 83 runs. He'll also be one of the better defensive center fielders in the league and will be well supported on either side in the outfield.

Tom Tresh, who divided his time between the infield and the outfield last year, is set for left field while Houk plans on splitting right field between rookies Steve Whitaker, against right-handed pitchers, and Bill Robinson, against southpaws.

Robinson is the 23-year-old hopeful for whom the Yankees traded third baseman Clete Boyer to Atlanta. Boyer's departure left New York without any of its regular 1966 infields back for this season.

Second baseman Bobby Richardson retired, and Horace Clarke, who played a lot of shortstop, was out of position.

Clarke has returned to second, Ruben Amaro is the shortstop and Charley Smith, acquired from the Cards for Roger Maris, will be at third.

Kentucky's Pat Riley Drafted By Cowboys

NEW YORK (AP) — On the final day of the first combined draft by the National and American football leagues such stars as Jimmy Walker, Pat Riley and George Carter were picked.

If you say these three were basketball stars in college, you're right.

And if you also say such pro football players as All-NFL defensive back Cornell Green of Dallas played basketball instead of football in college, you're right again.

So, following the formula which has proved so successful in the cases of players like Green and his Dallas teammate Pete Gent, the pros selected Walker and several other basketball standouts Wednesday.

Walker, the All-American from Providence which fields no football team, was taken by New Orleans on the last pick of the 17th and final round.

The 25 NFL-AFL clubs drafted 262 players in the final 12 rounds after picking 133 Tuesday in the first five rounds.

Some college stars, strictly in football, drafted Wednesday included quarterback Terry Southall of Baylor, by Baltimore in the sixth round; quarterback Virgil Carter of Brigham Young, by Chicago in the sixth; Tulsa tackle Don Bandy by Washington in the sixth, and All-America defensive back Tom Beier of Miami, Fla. by Miami in the 10th.

One player also was signed — San Diego's first round pick, defensive tackle Ronald Billingsley of Wyoming.

Riley, the backcourt star from Kentucky, was selected by Dallas in the 11th round. Carter, the scoring star of St. Bonaventure, another school which shuns football, was picked in the 13th by Buffalo.

Walker was chosen as an end, Riley as a quarterback and Carter as a halfback.

Another well-known basketball player, big David Lattin of defending national champion Texas Western, was picked in the final round by Kansas City. However, Lattin is only a junior, and his selection undoubtedly will be voided.

Beginning with this year, there no longer is a future, or redshirt, draft.

Basketball wasn't the only other sport looked at in the search for talent, the world of track and field also was invaded.

Randy Matson of Texas A&M the world record holder in the shotput, was taken as a defensive tackle by Atlanta in the fifth round, and Tommie Smith of San Jose State, the world record holder in the 220-yard dash, was picked as a halfback by Los Angeles in the ninth round.

TORONTO (AP) - Dick Shatto, a longtime halfback with the Toronto Argonauts of the Canadian Football League, underwent surgery Wednesday to repair a damaged vertebrae in his neck.

Shatto, 34, retired after the 1965 season after playing 15 years for the Argonauts. He is a graduate of the University of Kentucky.

CARACAS, Venezuela (AP) - Top-seeded Tony Roche of Australia beat Ronald Barnes of Brazil 6-2, 6-1, Wednesday to reach the quarter-finals of the Altamira International Tennis Tournament.

MU's Vanatta Appointed Assistant Dean Of Students

COLUMBIA - Robert Vanatta, whose request for retirement as head basketball coach was announced this month, has been appointed assistant dean of students at the University of Missouri.

His new title was affirmed last week by the Board of Curators and was announced today by Chancellor John W. Schwada.

Vanatta, head coach in basketball for the Tigers since 1962, rounded out 25 years in te coaching profession this month. Norman Stewart, former Tiger all-American basketball and baseball player, has been appointed as his successor as basketball coach.

In his new position, Vanatta will work with Dr. Jack Matthews, dean of students, spending about half his time working on fraternity affairs and one-fourth time in general duties of aiding with administration of student affairs and activities and student conduct. He will retain an academic title of associate professor and teach physical education classes on a one-fourth time basis.

Illinois-Big Ten Showdown Saturday

CHICAGO AP - the University of Illinois, ordered to fire three coaches in its $21,000 slush fund scandal or face ouster, from the Big Ten, goes into the showdown Saturday playing its cards close to the chest.

"I won't be able to say until after Saturday's meeting," university President Dr. David D. Henry replied Wednesday when asked whether Illinois has a counterproposal to the Big Ten demand to fire the coaches. Dr. Henry has called the demand "too harsh," a viewpoint shared by Illinois Gov. Otto Kerner.

The meeting was requested by Dr. Henry and convened Wednesday by the Big Ten's commissioner, Bill Reed. Policy - making faculty representatives from the conference's nine other members will be present Saturday at the Chicago meeting.

Illinois must appeal by Friday the faculty group's March 3 mandate upholding a Feb. 22 action by Big Ten athletic directors. The directors at that time ordered the firing of head football Coach Pete Elliott, head basketball Coach Harry Combes and assistant basketball coach Howie Braun.

Five Illinois athletes were ruled permanently ineligible.

Devine's Assistants Remain For Coming Season

COLUMBIA - The seven-man staff of assistant football coaches at the University of Missouri has been reappointed by the Board of Curators for another year.

The appointments involve Albert J. Onofrio, Clay C. Cooper, John Kadlec, Robert Eugene Frala, Harry E. Smith, Keith Weber and Henry N. Kuhlmann, Coach Dan Devine said.

Devine requested that Smith, who was "borrowed" from the physical education faculty last September, continue on his football staff through the spring practice season. In the fall Smith will return to teaching of physical education, but will be a summer staff member in intercollegiate athletics.

All seven have titles of assistant football coach, with Smith also bearing an academic title of instructor in physical education.

Devine, in addition to serving as head football coach, will become director of athletics on July 1 with the retirement of Don Faurot.

Kentucky's Pat Riley Drafted By Cowboys

NEW YORK (AP) — On the final day of the first combined draft by the National and American football leagues such stars as Jimmy Walker, Pat Riley and George Carter were picked.

If you say these three were basketball stars in college, you're right.

And if you also say such pro football players as All-NFL defensive back Cornell Green of Dallas played basketball instead of football in college, you're right again.

So, following the formula which has proved so successful in the cases of players like Green and his Dallas teammate Pete Gent, the pros selected Walker and several other basketball standouts Wednesday.

Walker, the All-American from Providence which fields no football team, was taken by New Orleans on the last pick of the 17th and final round.

The 25 NFL-AFL clubs drafted 262 players in the final 12 rounds after picking 133 Tuesday in the first five rounds.

Some college stars, strictly in football, drafted Wednesday included quarterback Terry Southall of Baylor, by Baltimore in the sixth round; quarterback Virgil Carter of Brigham Young, by Chicago in the sixth; Tulsa tackle Don Bandy by Washington in the sixth, and All-America defensive back Tom Beier of Miami, Fla. by Miami in the 10th.

One player also was signed — San Diego's first round pick, defensive tackle Ronald Billingsley of Wyoming.

Riley, the backcourt star from Kentucky, was selected by Dallas in the 11th round. Carter, the scoring star of St. Bonaventure, another school which shuns football, was picked in the 13th by Buffalo.

Walker was chosen as an end, Riley as a quarterback and Carter as a halfback.

Another well-known basketball player, big David Lattin of defending national champion Texas Western, was picked in the final round by Kansas City. However, Lattin is only a junior, and his selection undoubtedly will be voided.

Beginning with this year, there no longer is a future, or redshirt, draft.

Basketball wasn't the only other sport looked at in the search for talent, the world of track and field also was invaded.

Randy Matson of Texas A&M the world record holder in the shotput, was taken as a defensive tackle by Atlanta in the fifth round, and Tommie Smith of San Jose State, the world record holder in the 220-yard dash, was picked as a halfback by Los Angeles in the ninth round.

TORONTO (AP) - Dick Shatto, a longtime halfback with the Toronto Argonauts of the Canadian Football League, underwent surgery Wednesday to repair a damaged vertebrae in his neck.

Shatto, 34, retired after the 1965 season after playing 15 years for the Argonauts. He is a graduate of the University of Kentucky.

CARACAS, Venezuela (AP) - Top-seeded Tony Roche of Australia beat Ronald Barnes of Brazil 6-2, 6-1, Wednesday to reach the quarter-finals of the Altamira International Tennis Tournament.

MU's Vanatta Appointed Assistant Dean Of Students

COLUMBIA - Robert Vanatta, whose request for retirement as head basketball coach was announced this month, has been appointed assistant dean of students at the University of Missouri.

His new title was affirmed last week by the Board of Curators and was announced today by Chancellor John W. Schwada.

Vanatta, head coach in basketball for the Tigers since 1962, rounded out 25 years in te coaching profession this month. Norman Stewart, former Tiger all-American basketball and baseball player, has been appointed as his successor as basketball coach.

In his new position, Vanatta will work with Dr. Jack Matthews, dean of students, spending about half his time working on fraternity affairs and one-fourth time in general duties of aiding with administration of student affairs and activities and student conduct. He will retain an academic title of associate professor and teach physical education classes on a one-fourth time basis.

Illinois-Big Ten Showdown Saturday

CHICAGO AP - the University of Illinois, ordered to fire three coaches in its $21,000 slush fund scandal or face ouster, from the Big Ten, goes into the showdown Saturday playing its cards close to the chest.

"I won't be able to say until after Saturday's meeting," university President Dr. David D. Henry replied Wednesday when asked whether Illinois has a counterproposal to the Big Ten demand to fire the coaches. Dr. Henry has called the demand "too harsh," a viewpoint shared by Illinois Gov. Otto Kerner.

The meeting was requested by Dr. Henry and convened Wednesday by the Big Ten's commissioner, Bill Reed. Policy - making faculty representatives from the conference's nine other members will be present Saturday at the Chicago meeting.

Illinois must appeal by Friday the faculty group's March 3 mandate upholding a Feb. 22 action by Big Ten athletic directors. The directors at that time ordered the firing of head football Coach Pete Elliott, head basketball Coach Harry Combes and assistant basketball coach Howie Braun.

Five Illinois athletes were ruled permanently ineligible.

Giants Have Problem Pitcher---Marichal

A couple of veteran pitchers have discovered they have some problems, while the San Francisco Giants have discovered they have a problem pitcher.

The problem is Juan Marichal.

Giants' President Horace Stoneham said in Phoenix Wednesday that contract negotiations with the ace right-hander have reached an impasse "and it looks like we have a definite holdout on our hands."

The club said Marichal has been offered $100,000 and that he is asking $110,000.

"The next move is up to Juan," Stoneham said.

Marichal, 25-6 with a 2.23 earned run average last season, is in the Dominican Republic.

Whitey Ford and Don Drysdale had problems of a different nature Wednesday. Drysdale, making his first start of the season for the Los Angeles Dodgers, gave up five hits and a run in three innings at Vero Beach, Fla., and the St. Louis Cardinals took a 5-2 exhibition victory.

Ford, belted for nine hits in three innings the first time he worked this season, gave up singles to the first four men he faced at Fort Lauderdale. The little lefty regained the touch, however, retired the next 11 men he faced and started the New York Yankees to a 6-3 decision over Boston.

In the other exhibitions in Florida, Cincinnati beat the New York Mets 11-6 at St. Petersburg, Washington nipped Atlanta 2-1 in 11 innings at Pompano Beach, the Chicago White Sox stopped Pittsburgh 4-1 at Fort Myers, Houston edged Detroit 4-3 at Cocoa, Baltimore romped over Kansas City 11-4 at Miami and Minnesota shelled Philadelphia 14-1 at Orlando.

In Arizona, the Chicago Cubs defeated California 7-6 at Scottsdale and San Francisco edged Cleveland 3-2 in 10 innings at Phoenix.

The Cardinals rapped out 16 hits off Drysdale and his successors, with John Duffie the loser. A two-run single by Ed Spezio, off Duffie in the seventh, wrapped it up.

Steve Whitaker had a homer and two singles and Mickey Mantle a run-scoring double in support of Ford. The Yanks, now 5-1 in exhibitions, got four runs in the first inning.

Rookie second baseman Ron Carew led Minnesota's rout of the Phillies, driving in five runs with a homer and bases-loaded double.

Chicago Bulls Making Steps Toward Playoffs

The Chicago Bulls have taken a giant stride towards landing a spot in the NBA playoffs in their first season in the National Basketball Association.

The Bulls whipped the Detroit Pistons on the road Wednesday night 98-91 and moved into fourth place in the Western Division a half-game ahead of the now last-place Pistons.

The Bulls have two games left to play in the regular season ending Sunday, the Pistons three.

Jerry Sloan threw in 32 points to lead a second half Chicago rally that erased a 69-62 Detroit lead.

Baskets by Dave Bing, who led the Pistons with 28 points, pulled Detroit to within three points before the Bulls sewed it up on a 20-foot jumper by Jerry Ward with 45 seconds to go.

Cincinnati broke a tie with the New York Knicks for third place in the Eastern Division. The Royals beat the Boston Celtics at home 112-108 while the Knicks lost on the road to the Baltimore Bullets 121-114.

Philadelphia came from behind in the second half to rout Los Angeles on the road 138-123 in the other NBA game scheduled Wednesday. The 76ers played the second half without Wilt Chamberlain. He was ejected for unsportsmanlike conduct with 75 seconds left in the first half.

Oscar Robertson's 31 points, including two free throws that insured the victory in the closing seconds, paced the Royals to their first conquest of the Celtics this season.

Kevin Loughery, with 29 points, led Baltimore over the Knicks. Two of his 11 free throws helped pull the Bullets out of danger after the Knicks had rallied to within 109-105. Walt Bellamy, with 32 points and 22 rebounds, paced the Knicks.

Billy Cunningham, with 31 points, and Hal Greer, with 29, led the second half attack for Philadelphia after the 76ers trailed at halftime 69-68. It was the 66th victory against only 12 defeats for the Eastern Division champs. Gail Goodrich's 26 points was high for the Lakers.

Questions In Yankee Spring Camp

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP) — Can a rookie first baseman lead the New York Yankees out of the American League cellar?

Can the rookie play first base?

Manager Ralph Houk, who stood by helplessly as the Yankees tumbled into the cellar last year with a thud heard round the baseball world, is waiting patiently to find out if Mickey Mantle can play the new position.

Houk feels much of the team's success depends on whether he can.

Mantle, an outfielder for 16 years, has switched positions with Joe Pepitone because Houk feels Pepitone's presence in center field will stabilize the outfield and playing first could help Mantle save his battered legs.

The question of whether the 35-year-old Mantle can play first is being answered in spring training. If player or manager doesn't like how the experiment is progressing, he can end it immediately, and Pepitone will move back to first.

There's no doubt that Mantle still is better than most hitters in the league, and there's no doubt the Yankees need his bat in the line-up. They don't have too many others.

Pepitone took over the role of slugging leader last season when he hit 31 homers and drove in 83 runs. He'll also be one of the better defensive center fielders in the league and will be well supported on either side in the outfield.

Tom Tresh, who divided his time between the infield and the outfield last year, is set for left field while Houk plans on splitting right field between rookies Steve Whitaker, against right-handed pitchers, and Bill Robinson, against southpaws.

Robinson is the 23-year-old hopeful for whom the Yankees traded third baseman Clete Boyer to Atlanta. Boyer's departure left New York without any of its regular 1966 infields back for this season.

Second baseman Bobby Richardson retired, and Horace Clarke, who played a lot of shortstop, was out of position.

Clarke has returned to second, Ruben Amaro is the shortstop and Charley Smith, acquired from the Cards for Roger Maris, will be at third.

SIU In Semi's

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Giant Killers of Southern Illinois, college basketball's latest cinderella team, go after their 18th straight victory against Rutgers in the semifinals of the National Invitational Tournament tonight.

A capacity turnout of 18,000 is expected at New York's Madison Square Garden to watch the Salukis from Carbondale, Ill., play the Scarlet Knights from New Brunswick, N.J., in the feature of a doubleheader. Marshall University's Thundering Herd from Huntington, W. Va., face the Marquette Warriors from Milwaukee in the opening NIT semifinal.

Southern Illinois, which passed up the NCAA national small college tourney to go after the big boys in the NIT, whipped the St. Peter's Peacocks and the Duke Blue Devils in their first two tourney games.

Rutgers upset Utah State and New Mexico to reach the semis. Marshall put out Villanova and Nebraska while Marquette surprised Tulsa and Providence to reach the round of four.

Waiting in the wings for the NIT finalists to be decided is unbeaten UCLA, the country's No. 1 team.

The Bruins and their supersophomore, Lew Alcindor, strive for their 27th straight victory against Wyoming Friday night in one of eight second-round games at four regional sties in the NCAA tournament for the national championship.

UCLA and Wyoming meet at Corvallis, Ore., in the Far West regional doubleheader. U. of Pacific, with a 20-game winning streak, battles Texas Western, the defending champion, in the other half of the twin bill at Corvallis.

The NCAA East regional doubleheader at College Park, Md., pairs Princeton against North Carolina and Boston College against St. John's of New York.

Tennessee battles Dayton and Indiana takes on Virginia Tech in the Mideast Regional at Evanston, Ill.

In the Midwest Regional at Lawrence, Kan., it's Southern Methodist vs. Louisville and Kansas vs. Houston.

Kentucky Wesleyan, which beat Southern Illinois last year in the final of the NCAA small college championship tournament, continued its drive Wednesday night for a second straight title. The Panthers whipped Cheyney Pa., State 66-53 in the quarter-finals at Evansvile, Ind.

Winston-Salem State beat Long Island 62-54, Southwest Missouri defeated Valparaiso 86-72 and Illinois State went three overtimes before eliminating San Diego State 77-76 in the other quarter - finals.

Earl Monroe threw in 29 points for Winston-Salem for a season scoring record of 1,265. It wiped out the mark of 1,255 set by Bevo Francis of Rio Grande, Ohio, in 1954.

Kentucky Wesleyan battles Winston-Salem and Southwest Missouri tangles with Illinois State in the semifinals tonight.

Top-seeded St. Benedicts beat Southern, Ark., State 67-56 and Oklahoma Baptist, the defending champion, defeated Valdosta, Ga., State 70-62 to show the way into the quarter-finals of the NAIA national tournament at Kansas City.

In the other second round NAIA games, Eastern New Mexico beat St. Thomas, Minn., 69-67, St. Mary's of Texas eliminated Westminster, Pa., 55-53, Tennessee Wesleyan put out Midwestern of Texas 65-59, Morris Harvey defeated Chadron 91-76, Central Washington conquered Guilford 78-67 and Southwestern Louisiana humbled Central Michigan 70-62.

Three Rivers Open House Is May 7

POPLAR BLUFF -- A public open house at Three Rivers Junior College has been set for 2 p.m., May 7, and employment of the college administration and faculty is complete, with one exception, according to President H. Tudor Westover.

Still open is the post of foreign language instructor, Dr. Westover said.

The college summer session will open June 8 with about 100 students expected. A 300-student enrollment is foreseen for the fall term opening on Sept. 6, according to Mabel Swindel, dean of students and registrar.

The open house will last for three hours and officials say that building renovations and classroom furnishings are expected to be nearing completion by that date. The new college is housed in the old Poplar Bluff High School Building at 507 Vine St.

In commenting on the qualifications of the school's faculty, Dr. Jack D. Vincent, dean of college, said he considered them to be an outstanding group of instructors. All possess a minimum of a masters degree in the subject taught, and most have had substantial successful teaching experience, Dr. Vincent said.

April 11 "Deadline" For Cassius

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Come April 11, it will be Pvt. Cassius Clay, U.S. Army — maybe.

The heavyweight champion, turned down by a presidential appeals board in his efforts to remain a civilian, has been ordered to report for induction on that date.

Clay's attorneys had anticipated the decision, however, and before the induction order was made public, they had begun a new legal action.

They filed suit in U.S. District Court alleging racial discrimination by Local Board 47, Clay's Louisville draft board, and by all other Kentucky draft boards because of a racial imbalance in their makeup.

Judge James F. Gordon set March 29 for hearing arguments on whether to name a three-judge panel to hear the suit, but he refused to issue a temporary restraining order barring Clay's induction. The suit asks for a permanent injunction.

J. Allen Sherman, chairman of the local board, said he had received word Tuesday that the appeals board had turned down Clay's request for deferment as a Black Muslim minister. He said the induction notice had gone out the same day.

But Clay apparently didn't know about it until reporters told him. He is in New York training for his March 22 title defense against Zora Folley.

"If what you say is true, this is gonna be my last fight," he said. "All those people who want to see the greatest heavyweight who ever lived better come to see me now."

The usually loquacious fighter visibly shaken, added, "I don't wani to say any more. I don't want to talk to nobody. I'm gonna go see a movie and think about things."

Sherman denied that there is any racial discrimination by his board. He noted that one member, Robert Terry Downs, is a Negro. Downs' wife said he recently was appointed to the local board.

ANN LANDERS
Answers Your Questions

Dear Ann Landers: Every now and then you hit me between the eyes. You did it again yesterday when you wrote: "Some people get nothing out of therapy but big doctor bills. Others find a whole new life."

Can you tell me why this is so? I went to a psychiatrist for three months and could see no sign of progress. When I told the doctor how discouraged I was he said my attitude toward the sessions was poor and he could do nothing more for me. So I stopped going.

Now I feel I have failed again. Please tell me, Ann, why does therapy work for some people and not for others? - A LANDERS FAN

Dear Fan: Everywhere we look we find mediocrity - and less. This goes for lawyers, carpenters, hairdressers, surgeons, writers, artists, stenographers - the list is endless. Why then expect all psychiatrists to be splendid? I can tell you they are not.

Moreover, it is unrealistic to assume that every psychiatrist will click with every patient. A psychiatrist is a human being with aggressions and irritabilities and, yes - problems. If he is a competent therapist he will recognize the patients with whom he cannot establish a good relationship and turn them over to a colleague.

Your psychiatrist should not have let you go without giving some clue as to WHY you produce such a sense of hopelessness in other people (including him). My advice is to try another therapist. I have known individuals who did poorly with the first two psychiatrists but the third one produced the miracle.

Dear Ann Landers: What can a mother do when she sees her fourteen-year-old daughter making the same mistakes she made when she was fourteen?

Marnie was born out of wedlock. I was a wild, unmanagable runabout who got into every kind of trouble you can name. I wouldn't listen to anybody. I was terribly lucky to meet a saint of a man who loved me enought to forgive my past. I hope and pray Marnie will be as lucky as I was, but until she settles down I am afraid I'll lose my mind.

I've talked to Marnie many times, telling her of my own experiences, and I've begged her to learn from them. I might just as well talk to the wall.

She came home last night dead drunk. Her clothes were a mess and she wasn't making any sense. It was a miracle she remembered where she lived and which bus to take.

If you have any advice for me I would appreciate it very much - HISTORY REPEATING ITSELF.

Dear History: Get some outside help for Marnie immediately. A fourteen-year-old who comes home dead drunk is clearly out of control. Getting her on the right track will require the guidance of someone with whom she has no emotional attachment.

Confidential to Do You Believe In Luck? Of course I believe in luck. How else can you explain the success of people you don't like?

If you have trouble getting along with your parents...if you can't get them to let you live your own life, send for Ann Landers' booklet, "Bugged By Parents? How to Get More Freedom." Send 50¢ in coin with your request and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

SIU In Semi's

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Giant Killers of Southern Illinois, college basketball's latest cinderella team, go after their 18th straight victory against Rutgers in the semifinals of the National Invitational Tournament tonight.

A capacity turnout of 18,000 is expected at New York's Madison Square Garden to watch the Salukis from Carbondale, Ill., play the Scarlet Knights from New Brunswick, N.J., in the feature of a doubleheader. Marshall University's Thundering Herd from Huntington, W. Va., face the Marquette Warriors from Milwaukee in the opening NIT semifinal.

Southern Illinois, which passed up the NCAA national small college tourney to go after the big boys in the NIT, whipped the St. Peter's Peacocks and the Duke Blue Devils in their first two tourney games.

Rutgers upset Utah State and New Mexico to reach the semis. Marshall put out Villanova and Nebraska while Marquette surprised Tulsa and Providence to reach the round of four.

Waiting in the wings for the NIT finalists to be decided is unbeaten UCLA, the country's No. 1 team.

The Bruins and their supersophomore, Lew Alcindor, strive for their 27th straight vic tory against Wyoming Friday night in one of eight second-round games at four regional sties in the NCAA tournament for the national championship.

UCLA and Wyoming meet at Corvallis, Ore., in the Far West regional doubleheader. U. of Pacific, with a 20-game winning streak, battles Texas Western, the defending champion, in the other half of the twin bill at Corvallis.

The NCAA East regional doubleheader at College Park, Md., pairs Princeton against North Carolina and Boston College against St. John's of New York.

Tennessee battles Dayton and Indiana takes on Virginia Tech in the Mideast Regional at Evanston, Ill.

In the Midwest Regional at Lawrence, Kan., it's Southern Methodist vs. Louisville and Kansas vs. Houston.

Kentucky Wesleyan, which beat Southern Illinois last year in the final of the NCAA small college championship tournament, continued its drive Wednesday night for a second straight title. The Panthers whipped Cheyney Pa., State 66-53 in the quarter-finals at Evansvile, Ind.

Winston-Salem State beat Long Island 62-54, Southwest Missouri defeated Valparaiso 86-72 and Illinois State went three overtimes before eliminating San Diego Stare 77-76 in the other quarter - finals.

Earl Monroe threw in 29 points for Winston-Salem for a season scoring record of 1,265. It wiped out the mark of 1,255 set by Bevo Francis of Rio Grande, Ohio, in 1954.

Kentucky Wesleyan battles Winston-Salem and Southwest Missouri tangles with Illinois State in the semifinals tonight.

Top-seeded St. Benedicts beat Southern, Ark., State 67-56 and Oklahoma Baptist, the defending champion, defeated Valdosta, Ga., State 70-62 to show the way into the quarter-finals of the NAIA national tournament at Kansas City.

In the other second round NAIA games, Eastern New Mexico beat St. Thomas, Minn., 69-67, St. Mary's of Texas eliminated Westminster, Pa., 55-53, Tennessee Wesleyan put out Midwestern of Texas 65-59, Morris Harvey defeated Chadron 91-76, Central Washington conquered Guilford 78-67 and Southwestern Louisiana humbled Central Michigan 70-62.

Three Rivers Open House Is May 7

POPLAR BLUFF -- A public open house at Three Rivers Junior College has been set for 2 p.m., May 7, and employment of the college administration and faculty is complete, with one exception, according to President H. Tudor Westover.

Still open is the post of foreign language instructor, Dr. Westover said.

The college summer session will open June 8 with about 100 students expected. A 300-student enrollment is foreseen for the fall term opening on Sept. 6, according to Mabel Swindel, dean of students and registrar.

The open house will last for three hours and officials say that building renovations and classroom furnishings are expected to be nearing completion by that date. The new college is housed in the old Poplar Bluff High School Building at 507 Vine St.

In commenting on the qualifications of the school's faculty, Dr. Jack D. Vincent, dean of college, said he considered them to be an outstanding group of instructors. All possess a minimum of a masters degree in the subject taught, and most have had substantial successful teaching experience, Dr. Vincent said.

April 11 "Deadline" For Cassius

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Come April 11, it will be Pvt. Cassius Clay, U.S. Army — maybe.

The heavyweight champion, turned down by a presidential appeals board in his efforts to remain a civilian, has been ordered to report for induction on that date.

Clay's attorneys had anticipated the decision, however, and before the induction order was made public, they had begun a new legal action.

They filed suit in U.S. District Court alleging racial discrimination by Local Board 47, Clay's Louisville draft board, and by all other Kentucky draft boards because of a racial imbalance in their makeup.

Judge James F. Gordon set March 29 for hearing arguments on whether to name a three-judge panel to hear the suit, but he refused to issue a temporary restraining order barring Clay's induction. The suit asks for a permanent injunction.

J. Allen Sherman, chairman of the local board, said he had received word Tuesday that the appeals board had turned down Clay's request for deferment as a Black Muslim minister. He said the induction notice had gone out the same day.

But Clay apparently didn't know about it until reporters told him. He is in New York training for his March 22 title defense against Zora Folley.

"If what you say is true, this is gonna be my last fight," he said. "All those people who want to see the greatest heavyweight who ever lived better come to see me now."

The usually loquacious fighter visibly shaken, added, "I don't want to say any more. I don't want to talk to nobody. I'm gonna go see a movie and think about things."

Sherman denied that there is any racial discrimination by his board. He noted that one member, Robert Terry Downs, is a Negro. Downs' wife said he recently was appointed to the local board.

AN EQUAL OPPORTUNITY EMPLOYER

ANN LANDERS
Answers Your Questions

Dear Ann Landers: Every now and then you hit me between the eyes. You did it again yesterday when you wrote: "Some people get nothing out of therapy but big doctor bills. Others find a whole new life."

Can you tell me why this is so? I went to a psychiatrist for three months and could see no sign of progress. When I told the doctor how discouraged I was he said my attitude toward the sessions was poor and he could do nothing more for me. So I stopped going.

Now I feel I have failed again. Please tell me, Ann, why does therapy work for some people and not for others? - A LANDERS FAN

Dear Fan: Everywhere we look we find mediocrity - and less. This goes for lawyers, carpenters, hairdressers, surgeons, writers, artists, stenographers - the list is endless. Why then expect all psychiatrists to be splendid? I can tell you they are not.

Moreover, it is unrealistic to assume that every psychiatrist will click with every patient. A psychiatrist is a human being with aggressions and irritabilities and, yes - problems. If he is a competent therapist he will recognize the patients with whom he cannot establish a good relationship and turn them over to a colleague.

Your psychiatrist should not have let you go without giving some clue as to WHY you produce such a sense of hopelessness in other people (including him). My advice is to try another therapist. I have known individuals who did poorly with the first two psychiatrists but the third one produced the miracle.

Dear Ann Landers: What can a mother do when she sees her fourteen-year-old daughter making the same mistakes she made when she was fourteen?

Marnie was born out of wedlock. I was a wild, unmanagable runabout who got into every kind of trouble you can name. I wouldn't listen to anybody. I was terribly lucky to meet a saint of a man who loved me enough to forgive my past. I hope and pray Marnie will be as lucky as I was, but until she settles down I am afraid I'll lose my mind.

I've talked to Marnie many times, telling her of my own experiences, and I've begged her to learn from them. I might just as well talk to the wall.

She came home last night dead drunk. Her clothes were a mess and she wasn't making any sense. It was a miracle she remembered where she lived and which bus to take.

If you have any advice for me I would appreciate it very much - HISTORY REPEATING ITSELF.

Dear History: Get some outside help for Marnie immediately. A fourteen-year-old who comes home dead drunk is clearly out of control. Getting her on the right track will require the guidance of someone with whom she has no emotional attachment.

Confidential to Do You Believe In Luck? Of course I believe in luck. How else can you explain the success of people you don't like?

If you have trouble getting along with your parents...if you can't get them to let you live your own life, send for Ann Landers' booklet, "Bugged By Parents? How to Get More Freedom." Send 50¢ in coin with your request and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

About Our Schools

By Lynn Twitty

The overwhelming support, given in the election last week, for the bond issue to improve the schools, should be a source of gratification to everyone in the community. It indicates that the citizens here want good schools for their children. It indicates a forward looking, progressive community outlook. While those of us who work for the schools have no greater stake than does any other citizen in school improvement, certainly the support given the board plan encourages us to do our best to make the school progress which the people desire.

We believe, also, that the community's overwhelmingly support for the plan for improvement is, in a way, a vote of confidence in the program that is being maintained by the board of education. It indicates approval for the board's policy to provide the best schools which are possible in the circumstances under which we operate.

Personally, as the executive officer for the board of education, we appreciate the fine turnout of voters and the belief in education as indicated last week. We are grateful to all those who helped to inform the voters and to encourage our patrons to express themselves via the ballot box.

Among organizations who especially helped in this respect are the Chamber of Commerce, the Junior Chamber of Commerce, the Citizens Advisory Council for Schools, members of the Ministerial Alliance, the Optimist Club, the Kiwanis Club, the Lions Club, the Rotary Club, the PTA Council, the various school PTA's, the Sikeston Community Teacher's Association, and many other individuals and organizations.

We are now faced with the job of completing plans for the building program, of getting bids, letting contracts, supervising construction, etc. relative to accomplishment of the school improvement desired by the community. With the community's help, we will do so to the best of our collective ability. We will continue to work with individuals and community groups in our effort to get the most value for the taxpayers dollar.

At a meeting of industrial, business, professional and labor leaders held in St. Louis recently, dissatisfaction was expressed concerning present day education.

"We need to develop whole new methods of teaching people," one businessman said.

"Most of our school systems are obsolete today" a labor leader stated.

Another statement, "There is some question as to whether educators have pioneered effectively enough."

Another criticism was that educators are not applying the advancements in teaching students the skills needed in modern industry.

To some extent, we agree with these criticisms. Too many schools are content to use the same methods, year after year. Some rarely change the curriculum. Some make little attempt to upgrade teaching skills. Some make no attempt to learn what other schools are doing, about better methods, new techniques, research findings, nor do they send their administrators and faculty members to conventions where better methods of education are being considered. There are many other things that are wrong with our schools, and some of these apply to all schools, ours included.

On the other hand, there are a considerable number of reasons for the lack of educational progress such as: not enough funds, general lack of interest in quality education, backward administrators and school boards, inadequately trained teachers, unimaginative teachers, the community reluctance to accept change or to demand it. We suspect that some of these reasons also handicaps our schools.

On the positive side, and we may be biased!, we are strongly of the opinion that our community is generally in support of educational improvement. Their approval of the bond issue last week proves this. Our board of education is insistent in its demands that those of us who work for the schools continue to experiment, to change and to provide ever better education. Our teachers participate in workshops, in a continuous in-service training program, they attend meetings and conventions, they visit other schools, in the main they are highly professional. It is true we are handicapped by having an extremely low tax base per pupil enrolled. We do not have enough money to spend per pupil on that child's education to anywhere nearly approach the national average. In fact our expenditure last year was at least $150.00 below the national average per pupil cost. We are about $100.00 below the stage average in per pupil cost. But with the backing of an educationally minded community and a board that is determined to get the most in education for each tax dollar, we are at least striving toward better education for our students.

The annual school election will be held Tuesday, April 4. At that time two school board members will be elected and we will vote on the tax levy to operate the schools for the next four year period.

The tax levy to be voted on will be: a $1.20 levy for the teacher's fund and a $1.00 levy for the incidental fund. With the debt - service levy, required to pay principal and interest on bonds and a building fund levy which is established by the board, the total tax levy will be $4.00 on the $100.00 of assessed valuation. There will be no increase. This is exactly the same levy that has been voted for two past four year periods.

Polling places will be: Airport School, Lee Hunter School, Lincoln School, Matthews School, Senior High School and Southwest School. (Note: The Senior High School has been established as a new polling place.)

The election officials will be selected by the school PTA's as has been a past practice. Polls will be open from 6:00 A.M. to 7:00 P.M.

The passage of the above mentioned levy, necessary if the schools are to operate, requires a two-thirds majority. We urge all patrons to continue their support of better schools by approving the levy. We emphasize there will be no increase in the tax rate.

Easter vacation will begin at the close of school Thursday, March 23. School will resume Wednesday morning March 29.

The board of education is considering lengthening next year's Easter Vacation to one week, ending on Easter Sunday. The school will be lengthened next year to provide for three days of teacher workshops or in-service training, during which time the children will be dismissed. The purpose of this change is to improve the instructional program. In order to do so it will be necessary that school open about a week prior to last year's opening date. The exact dates have not been established, but will be announced as soon as they have been.

Forty nine million, nine hundred thousand children are enrolled in public elementary and secondary schools this year. This is about one million more than during the previous school term. These are approximately 1,700,000 teachers and the total expenditures for the nation's schools last year amounted to about $27,-700,000,000.00.

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE

By Jack Strass L.L.D.

THE CASE OF THE YO-YO CRIMINAL

Temperamental Benny was 90 per cent temper and 10 per cent mental. Consequently, while standing trial for a crime, he heaved a chair at the District Attorney for making an uncomplimentary statement about him. . .and was given a year in jail for contempt of court.

Benny's luck, however, went up and down like a yo-yo. After being sentenced for contempt of court, the jury acquitted him of the crime for which he had been standing trial. Whereupon, he found himself back in the soup when the District Attorney had him charged with assault and battery for having thrown the chair at him.

"Benny could have killed me with that chair," the D. A. told the Judge. "He's just a bad piece of timber with grain of assault."

"I was already given a year in jail for heaving that chair," protested Benny. "To punish me twice for the same crime is unconstitutional."

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you let the boom be lowered on Benny twice?

This is how the Judge ruled! The Judge held that the double jeopardy provision of the 5th Amendment does not bar a person from being punished twice for the same crime. Rather, it protects him from having to stand trial twice for the same crime.

In this case, the Judge concluded, Benny was not required to stand trial twice for the same crime since, when he was sentenced for contempt of court, no trial was involved. To make him stand trial for assault and battery, therefore, does not constitute double jeopardy.

Forest Reservoir Area Funds Sought

WASHINGTON (AP) - A Missouri delegation urged a House appropriations subcommittee today to provide funds to begin construction of a forest service reservoir on Big River in Clark National Park.

Congressional sources said the group is hopeful $900,000 will be made available for the year beginning July 1. Funds to develop the reservoir area for recreation and other purposes would be sought later.

The project would have a 400-acre pool and a 13-mile shoreline.

In a statement for the subcommittee, James F. Gamble, executive vice president of the Meramec Basin Association, said completion of the project, also known as Council Bluff Lake, would meet pressing needs in the area.

The reservoir is one of 17 being proposed in Clark National Forest as part of a Meramec Basin development program.

Three Will Mediate I-55 Land Dispute

CARUTHERSVILLE -- The dispute between the Missouri state highway department and the owners of condemned property south of Portageville to north of Hayti will be studied by three commissioners appointed by Circuit Judge William L. Ragland.

Appointed were Harold Hinchey of Caruthersville, Paul Still of Steele and Wilburn Mathis of Hayti.

It will be the responsibility of the commissioners to determine what compensation is to be awarded the landowners.

The case involves property which has been condemned for extension of interstate 55.

The commissioners have established an office in the Hayti city hall.

The land will be inspected Thursday and Friday by the commissioners, representatives of the state highway department, and the landowners or their attorneys.

Liquor Control Supervisor Named

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) - Harry Wiggins, 33, Kansas City has been appointed state liquor control supervisor.

He will succeed Milton Saitz, who resigned as acting supervisor to return to private law practice in St. Louis.

The appointment was announced Tuesday by Gov. Warren E. Hearnes.

Pepsi-Cola cold beats any cola cold!

Drink Pepsi cold—the colder the better. Pepsi-Cola's taste was created for the cold. That special Pepsi taste comes alive in the cold. Drenching, quenching taste that never gives out before your thirst gives in. Pepsi pours it on!

Taste that beats the others cold... Pepsi pours it on!

• CARDS OF THANKS 25

WORDS CANNOT BEGIN TO express our heartfelt thanks for the blood donors, Rev. J. C. Thedford's spiritual guidance, beautiful music, expressions of sympathy, beautiful floral offerings and the ladies of Kewanee and New Madrid for the delicious food, during the illness and death of our beloved husband and father.

Only those who have had this loving kindness when they needed it, can understand our feelings toward all of you.

The Prayer From The Upper Room

As far as the east is from the west, so far does he remove our transgressions from us. (Psalm 103;12, RSV)

PRAYER: O God, help us to guard against cutting off our communication and companionship with Thee. For sins committed in thought and in deed, grant us forgiveness. Teach us to accept Thy forgiveness with rejoicing and be governed by the desire to live to Thine honor and for Thy glory; through Christ our Lord. Amen.

Looking Back Over The Years

Today In U. S. History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Thursday, March 16, the 75th day of 1967. There are 290 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1802, Congress established the U.S. military Academy at West Point, N.Y.

On this date:

In 1751, James Madison, the fourth U.S. president, was born.

In 1908, the city of London honored nurse Florence Nightingale.

In 1943, American bombers attacked Japanese installations in the Aleutian Islands.

In 1945, the U.S. 3rd and 7th Armies were closing a pincers on the Saar Basin in Germany.

In 1946, a Senate committee voted to give the president direct control over the production of atomic bombs.

Ten years ago — Britain was hit by a crippling strike when some 200,000 shipyard employees walked out in a demand by the Confederation of Shipbuilding and Engineer Unions for a 10 per cent wage hike.

Five years ago — Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev said Russian scientists had developed "global rockets" that he said were invulnerable to anti-missile missiles.

One year ago — Gemini 8 astronauts, Neil Armstrong and David Scott were rescued after making an emergency landing in the Pacific Ocean. Just before the emergency however, Armstrong and Scott had performed the first successful rendezvous in space of two orbiting vehicles, their own craft and an Agena target rocket.

Otters are found on all continents except Australia.
